THE COURTS.

The Cauldwell Drawback Fraud Case—Counterfeiters Sentenced—Charge of Rifling Letters—Dealing with Pickpockets in the Court of General Sessions.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT.

The Cauldwell Bail Case.
Before Judge Benedict.

The United States vs. —— Cauldwell.—The defendant, who is charged with complicity in the drawback frauds, had his case up yesterday on motion for bail. On Saturday last bail was offered in $25,000, Mr. Robert Boyle offering to justify in that amount. Mr. District Attorney Purdy, however, objected to one surety, and asked the Court to fix the bail at $25,000 in two sureties. The Court granted the motion, and at the same time issued an order restraining Commissioner Betts from accepting Boyle, who, it is stated, has already given bail bonds in this court covering $180,000.

Sentenced.

The United States vs. John Higgins.—The defendant was indicted May 19 for having by fraud and deception obtained from a clerk in the Post Office in this city a certain letter, containing an article of value. Defendant pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to be imprisoned for two months and to pay a fine of one dollar.

The United States vs. Wallace Crosby and Samuel Brown.—The defendants were indicted for having in their possession on the first Monday of April last counterfeit twenty dollar notes on the Oneida National Bank of Utica, with intent to pass the same and thereby defraud the government of the United States. The defendants being separately arraigned, pleaded guilty, and were each sentenced to imprisonment, with hard labor, in the Kings County Penitentiary for four years, and to pay a fine of one dollar.

The United States vs. Peter Chevanne.—The defendant was convicted at the present term of the Circuit Court on an indictment charging him with having in his possession, on the first Monday of April last, certain false, forged and counterfeited revenue stamps, with intent to defraud the United States. Sentenced to be imprisoned and kept at hard labor in Kings county jail for three years and to pay a fine of one dollar.

The Case of Ethelred Woodward—Sentence Deferred.

The United States vs. Ethelred Woodward.—The defendant was convicted on Thursday last of passing and having in his possession with intent to pass counterfeit United States currency. Yesterday his counsel, Mr. Parris, ex-United States District Attorney, moved for a new trial, on the ground of newly discovered evidence. Judge Benedict denied the motion, but deferred sentence till next Saturday week, giving in the interval time for the examination before a Commissioner of the two witnesses upon whose testimony Woodward was convicted, and who are now themselves charged with selling large quantities of counterfeit money.

UNITED STATES COMMISSIONERS' OFFICE.

The Swiss Extradition Case.
Before Commissioner Shields.

In the Matter of the Extradition of Francois Perez.—The defendant, a native of Switzerland, is charged with having forged certain promissory notes, with intent to defraud citizens of the republic of Switzerland, contrary to the laws of such republic. The particulars of the arrest and the charge have been already published at length in the HERALD. The examination is fixed for to-morrow, at twelve noon.

Charge of Rifling Letters.

The United States vs. John G. Mercer.—The defendant, a youth of seventeen, was charged yesterday with having abstracted letters from the Post Office and converting the money they contained to his own use. Defendant waived examination, and in default of $2,000 bail was held to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Counterfeiters Held for Examination.
Before Commissioner Osborn.

The United States vs. John Candle and George Marshall.—The defendants were, some time ago, witnesses against one Ethelred Woodward, charged with selling, and having in his possession with intent to sell, $1,000 of counterfeit notes of United States currency. Woodward on the testimony of the present defendants was convicted in the Circuit Court, and was yesterday called up for sentence. Woodward's counsel, Mr. Parris, ex-United States Assistant District Attorney, was in court, and learning that the witnesses upon whose testimony his client had been convicted had been arrested, asked for a suspension of sentence till after the defendants' examination. Judge Benedict granted the motion, and Woodward was remanded to the custody of the Marshal. The defendants when arrested had in their possession fifteen thousand dollars' (supposed) worth of altered and counterfeit notes. They were brought up before Commissioner Osborn, who fixed their examination for Wednesday next.

SUPREME COURT—CIRCUIT—PART 2.

Damages Against a Railroad Company.
Before Judge Brady and a Jury.

Tracey E. Roberts vs. The Toledo and Wabash Railroad Company.—The action in this case was for $100,000 damages for injuries, resulting in disability for life, received by plaintiff while riding on defendant's road. Mr. Roberts left this city in January, 1865, being called West on business matters. From his connection with the United States Express Company he obtained a pass. He travelled on this pass until, on his return journey, having arrived at Indianapolis, the Eastern terminus of the road, he tore up his pass, believing at the time that he had no further use for it. Soon after, however, he again found it necessary to go to Crawfordsville. At Lafayette a car in an ill-conditioned state and of a different company was attached to the train and defendant took a seat in it. When about two miles out of Lafayette this car, while passing over a switch-frog, ran off the track, was overturned, dragged some distance, and Mr. Roberts, who was sitting near the stove, was very badly burned and had his thigh dislocated. On being taken to a hotel a surgeon was procured by the company, who treated plaintiff for a sprain; but after the lapse of some weeks his friends in this city sent Dr. Swinburne to attend him, who found that his hip was dislocated and the ball out of its socket. He was brought to this city and an operation was performed, which was unsuccessful. It ended in his injured leg being shorter than the other, and it was four months after the accident that he became sufficiently well to be able to attend to business. This was the plaintiff's story.

The defence deny any negligence in the cause of the accident, and state that plaintiff was travelling on a free pass, which precludes any action for damages. They further allege that the dislocation of the hip was occasioned by a fall while plaintiff was endeavoring to walk before his complete recovery.

The case was begun on Monday, the 23d inst., and was only concluded yesterday. The Court charged that the jury should treat the defendants as they would a private individual. If they found plaintiff was travelling on a pass the defendants were not responsible. If not, and that they considered the company guilty of culpable negligence, then they should regulate the damages according to the opinion they had of plaintiff's injuries and sufferings. The jury, after being out for two and a half hours, returned a verdict for plaintiff in the sum of $6,000.

SUPREME COURT—SPECIAL TERM.

The Demarest Divorce Suit.
Before Judge Ingraham.

Sarah E. Demarest vs. Garrett A. Demarest.—This was an action for divorce on the ground of adultery. The facts have already appeared in the HERALD. Yesterday Judge Ingraham decided to deny the judgment of divorce, stating that the only evidence of adultery being given by a person of bad character, and there being some evidence of condonation, he did not consider it proper to grant it.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.

Pickpockets Sent to the State Prison.
Before Recorder Hackett.

Assistant District Attorney Tweed appeared for the prosecution yesterday and disposed of a very large number of cases.

Charles Middleworth, alias John Thompson (a colored youth), pleaded guilty to stealing, on the 20th inst., four carpets, valued at $250, the property of Sarah Dodge. The Recorder stated he had received information that the prisoner was a bad fellow, and as there was another indictment against him his Honor sent him to the State Prison for four years and six months.

Mary Flanagan (a professional pickpocket) pleaded guilty to larceny from the person. On the 12th inst. she stole a pocketbook, containing eight dollars, from Jane Randwitz. She was sentenced to the State Prison for four years and six months.

Robert Adel pleaded guilty to stealing a gold watch and chain from Gustavus Cohen, on the 20th inst., and was sent to the Penitentiary for two years and six months.

Edward Langley pleaded guilty to an attempt at grand larceny. He was detected in the act of taking a few pennies out of the money drawer in the office of George Hagemeyer. The sentence was three months in the Penitentiary.

Sylvester Crowley was tried upon a charge of burglariously entering the premises of Simon Levy, 60 Baxter street, but the testimony was insufficient to sustain the indictment and he was discharged.

LARCENY AT THE HUDSON RIVER RAILROAD DEPOT.

Michael Eagan was tried upon a charge of grand larceny. He was jointly indicted with three others, two of whom escaped at the time he was arrested. It appeared that on the 15th of April five rolls of tapestry carpet were sent by A. T. Stewart & Co. to the Hudson River Railroad depot, directed to Allen & Mackey, Chicago, and that from information received a detective officer proceeded to a pier at the foot of Fifty-fifth street, and saw the prisoner and some others take this property out of a boat and place it on a wagon. He followed Eagan through several streets, and upon arresting him he handed a loaded revolver to a friend who stepped up at the time, remarking, "I am dead to rights; shoot him." The sergeant in command testified that Beck—the boy who drove the wagon—when brought to the station house, identified Eagan as the man who gave him written directions to carry the property to a house in Stanton street.

The counsel for the defence called a sister of the prisoner to prove that Eagan was home on the evening before his arrest, and he himself testified that upon the following morning he left his house for the purpose of looking for work. He stated that he handed the pistol to his friend because he thought he would be sent up for six months, because he carried a weapon, and, when cross-examined by Mr. Tweed, admitted that he served two years in the Penitentiary for grand larceny.

The jury deliberated for a brief period, and rendered a verdict of guilty. Recorder Hackett, in passing sentence, said that Eagan belonged to a very dangerous class in this community, and that it was his duty to put the prisoner out of the way as long as he could. Eagan was sent to the State Prison for five years.

The following is the calendar for to-day:—The People vs. John Addison, William Degraw, Thomas Casey, burglary; Same vs. Patrick Daly, felonious assault and battery; Same vs. William Messie, false pretences; Same vs. John McDermott, George Williamson, John W. Dickel, Edward Tacker, Isaac Dryfous, Charles R. Thomas, Edward Miller, grand larceny.

THE PROTESTANT MOVEMENT IN MEXICO.

Rapid Strides of the Missions—Interesting Details of the Advance of Religious Tolerance.

The Methodist Preachers' Association was entertained yesterday by the Rev. Dr. Butler, the Rev. Mr. Riley and Major Brown, who delivered addresses on the growth of Protestantism in Mexico. From these addresses it appears that there are now in that country fifty-two Protestant congregations, where, a few years ago, a Protestant was denied the rights of Christian sepulture. The American and Foreign Christian Union six years ago sent out Miss Rankin, a pious and educated New England lady, who was very kindly received among the Mexicans, and she has organized and now superintends fourteen societies. Up to that time, and, indeed, until the downfall of Maximilian, a minister of a Protestant denomination could not gain a hearing among them, but there existed gallantry enough among them to secure a lady from persecution and insult. Since that time, the government of President Juarez has guaranteed civil and religious liberty to all, and though they have to bear local persecutions and insults, the cause still progresses favorably. Five priests have been converted, and there are a great many native young men anxious to enter the mission field, provided they can be guaranteed merely support to the extent of about $250 a year. The venerable and eloquent Ponce de Leon, who is looked upon as a second St. Paul, travels everywhere preaching and organizing societies, and all that he receives is ten dollars a month. Eighteen months ago the Rev. Henry C. Riley, pastor of the Spanish-American church of this city, and a native of South America, was sent out to superintend the Protestant congregations in Mexico. His command of the Spanish language (his vernacular), let him at once into sympathy with the Mexicans, and he has organized thirty-eight congregations and maintained Protestant worship among them at his own expense. Himself and Major Brown, who has spent six years in Mexico, are now here appealing to the American churches for aid to purchase church edifices for these congregations. The republican government of Juarez having confiscated the church and convent property of the Roman Catholic Church, offers for sale such as are not needed for the actual wants of Catholic congregations, and the fund created by this sale is pledged to the support of popular education throughout the republic. These advocates of Mexican Protestantism during their brief visit here have raised $16,000 for this purpose. A wealthy Jew, in Monterey, to show his appreciation of what Protestantism has done for his race, paid $5,000 in gold for one of the finest Jesuit churches in that city, and donated it to the Protestants, and a congregation of over 2,000 persons worship therein every Sabbath day.

The family of Señor Romero, one of the wealthiest in the city of Mexico, have established a church in their house which now numbers fifty-five members. A year ago Mr. Riley visited them and preached in their parlor to a few friends gathered there. Subsequently Mrs. Romero procured a Bible, and while reading the Ten Commandments she found that every one of them had been violated by the priests of the Catholic Church, and that the second, forbidding idolatry, had been omitted altogether. She immediately destroyed her pictures of the Virgin and saints and over the mantel in her parlor placed a portrait of the Mexican eagle, surrounded by the Ten Commandments. Her husband afterwards became a convert and is now one of the leaders of Protestantism. Other interesting incidents were related and the American churches were invited to aid in the growth of Protestantism in Mexico.

MARITAL BRUISES.

A Wife Cruelly Beaten by a Blind Husband—Ante-Mortem Statement.

Captain Kennedy, of the Sixth precinct, yesterday called upon Coroner Keenan and requested him to take the ante-mortem statement of Ann Costello, who was lying at her residence, No. 48 Mulberry street, in a very dangerous condition from the effects of violence at the hands of her husband, Florence Costello, a blind beggar. Both Costello and his wife are of intemperate habits and quarrelsome dispositions. He has been in the habit while drunk of brutally beating and abusing his wife, so that her cries for help could be heard by all the occupants in the house. On Sunday night Costello was more than usually brutal, and seemed determined to take her life with a heavy stick which he kept in his room. Costello beat his wife on the head and about the body till she was helpless and almost insensible. On hearing of the affair Captain Kennedy arrested the brutal husband and locked him up. Dr. Harrington was called to attend the injured woman, and found her suffering from congestion of the brain, the result of the violence she had received. In the doctor's opinion she is in a very precarious condition, and her recovery is extremely doubtful. Mrs. Costello was removed to Bellevue Hospital in an ambulance, where, if able, her statement will be taken.

POLITICAL NOTES.

"Ambush" is the name of a colored barber running for Congress in the Cuyahoga (Ohio) district. It is said the radicals are "laying" for him.

W. A. Richardson, ex-Congressman, says he won't vote for the new constitution of Illinois because it permits negro suffrage. In short, he means to make W-A-R upon it in toto.

Isn't it about time that that Georgia Bullock was hauled up to the bull ring?

There seems to be a split among the democracy in the New Albany (Ind.) Congressional district, now represented by M. C. Kerr.

It is asserted that Pottawattamie county, Ind., has gone for Palmer as against Kasson for Congress in the Fifth district. It not unfrequently happens that the aspirant for Congressional honors goes to "pot" in a political sense. But in this instance it seems that old "Pot" goes for a favorite candidate of her own.

The name of E. P. Ross, of Auburn, having been named in connection with the State Comptrollership, made vacant by the election of Comptroller Allen to the Court of Appeals, Mr. Ross positively and publicly declines the appointment. The name of Hon. A. P. Nichols, of Buffalo, is also named in the same connection. Governor Hoffman makes the appointment.

New York Election—May 17, 1870—State Complete.

The following are the majorities at the late election in this State:—Democratic majority on Chief Justice, 87,206; Folger over Andrews, 1,752; Andrews over Mason, 877; Andrews over Hale, 2,820. Folger and Andrews, republicans, are elected as the two minority Associate Judges.

Official vote of the city:—Church (democrat), 82,152; Selden (republican), 22,187. Church's majority, 59,965.

THE HERRING FLEET.—Five vessels of the Magdalen Island herring fleet arrived home on Monday and two on Tuesday. The balance of the fleet will soon be along. This fishery has proved an entire failure this season, the vessels being unable to find herring and returning home virtually empty. The failure of this branch of the fisheries this season entails a large loss upon Gloucester. The herring made their appearance on the coast and in the rivers fully a month earlier than usual and had disappeared before the vessels put in an appearance at their usual haunts at this season. The fleet from the other fishing towns of New England, though much smaller than the Gloucester fleet, met with the same ill success.—Gloucester Telegraph, May 26.

DECLINE OF THE LONDON NEWSPAPERS.

[From the London Economist, May 14.]

Unless we are greatly mistaken—and we have watched the process for many years and have no interests to blind our judgment—a great change is passing over the position of the metropolitan press. It is decidedly and visibly losing influence, vigor and circulation. The number of daily papers published in London declines, their proprietors are less energetic, and the regard of the mass of the people for their opinions daily tends to diminish. Of the first fact any of our readers can judge easily for themselves. Two papers—the Star and the morning Pall Mall Gazette—have died within the year, and four within the last few years, and no civilized capital has now so few daily journals as this enormous city. There are but six morning papers in all, two of these, the Advertiser and the Post, are supported mainly by class connections of a somewhat artificial kind, and of the remainder two are believed, probably without justice, almost to monopolize popular appreciation. The total circulation of them all is certainly not equal to a third of the circulation an observer would predicate for them, and is probably not equal to half that of the Paris or New York press. There is at the same time no sign of new enterprises, and, for reasons we intend to examine, extremely little inclination towards speculation in London newspapers. The second fact—the decaying energy of proprietors—is scarcely less patent. The news department of the journals seems of late to have been starved. Only two journals have anything like a good foreign staff; only one seems to have a provincial staff of any kind; and the telegraph wire is almost unused. The mass of information which a journal like the NEW YORK HERALD, for example, will publish any morning—fresh news from all parts of the world, whole columns of telegrams by cable, letters from all the cities of the Union—seem wonderful to men who study the London newspapers and note how they are filled. Nothing now is well reported in them except parliamentary proceedings, which are well reported because it is traditional to report them well; and members complain—we know not with what justice—that even these grow worse and worse. Of municipal news there is next to nothing; of county news nothing at all unconnected with imperial politics. In the whole London press there is not so much as a letter from Scotland, while Manchester might be almost on the verge of civil war without London knowing that anything had occurred in Manchester. In fact, to describe plainly a fact long commented on in society, London newspapers are in most departments badly done—do not contain the information their readers desire and would give money to obtain. On the third point there will exist of course much difference of opinion, but the truth can, we believe, be demonstrated. The people of the great cities are ceasing to care to take the London papers or to read them, or to feel much interest about them. Time was when the London journals were the only papers which exercised any political power, which formed opinion or which could be relied on to reflect the views of the majority of electors. Men repeated the Times to you as their opinion, and to quote the ideas of a provincial paper was to commit an absurdity. Now it is doubtful whether provincial papers do not reflect opinion more accurately than London papers, and certain that no journal does more than help to form it. The entire London press, even when unanimous, is frequently defeated, and often advises action which the House of Commons, pressed by other influences, declines altogether to endorse. Marked instances of such failure are the continued career of the Home Secretary, who has no friend in the press, and the apparent breakdown of the furious demand for interference in Greece—a demand to which the country press, uninfluenced by a personal knowledge of the victims, made a comparatively feeble response. The change is a very great one, and will have great political results, and it may be worth while to examine its more probable causes.

We believe that the political importance of London itself has very seriously declined. Twenty years ago—and still more forty years ago—the political importance of London society was very great, indeed so great as to be almost overruling. The opinion of a limited class, living on a rather confined district, alarmed Ministers, affected the House of Commons, and surely, though slowly, influenced the whole country. News came first from that class. The papers which reflected their views gave the tone to all discussion. The clubs, which were full of their thoughts, were the clubs whose thoughts it was needful for whippers-in and editors to ascertain. This power has passed away. If a new Mr. Barnes sought in all clubs to hear what Englishmen thought of a new Queen's trial he would, in all human probability, hit upon a view his countrymen would immediately reject. The opinion of Belgravia, though still socially influential, is politically valueless—is not the opinion which will ultimately guide affairs. That region, for example, was never more unanimous than on the merit of Mr. Forster's Education bill, yet it has been found extremely difficult to pass that measure. Power has passed to an electorate which does not take its views from London society, or even from London—which prefers its own views, its own politics, and, to a growing extent, its own men. There is even a dislocation of ideas between London and the provinces so great that an article reflecting very accurately the ideas of the club world is criticised in Manchester or Birmingham because it reflects them, as an expression to be scrutinized with something of hostility, not accepted as a guide. At the same time, while their opinions have thus lost weight, the London journals have lost their ancient monopoly of news. The telegraph has equalized the position of almost all localities. Birmingham knows everything of importance as soon as Belgravia, and Edinburg reads the gossip of the lobbies at the moment when it is being read in London. Indeed, Birmingham is apt to hear the news first of the two, for the country dailies, unembarrassed by some London expenses, are liberal in collecting news, are interested about it, and succeed to a remarkable extent in obtaining it. For the same reason the local papers pay well, the proprietors find it to their interest to buy good writing, their employés are less hampered by the invisible chains of London "society," and their leaders tend to improve—have improved, indeed, so rapidly, that there are now provincial dailies which, as vehicles of general information, surpass all but the very best of their London rivals. While, therefore, London declines, the provinces advance, until, in the North more especially, there is a perceptible transfer of journalistic power.

This transfer is greatly accelerated by the great difficulties which now impede London journalism, considered as a trade. Probably no trade is under certain circumstances so profitable; certainly none pays for short periods so great a percentage on the capital invested. A successful newspaper is like a successful mine—yields wealth which seems almost unreasonable even to those who receive it. But then success is extremely rare—the capital required is considerable—a really energetic daily paper could lose £1,000 a week with the greatest ease—and the adventure is one which can hardly be attempted by an association. We question if there is a very successful newspaper in England owned by a company, and certainly there is not one in London. Irresponsible management is a condition of success, and shareholders in a newspaper have rarely either the nerve or the temper to delegate irresponsibility. The consequence is that competition becomes excessively difficult, that the existing newspapers settle into well worn grooves and that enterprise in the trade betakes itself mainly to the provinces, where journals are compelled by the race for existence to try at least to be readable. Nor is there any immediate probability of any change in this condition of affairs. The public has fixed on a penny as the price it intends to pay for a newspaper. Sale at a penny can only be profitable when a large circulation has been obtained, and consequently the pecuniary risk of the speculation must always be considerable—so considerable that none but very rich men, a class little given to such forms of speculation, can encounter it. We are inclined to believe that, apart from accident, the fall of the London press and the rise of the provincial press will continue until we see something like the state of things in America, where each journal, however good, finds geographical limits to its circulation, and the journals of the greatest city have no universal influence and only a nominal precedence in the newspaper world. In what way that change will affect the profession we must leave for future discussion; but one of its main results must, we conceive, be to increase the power of journalism in the aggregate, while diminishing the power of any individual journal—a change which in England will be a very great one indeed—and another to make provincial opinion—the opinion of the great trading cities—much more influential than that somewhat over-cautious and feeble, but acute, set of ideas usually described as "London opinion." There is crudity, very often, in the opinion of the provinces, but it is masculine and broad, which opinion at present in London certainly is not.

OBITUARY.

Caldwell K. Hall.

This gentleman died at his residence in Trenton, N. J., at ten o'clock yesterday morning. He was one of the most gallant Jerseymen in the Union army. He entered the service as adjutant of the Fifth regiment New Jersey volunteers in August, 1861, was made Acting Assistant Adjutant General of the Second brigade under Colonel Starr, and was subsequently made Aide-de-Camp on General F. Paterson's staff. In August, 1862, he accepted the lieutenant colonelcy of the Fourteenth New Jersey volunteers under Colonel W. S. Truex. He served with this regiment all through its battles and skirmishes, and was severely wounded in the battle of Monocacy, shortly after which he was honorably discharged the service for disability from wounds received in that action. He was subsequently breveted colonel and brigadier general for gallant and meritorious services at the battles of Cold Harbor and Monocacy. Upon quitting the field he resumed the practice of law at Trenton, and in February, 1867, was appointed by Governor Ward as prosecutor of the pleas for Mercer county, which position he held up to the time of his death. General Hall was born at Philadelphia March 10, 1839, and was a son of Rev. John Hall, D. D., pastor of the Second Presbyterian church of Trenton.

THE SHAD FISHING IN THE CONNECTICUT.—The Hartford Courant speaks of 25,000 shad having been caught in one day in the shad ponds between Clinton and the mouth of the Connecticut river. No wonder shad are comparatively scarce in the river. On the Ousatonic, however, the fishermen appear to have been quite lucky. Six hundred and twenty-five were taken at one haul on Wednesday night, at a fishing place about one hundred rods below the great dam, and 606 more the next forenoon, making 1,276 in half a day.

JAPAN.

The Mikado Holding Court—Foreign Ministers Presented—Provincial Disturbances—Attempt to Assassinate a United States Consul—The British "Flying Squadron"—National Progress.

By way of Europe we have our newspaper files from Japan, dated at Yokohama to the 22d of April. The journals supply the following interesting items of news:—

The Yokohama Gazette of April 22 says:—

The Mikado has again cast the illumination of his heavenly presence on foreigners no less than three times within the past week.

Friday last his Excellency the Count de la Tour, his Italian Majesty's Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary, was admitted to an audience to take leave of his Imperial Majesty, on his approaching return to Europe. On the same day his Excellency Sir Harry Parkes presented Admiral Hornby, the captains of the six ships of the British flying squadron, and Mr. Lowder, her Majesty's Consul for Kanagawa-Yokohama, and on Wednesday, the 20th inst., his Excellency —— Van der Hoeven, the new Dutch Minister, was received at the castle and presented his credentials.

About six weeks ago there was some disturbance in the territory of Prince Choshiu; but the armed bands who commenced the raid by setting fire to houses and villages must have been sharp set, for they carried on a more vigorous system of looting than is usual in Japan. The troops of Choshiu were sent against them and completely dispersed them.

The British flying squadron, under the command of Admiral Hornby, has left us after a short stay. It was a disappointment to many, who hoped to see their presence among us made as bright and pleasant as possible, that circumstances prevented any kind of public civilities; while the weather has sadly militated against their private excursions or enjoyments ashore.

H. B. M. S. Pearl has gone from Yokohama with the squadron, having been relieved by the Barossa.

The government railways will soon have a commencement, as Mr. Morell, the engineer in chief, has arrived and had conferences with the authorities in Jeddo.

The public garden on the Bluff, Yokohama, has been vigorously commenced.

Arrangements have been made by which Yokohama will have a properly built and creditable theatre.

In the United States Ministerial Court the trial in the charge against the United States Consul, Marshall, and others, in connection with the bankruptcy of the late firm of Schuman & Co. has been progressing slowly. The evidence is now all taken, and his Excellency Mr. De Long has to give his decision.

Attempt to Assassinate a United States Consul.

[From the Japan Gazette, March 31.]

The evening before last we mentioned that a telegram had been received in town to the effect that an assassin had entered the bedroom of Colonel C. C. Shepard, the United States Consul in Jeddo. The following particulars we learned too late for insertion last evening:—

Colonel Shepard resides in the Jeddo Hotel, his flagstaff being put up in the hotel compound. He occupies one of the wings up stairs, to which there is no direct staircase from below, and to reach which a greater length of passage has to be traversed than to many of the sleeping apartments, besides a turn in the passage having to be made. A man in the dark, therefore, could hardly arrive at his door without special design. It happens also that Colonel Shepard locks his bedroom door at night. There are two keys, one of which he keeps himself to lock himself in; the other is kept by his Japanese boy to let himself in when he calls his master in the morning. It appears that Colonel Shepard was awoke and fancied he heard the noise of the lock being turned and the door opened, but so uncertain was he as to whether it was really a noise or only a dream that in an instant he was asleep again. It was quite dark, and although an intruder stepped noiselessly into the room, he stumbled on a pair of boots just inside the door, and thus fairly roused the Colonel, who jumped up in bed and demanded "Who's there." He then seized his pistol, and the man hastily ran out of his room. He followed, however, and, dark as it was, perceived by the sound of his feet that the man was running along the passage to the grand staircase. He fired along the passage, but evidently without effect, for the steps still retreated. He then ran swiftly along to the staircase and fired another shot as the fugitive reached the first landing, when the fellow cried "augh," leading Colonel Shepard to think he had hit him, another ere he reached the foot of the stairs, down which Colonel Shepard pursued him; and gave a parting shot as he passed out of the door which stood open. As all this time merely the faintest image of a man in retreat had been actually seen, the shots were made by the pursuer, himself in motion, at a mark the whereabouts of which was rather judged of by sound than by sight. By this time the whole of the inmates of the hotel were aroused. Colonel Shepard did not follow the fellow further, as the night was very dark. A light having been procured, a short sword was found sticking in the stairs, and search being made at daylight, the scabbard of the sword was found near one of the iron stays of the flagstaff and a mark showing that the man had run against the guy.

These facts seem to place beyond doubt the deliberate intentions of the man.

Personal and Fashionable.

The Yokohama Gazette publishes a few prominent personal notices in the following words:—

The mail steamer takes away from us a more than usual number of old and esteemed friends. Dr. Dunwoodie, R. N., who was obliged to invalid at the very time his successor is expected to arrive to relieve him of his charge at the Royal Naval Hospital; and Mrs. Dunwoodie; Dr. and Mrs. Jenkins, who are obliged to go on account of the state of the health of the former.

In addition, the steamer will bear from the shores of Japan his Excellency the Italian Minister, Count de la Tour and the Countess. The Count has not had any great opportunity of distinguishing himself, for Ambassadors rarely have; but his report on the subject of silk, the result of his tour into the interior, remains a valuable document in the archieves. Mme. de la Tour will long be remembered for the good service rendered by her to the Yokohama Hospital.

Obituary.

The Japan Gazette of the 10th of April says:—

It is with extreme regret that we have to announce the death of Captain Barnett, of her Majesty's Tenth regiment of infantry, which took place yesterday afternoon at the English Camp. For several days he was very ill, but only yesterday morning did the illness declare itself to be smallpox. He was about to be removed to the hospital, and the litter was already in attendance for his conveyance, but it was thought he had better be raised to take a little refreshment to enable him to bear the moving. Dr. Orton, of her Majesty's Tenth, supported him for this purpose, when, without any kind of warning, he gasped and expired.

Fatal Shipwreck.

[From the Yokohama Gazette, April 9.]

Another shipwreck occurred off the coast—the British bark St. Dunstan, which was wrecked on Mela Spit, off Cape King, on the 3d ult. Four of the crew were drowned, the rest, including the captain, have arrived in Yokohama.

BROOKLYN CITY NEWS.

The Police Commissioners have changed the numbers of the precincts. They will now be known as First, Second, Third, &c., to Tenth, instead of Forty-first to Fiftieth, as heretofore.

The Police Commissioners announce the following appointments:—Chief of Police, ex-Sheriff Patrick Campbell, in place of John S. Folk, removed; Captain, First precinct, Joel Smith, the present incumbent; Captain, Third precinct, Daniel Ferry, late sergeant in charge of the sub-precinct, in place of George A. Waddy, removed; Captain, Fourth precinct, James Powers, the present incumbent; Captain, Sixth precinct, James Mullin, the present incumbent; Sergeant, Second precinct, John Hambler, formerly court officer at the Police Court, in place of George T. Pierce, removed; Sergeant in charge of Third sub-precinct, Patrick H. McLaughlin, late patrolman on duty at the District Attorney's office, in place of Daniel Ferry, promoted; Sergeant, Third sub-precinct, Edward O'Neill, late patrolman same precinct; stenographer to the Board, Charles H. Hannam.

In the Supreme Court yesterday Judge Pratt decided to issue a mandamus restraining the Brooklyn Park Commissioners from allowing the New York militia to use the Prospect Park Fair Grounds. The writ was issued on the application of residents in the vicinity of the parade ground, who complained that whenever the New York soldiery visited them they were accompanied by rowdies, who damaged surrounding property and conducted themselves in a violent manner. Counsel for the Commissioners yesterday appealed from the decision and asked for a stay of proceedings, which was granted by Judge Pratt on condition that the Commissioners would furnish bonds in the sum of $25,000 to indemnify the county for any damage which might be done in case the New York militia were admitted to the grounds.

THE BROOKLYN "RING" WAR.

Trying to Smash District Attorney Morris—All Hands Getting Ill-Tempered About It—"Big Cry and Little Wool."

The special committee of the Board of Supervisors appointed to investigate the charge made against District Attorney Morris by Hugh McLaughlin, of having compromised a $2,000 bond for $950, met in the Supervisors' room at four o'clock yesterday afternoon and proceeded to investigate the case.

District Attorney Morris was present and stated to the committee that he thought he could shorten the investigation by a moment's reference to his minutes. There was a mistake in the item upon which the charge was based. The $950 was collected through the office of McCue and Hall. There was another item of $1,500 collected from a Mr. Brown, and $350 from another party, all of which was entered in the book by the clerk and charged against him. In answer to an inquiry by the chairman he stated that he had never rendered any account to the County Treasurer except for the disbursements. He proposed to send his account in to the next meeting of the Board of Supervisors.

Supervisor Crook thought the committee had nothing to do with the accounts.

McLaughlin said that the District Attorney had no power to compromise a bail bond. The District Attorney had taken this money and appropriated it to his own use.

Mr. Hall, of the firm of McCue & Hall, testified that he compromised the aforesaid bond with the District Attorney; that he gave him a check for $950.

Mr. McLaughlin, again interrupting, asked if the check was not in the name of the District Attorney. (Check was produced and found to be to Mr. Morris or order.)

After some further remarks Mr. Morris proposed to make a statement, and commenced to do so, when Mr. McLaughlin objected.

Mr. Morris then became indignant, picked up his hat and said he thought the proceedings were indecent.

Mr. McLaughlin thought Mr. Morris had no right to make any explanation.

Supervisor Crook and four other members of the committee said they were willing to hear any explanation which the District Attorney desired to make. Supervisor Cassidy objected.

Mr. Morris then stated that he had received altogether for forfeited bonds, the sum of $2,800, all of which was entered in the books in his office.

The books would show every dollar received and every dollar expended.

The chairman (Supervisor Crook) asked if he thought it was in accordance with the law for him to take $950 on a bond for $2,000.

Mr. Morris said he knew of no law to the contrary. A reference to the books showed that the bond was for $1,200 instead of $2,000, and Mr. Morris said he thought he had the right to use his own judgment as prosecuting attorney as to what was best for the county in such a case.

The committee will report the result of the investigation to the Board of Supervisors.

WEST INDIES.

Immense Amounts of Counterfeit Money Discovered in Hayti—Excitement Among the People—The Picket Camps Destroyed.

ST. THOMAS, May 16, 1870.

Dates from Cape Hayti are to the 8th. Great excitement had been caused there by the discovery that the greater part of the notes in circulation of the value of sixteen dollars were false. The merchants had refused to take them at all, and trade was consequently very much paralyzed. The newspapers were crying out loudly for a bank, and state that this is the right moment to institute it. A meeting between the military and civil authorities had been held to adopt means for detecting the counterfeit notes. Great consternation existed among the people, and many bad bills had been found in the streets, thrown there by those fearing to have them in their possession. Three or four persons had been arrested for circulating these notes and shot.

From the capital it is known that Francois G. Faubert has been named Secretary of Finance, Commerce and Foreign Relations, and B. Lallemand, Secretary of Justice and Public Instruction. The national fête in honor of agriculture was celebrated with great éclat on the 1st of May. The President, Nissage Saget, issued an address to the people on the occasion. A commission had been appointed by the government to examine the baggage of all people arriving in Port au Prince for counterfeit money. The number of false notes which had been collected amounts to about 45,000.

At Gonaives and throughout the South everything was tranquil. The picket camps no longer exist. From the Cayes comes information that Siffra and his bandits have taken refuge in the heights about that place. Forbick was in the forets of Vincent Doré. Several armed bodies are in pursuit of them. The famous chief St. Clair Baccord has been captured.

The West India and Panama Telegraph Cable—Arrival of Sir Charles Bright in Jamaica.

KINGSTON, May 10, 1870.

The United States steamer of war Yantic arrived here on the 3d from Havana and Santiago de Cuba, having on board Sir Charles Bright and other officers of the West India and Panama Telegraph Company to make preparatory arrangements for the laying of the cables which are to unite these islands and the South American continent with the United States and Europe. A large portion of the requisite cable has arrived here, and the balance is now on the way. By the British packet due here on the 21st twelve English operators are expected and a number of station masters and signal men will soon follow.

Sir Charles Bright sails to-day in the British mail packet Seine for St. Thomas, where he will meet the British steamer Dacia, which is to assist him in the laying of the cable, and in which he will return here. Great preparations are being made by the press for the supply of telegrams. One proprietor proposes that in order to have telegraphic intelligence his subscribers must add five dollars to their subscriptions. The British steamer Suffold, which is expected here with a portion of the cable on board, will remain on this station to visit the cables when necessary. Her headquarters will be at this place.

It is currently reported that the Pacific Mail Steamship Company are willing to call at this port going to and returning from Aspinwall, if the government will pay a subsidy of £6,000 towards the expense. It is doubtful if the proposition be accepted. It is stated that the Foreign Office in London will take the £2,000 subsidy from the Spanish company carrying the British mails between St. Thomas, Santiago de Cuba and Havana and give it to the Royal Mail Company, if they will put on a steamer from Jamaica to Santiago de Cuba and Havana, and thence to New York in time to connect with the British mail packet going to Europe, and to this will be added the subsidy contemplated by his Excellency Sir John Peter Grant, Governor of this island, for the encouragement of the fruit trade and reduction in price of provisions.

It is contemplated by the Christian missionaries of the colony to establish a newspaper, not sectarian, for distribution at a low rate of subscription among the peasantry.

The widow and children of the late Mr. Aikman, Crown Solicitor, have recovered £6,000 damages from the Jamaica Railway Company as compensation for his death, occasioned by a collision on the road.

Divers at Work—Sir Charles Bright at St. Thomas—The International Cable.

ST. THOMAS, May 16, 1870.

A number of divers are working on the sunken dock in this harbor, and others are at Peter's Island diving in the steamship Rhone, lost there in the hurricane of 1867. They have brought up a number of skulls and bones, but thus far nothing of value.

Sir Charles Bright has arrived here from Jamaica to make arrangements for the landing of the cable, the establishment of an office, &c. He will remain here until the arrival of the Dacia, which left London on the 2d, and will then proceed to Jamaica again. It is anticipated the line will be in operation by August. An agent of the underwriters, who insured the ship John L. Dimmock, has arrived here. This vessel on the 7th inst., and while in still water, commenced leaking badly, and the captain chartered a vessel for $5,025 to take half his cargo, and she is now transhipping.

SECOND EDITION OF THE "NEVADA" CASE.

The Recent Death at Sea—Another Side of the Story.

The case of Mrs. Ellen Bohan, who died on board the steamship Nevada, as was alleged, from neglect and improper treatment on the part of Surgeon Heneatty, was further investigated yesterday at the City Hall. Quite a different state of facts were presented than those promulgated by the husband of deceased and published in last Saturday's HERALD. Captain Charles Green, of the Nevada, stated that no complaint was made to him by any person of neglect on the part of the doctor during his recent passage from Liverpool to New York. The captain further states that Owen Bohan, whose wife died at sea, expressed himself grateful for the care and attention his wife had received, and that his (Bohan's) affidavit setting forth that his wife had been neglected by the doctor is in direct contradiction of his previous statement.

Dr. Buckley, Assistant Surgeon of the Nevada, stated that he visited all the steerage passengers, in company with Dr. Heneatty, at least twice each day; that they attended Mrs. Bohan during the whole of her sickness; that they received all possible care, at all times supplied with medicine and suitable food, and that the statement of Owen Bohan as to his being neglected is without foundation; furthermore that Bohan thanked him for the attention shown his wife and expressed himself satisfied that everything possible had been done for her.

Michael Heneatty, surgeon of the Nevada, said the statement made by Bohan that he (Heneatty) had refused to attend his wife or to furnish her with suitable medicine and food is utterly false. Further testimony will be taken in the matter to-day.

JEALOUSY, POISON AND DEATH.

About three months ago Charles Hoyer, a German laborer, thirty years of age, was married to a young miss of twenty years, of his own nationality, and a few weeks ago they removed to 101 Allen street. Of late Hoyer has been low spirited and despondent, and the fact leaked out quite recently that jealousy of his young wife was the cause. About two o'clock yesterday morning persons in the house heard groans issuing from the rooms occupied by Hoyer and his wife, and going in found him lying over the bed in great agony with his wife standing over him endeavoring to relieve his sufferings. On being questioned Hoyer confessed that he had taken nitric acid because he was jealous of his wife and wished to die. Dr. Pinner was called in, but could not render any permanent relief, and death ensued several hours subsequently. Coroner Keenan was notified and took charge of the case. An inquest will be held to-morrow.

RED RIVER.

The Demands of the Northwest—Important Speech by President Riel—Organization of a Red River Cabinet.

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 24, 1870.

An arrival from Fort Garry last evening brings additional news of interest from the Red River settlement. President Riel had just laid before the Legislature, at Fort Garry, a copy of the demands made upon the Canadian government, and made a lengthy speech, in which he said:—

We have just learned by mail that something is going on in the other provinces of confederation which concerns us. Threats are being made, but I do not know how far these threats are going against us. For my own part I do not attach much importance to them, and I have been the more inclined to this view in consequence of a telegram which has just been received by his Lordship Bishop Tache, from Father Richot and the other Commissioners. They announce that they are urging a settlement with Canada and that there is no danger. (Loud cheers.) But at the same time I have observed in the other reports which have reached us that some importance is attached to one idea—namely, that the people here are divided and that the conditions on which we were prepared to receive Canada had been changed before they left here with the Commissioners. It is true there has been a change, but it is, I think, one for the better, as the terms proposed in the long run could more easily be assented to than those agreed on in the Convention. Some changes were found to be necessary by the Executive, and they had to be quickly decided on, as the Commissioners were expected in Canada, and the people here were anxious to see them starting to Ottawa. Hence the manner of making the alterations. But I would like to place them before the House, so that honorable members might judge for themselves. Hon. Mr. Bunn, the Secretary, was with us while the alterations were being made, and so limited was our time for the work that we had to work day and night in order to finish and enable the Commissioners to start at the time they did. The Commissioners, of course, had certain power in regard to these demands, but before anything was finally settled they were instructed that the approval of the Legislative Assembly of this country was necessary; so that, while complying with circumstances, we had at the same time a saving clause that the ratification of the action of our Commissioners depended altogether on the will of the Legislature of this country. (Cheers.) To-morrow, if it is the wish of the House, I will place on the table the list of rights as given the Commissioners, printed in English and French. (Hear, and cheers.) I have to thank you, honorable gentlemen, for the attention you have given me with regard to the executive appointments. We must, of course, bear in mind that they are merely provisional in their nature. It is said that we are going to fight with England, but we have not that pretension—(hear, hear)—and some may find out that the present arrangement, such as it is, is more provisional than they think. (Cheers.)

The demands of the provisional government are as follows:—

1. That the Territory known as Rupert's Land and the Northwest shall not enter the confederation of the Dominion of Canada except as a province, to be styled and known as the Province of Assiniboia, and with all the rights and privileges common to the different provinces of the Dominion.
2. That we have two Representatives in the Senate and four in the House of Commons of Canada until such time as an increase of population entitle the province to a greater representation.
3. That the province shall not be held liable at any time for any part of the public debt of the Dominion contracted before the date the said province shall have entered the Dominion, unless the said province shall have first received from the Dominion the full amount for which the said province is to be held liable.
4. That the sum of $80,000 be paid annually by the Dominion government to the local Legislature of the province.
5. That all properties, rights and privileges enjoyed by the people of the province up to the date of our entering the confederation be respected, and that the arrangement and confirmation of all customs, usages and privileges be left exclusively to the local Legislature.
6. That during a period of five years the people of Assiniboia shall not be subjected to any direct taxation, except such as shall be imposed by the local Legislature for municipal or other local purposes.
7. That a sum of money equal to eighty cents per head of the population of this province be paid annually by the Canadian government to the local Legislature, until such time as the population shall have increased to 600,000.
8. That the local Legislature shall have the right to determine the qualification for members in the Parliament of Canada and the local Legislature.
9. Same qualification for voters as passed in Convention.
10. That the bargain of the Hudson Bay Company, in respect to the transfer of the government of the country to the Dominion, be annulled, so far as it interferes with the rights of the people of Assiniboia, and so far as it would affect our further relations with Canada.
11. That the local Legislature of the province has full control of all the public lands of the province, and the right to annul all rights or arrangements entered into with reference to the public lands of the province.
12. That the government of Canada appoint a commission of engineers to explore the various districts of the province and lay before the local Legislature a report of the mineral wealth of the province within three years from date of entering the confederation.
13. That treaties be concluded between Canada and the several Indian tribes of the province, by and with the cooperation and advice of the local Legislature.
14. That an uninterrupted communication from Lake Superior to Fort Garry be guaranteed to be completed within five years.
15. That all public buildings, bridges, roads and other public works be at the cost of the Dominion.
16. That English and French be common in the Legislature, and all public documents be printed in both languages.
17. After several resolutions this concludes by demanding that the Governor speak English and French.
18. That the Judge of the Supreme Court speak English and French.
19. That all debts contracted by the provisional government of the Northwest Territory in consequence of the illegal and inconsiderate measures adopted by Canadian officials to bring a civil war in our midst, be paid out of the Dominion treasury, and that none of the members of the provisional government, or any under them, be held liable or responsible for any movement or any action that led to the present negotiation.
20. This article, same as before, in relation to no extra tax for five years except on liquor.

This document is not the Bill of Rights drawn up by the Convention, which went no further than to ask a Territorial government with a local Legislature, but is an entirely new set of demands drawn up by Riel on his executive responsibility as a protocol of a treaty to be negotiated with Canada and then referred to the local Legislature for ratification.

The Manitoba bill is a substantial concession of most of these demands, but the exceptions are of a somewhat grave character. Riel demands that the province have control of the public lands. This Canada denies, giving instead a grant to half-breeds. Riel demands the legalization of all acts done in resisting the efforts of Canadian emissaries to stir up civil war among the Red River people. But this demand is ignored in the Manitoba bill, and the only reply to it is that a military force of 2,000 men is being sent into the country. If Riel does not, under these circumstances, give notice to Canada that the Manitoba bill will not even be considered while an armed force is threatening the country, and that that force must be withdrawn, or he will accept its advance as a declaration of war, he is a good deal less of a man than he is generally regarded here as being.

The Red River Cabinet has been fully organized, and now consists of Hon. Mr. Bunn, Secretary; Hon. Mr. Donohue, Treasurer; Hon. Mr. Bannatyne, Postmaster General, and Hon. Mr. Lepine, Adjutant General: and he had appointed Hon. Mr. McKay Commissioner of Indian Affairs and Hon. Mr. Bruce Superintendent of Public Works.

Communication Between Bayamo and Mansanillo Closed—The Insurgents in Large Numbers—Official Reports of Encounters.

HAVANA, May 23, 1870.

Private advices from Mansanillo state that communication between that place and Bayamo is shut off, except for a considerable force. The insurgents are in large numbers throughout the eastern department and the operations against them are very ineffective. A telegram from Puerto Principe the 20th reports the killing of seventy-six Cubans in an engagement, and the capture of twenty-two prisoners, among whom were the chiefs Francisco Gonzales, Emilio Nuñez y Torres, Serapio Sanchez, Tomas Batiste, Artaro Betancourt, Juan de Piña and "two Yankees." Encounters are officially reported in Holguin, Santi Espiritu and Santa Clara.

The Success of the Blanco Movement—Monagas Abdicated and Gone to Martinique—Detention of Vessels at Laguayra.

ST THOMAS, May 16, 1870.

The Prussian man-of-war Meteor has arrived here from Laguayra with the mails and having on board Minister Partridge. After severe fighting General Blanco had taken possession of that place and of Caracas. Monagas had abdicated and left for Martinique. Blanco immediately prohibited any vessels from leaving Laguayra, as he was afraid they would carry away refugees or convey supplies to the old government party, which still held possession of Porto Cabello. The Dutch mail steamer Honfleur was among those detained, although the Dutch Minister protested strongly against the act and had sent to Curaçoa for a war vessel. The schooner Isabel, which brought the mails from the latter place, reported that a man-of-war had left in accordance with the request of the Minister. The Honfleur will, doubtless, be released on its arrival. Mr. Partridge expressed the opinion that Blanco will not hold possession very long. At the time of his departure there seemed to be no fighting going on in the republic.

A SAD ROMANCE OF OMAHA.—At Omaha, on the 14th of May, Miss Ida Ruth, a young girl just entering her seventeenth year, and who was to have been married on the following morning to a worthy young bricklayer named Brewer, shot herself through the breast and died almost instantly. The motive is but conjectured; but the strange part of the story is told as follows.—Three years ago, when but a child, she was admired and courted by young Brewer, a frequent visitor at her parents. All went smoothly and soon an engagement resulted, her parents favoring the match. The girl was beautiful, refined and attractive, and received many attentions from other young men. Her lover grew madly jealous, and a quarrel, a separation and the attempted suicide of Brewer followed. Six months after she accepted a new lover, and again everything went smoothly, though Brewer continued to visit the house. About six weeks ago Miss Ida told her mother that if she ever married any one it would be Ben Brewer. Her new lover was dismissed, and preparations began for her marriage to her first choice. On the day before that fixed for her marriage she appeared strangely and told a confidant that she could never love Brewer, but still continued to work upon her bridal outfit. At three o'clock in the afternoon the discharge of a pistol was heard in the girl's room, and her mother, rushing in, found her in the agonies of death. The robes provided for her bridal decked her corpse for burial, and the day upon which she was to have become a bride she was consigned to the tomb.

A QUESTION FOR GENERAL BANKS' COMMITTEE.—Why not call on the Secretary of State for the correspondence between Minister Sickles and the Spanish government relating to the case of the steamer Lloyd Aspinwall?

THE GREENWICH STREET ELEVATED RAILROAD.—The Grand Jury refuse to indict it. They perhaps think it has not had a fair trial. Very well. Let the company, then, try again, and be sure as they go along that they are all right, and they may still succeed.

IRELAND IN ENGLAND.—The Irish Land Tenure Reform bill was passed in the English House of Commons last night. Premier Gladstone thanked the House for its "steadfast support" of his Cabinet measure. The bill was sent immediately to the House of Lords. The Peers received it and read it. This is worse than the Fenian invasion of Canada. The law of primogeniture and of entailed estate is in danger here.

COLLECTOR GRINNELL.—It is stated that strong efforts are being made to have Collector Grinnell ousted, and the name of a prominent gentleman in Westchester county is mentioned as his probable successor. We regret to see such an undesirable change agitated. Under Mr. Grinnell's management the business of the Custom House has been conducted in a manner perfectly satisfactory and with an improved result in revenues and reforms, and his place could not very well be filled.

THE MEANEST COWARDICE OF ALL.—And now the President is asked to intercede on behalf of the bold Fenians who went to capture Canada and got caught. This is pitiful. These terrible fellows who would hear of no remonstrance and yield to no moral restraint, who would have war and rapine and pillage, now cannot endure even the consequences of their own acts and must beg off. For the President to accede to the demand would certainly make such outrage marvellously cheap.

AN UNLUCKY BLOW.—The man who knocked another down in the street—the other being picked up dead—seems to get off very easily by the verdict that the man died from apoplexy. This apoplexy was strangely coincident, it would appear; yet, as there were no external marks of violence, it would be difficult in any way to attribute death to the blow given. Doubtless the drunkenness predisposed to apoplexy, and perhaps the fall had a share in the result; but the death was more due to the rum than to the blow. It was another case of Sunday rum.

Cuba—Congress, the President and His Secretary of State.

General Banks, of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, it is expected, will shortly introduce, perhaps to-day, some resolutions from the committee, suggesting to the President a bolder and more definite line of policy on the Cuban question than that which has been and still is pursued by our present easy-going, do-nothing and "waiting-for-something-to-turn-up" Secretary of State. The other day, in the House, when, on a motion to strike out from an appropriation bill the item for the consulate at Santiago de Cuba, Mr. Voorhees, of Indiana, opened his batteries on the atrocities of the Spanish authorities of the island, and against the humiliating, shilly-shally and anti-American course of our State Department in this business, his earnest denunciations so far awakened the genuine American sentiment of the House that if in the glow of the general excitement a resolution had been offered conceding belligerent rights to the Cubans it would doubtless have been adopted by acclamation.

We expect a report from General Banks and his committee to some extent representing this general Cuban sentiment of the House. At the tail end of the last session of Congress one of the last acts of the House was the passing, unanimously, a joint resolution (which went over in the Senate) authorizing the President to proclaim belligerent rights in behalf of the struggling Cubans, and assuring him in this proceeding of the support of Congress and the country. We may safely say, therefore, that if during the present session the House Committee on Foreign Affairs has made no report upon this Cuban question it is because General Banks, from a courteous respect for the representations and assurances of Mr. Secretary Fish, and in deference to the wishes of the President, has been patiently waiting for "something to turn up" until the patience of the House is exhausted.

Several months ago, from an official or semi-official reconnoissance and report on the situation of the belligerents in Cuba, we were assured that the insurrection was substantially at an end; that all that was left of it was an insignificant gang or two of banditti in the mountains; that these banditti were so hedged in that they could do nothing, and that, with some twenty thousand Spanish troops on the island and a Spanish fleet patrolling the coast, law and order would soon be re-established from one end to the other. More recently some of the principal Cuban chiefs have left the island and come to this country—a fact, which, prima facie of itself, would seem to be conclusive against their cause. Yet, from the representations of General Jordan, it appears that in numbers the fighting Cubans still on hand could speedily finish the great work they have undertaken if they were only one half supplied with arms, and that, even with the insufficient and inefficient weapons with which they have been and are fighting, they are competent to prolong the struggle indefinitely. At all events, the best news that the Spanish authorities at Havana can furnish us now embraces, with the daily surrender of squads of insurgents, executions of others by the half dozen at a time, and the burning of sugar plantations by the squads who still keep the field.

We have not been, however, so much disappointed in the assurances from Washington of the end of the Cuban insurrection as in our expectations of something from Spain in the way of a settlement through the diplomacy of Mr. Fish. It has been a long time since we have had even a hint of anything going on between General Sickles and the government at Madrid. In short, from all that we see and hear, Mr. Secretary Fish is satisfied with things as they are going on, because he thinks they are tending to the restoration of the full authority of Spain over Cuba, and because he is opposed to the acquisition of the island. We apprehend that this is the secret of his unsatisfactory Cuban policy—opposition to the annexation of the island—and he opposes it, no doubt, because it involves a programme of annexation and expansion entirely too large for his conservative notions of our foreign policy.

Mr. Secretary Fish, then, is behind the age, and too far behind the public sentiment of the country for the State Department. We have seen enough of his feeble statesmanship in the matter of the permit to the Canadian steamer Chicora to pass through the Sault Ste. Marie canal to satisfy us upon this point. He is a most amiable, pleasant and excellent man; but he is not the man for the State Department in these progressive times. The House of Representatives, we have reason to think, is of the same opinion, and if, from its approaching action on the Cuban question we are favored with a change or two in the Cabinet, we shall hail it as an event upon which to congratulate the President, Congress and the country.

POLITICS AND RELIGION.—An attempt was made in the Presbyterian General Assembly to endorse a particular policy of President Grant. The effort was unsuccessful, the Assembly declaring that the Church had nothing to do with politics. If the determination of our Presbyterian friends be followed out it may deprive political parsons of their stock in trade, and even seriously affect their income returns; but their flocks will be greatly benefited thereby, and thousands who have been driven from under the droppings of the sanctuary by these false teachers will return to the fold. It is fully time that political preachers were "played out," and no denomination could better inaugurate the good work than the Presbyterians.

THE NEWS FROM THE WEST INDIES.—The steamer which arrived here yesterday from Havana brings us encouraging news regarding the prospects of the early laying of the West Indies and Panama cable, which, when completed, will unite Central and South America with Europe. Sir Charles Bright has already arrived at St. Thomas to superintend the laying of the cable, the greater portion of which has been received. Everything looks favorable, and by the time the summer is over we may expect to have to record another achievement of science. The Haytiens are greatly perplexed over the discovery of a large quantity of counterfeit money, and loud cries are being made for a national banking system. If even this will improve Haytien finances we hope the people will succeed in their desires.

Decoration Day.

The custom of decorating the graves of the dead is as old as human affection, and it is as beautiful as it is ancient. How many thousands day by day, in the privacy of their great sorrow, visit the cemeteries throughout the country, and there, quietly and unseen of men, lay upon the graves of the departed those tributes—which most resemble life in the proximity of death—bright flowers that woo the sunshine, and evergreen shrubs, emblematic of that enduring life which the grave cannot extinguish!

But it is on such public occasions as that of yesterday that we see how the sympathy of the people is expressed for those whose memory has become public property by dying in the cause of country. The celebration—the details of which we publish in our columns to-day—was grand in all its features, and exhibited a sorrowful sublimity that was not equalled in the years which have passed since the war. With sounds of martial music, with solemn hymns chanted above the graves, with religious discourses befitting the ceremony, the living comrades of those who sleep in a hundred cemeteries, almost from one end of the land to the other, paid that homage which shows that the dead soldier, though passed away, is not forgotten. The people generally participated in the feeling by abandoning business to a great extent. In this city the Custom House, the banks and the public buildings were closed. Even Wall street was affected with a touch of human sympathy, and, although the day was not a legal holiday, the money changers ceased to clink their gold out of respect for the solemnities which were being performed at Greenwood and Cypress Hill. The flags on the public buildings floated at half staff, and guns from the forts in the harbor announced that honors were being paid to the heroes who had died that the nation might live.

Similar scenes occurred in Washington, in Philadelphia, Boston, Cincinnati, Buffalo, Providence, Lowell and many other cities, as described in our numerous despatches. Congress on Saturday adjourned over until Tuesday in honor of the day, and the government departments were all closed, while thousands of soldiers and citizens proceeded to the Cemetery of Oak Grove, and the Soldiers' Cemetery at Arlington, to pay the annual tribute of this floral month to the fallen brave. This is just as it should be. We hope that the custom will be continued and become more honored in the observance as years roll on.

Let the dead soldiers be honored while the memory of their services remains with us, and that will be as long as we value a united country. Bright be the flowers above them! Requiescat in pace!

Progress in the Roman Council.

Our cable despatches within the last two days relative to the great Council at Rome have been more than ordinarily numerous. From these we learn that the Schema de Romano Pontifice, which has in its first chapter the infallibility dogma, is now under discussion. It is said that the infallibilists are active and hopeful. Absentees have been summoned to Rome, and the friends of the dogma are now in the Holy City in large numbers. Some time since it did seem as if the Curia would halt in what we have more than once called their mad career, and as if the fear of dividing the Church were more potent than the desire to be governed by an infallible head. The aspect of things is now changed. The Curia can count on a majority, and time only is required to make their purpose good. In spite of the retirement from Rome in indignation and disgust of certain Eastern churchmen, and in spite of the protests of the great Catholic Powers, the Pope and his friends go on; and Cardinal Antonelli tells Bavaria, as he has already told France and Austria, to mind its proper business and to leave the Church alone. In the course which he is pursuing the Pope is encouraged by a present of one hundred thousand francs, conveyed through M. Veuillot, the Ultramontane editor of l'Univers. Notwithstanding the increasingly hot weather the Council still sits, and is likely to sit through all summer. It will not do to allow the bishops to depart from Rome until the dogma of infallibility is proclaimed. That done they may go where they may. In a few weeks at most the vexed question of Papal infallibility will in all likelihood be set at rest. May it do the Church and the world much good.

BARBAROUS SPECTACLES.—Two more accidents have just resulted at places of public amusement in this city from the extra hazardous exhibitions relied upon to take the popular fancy. In one case it was the old story of a man perilling life and limb by a leap through mid air from rope to rope, and breaking his shoulder blade by a fall to the floor. The peril which made the other exhibition piquant, however, was to the life of a young woman, who was down in the bill to go at a certain hour into the cage of some wild beasts of the panther tribe. She went in, and the panther tore her, and the public was indulged in an excitement that always lies behind these shows as an imminent possibility. It is a natural curiosity for people to desire to observe the various sorts of wild animals, and few exhibitions are more agreeable or instructive than a well ordered menagerie, but it does not add to any proper pleasure people can take in such a show to have a clap-trap exhibition of lion tamers in connection with it. This panders only to a brutal and barbarous taste, and should be forbidden by law.

FOLEY VICTORIOUS.—Mr. Foley has made a splendid fight, which must have secured for him, we are sure, the sympathy and admiration of all who have watched his plucky pertinacity. He was a candidate for Supervisor, and claimed the office under the law that gives places to the candidate that gets the greatest number of votes and to the one also that gets the next greatest number. Mr. Henry Smith got in reality the next to the greatest number; but Foley claimed that Smith's candidacy did not count, because he was by law ineligible for the office. Everybody was against Foley. The canvassers, in violation of law, counted Smith in, and the Mayor, in violation of law, certified to his election; but Foley fought his case before the courts, and won. To any constituency looking around for a candidate whom it will be troublesome to count out we commend Mr. Foley.

Curiosities of the Plebiscitary Vote in France.

The 8th of May, as the archivists of the Paris press remind us, has not always been favorable to ruling ministries. It was on that date, in 1821, that Roger d'Argenson died; on that date, in 1785, the Duc de Choiseul, another French Minister, expired, and the famous Marquis de Pombal, of Portugal, then in power, gave up the ghost on that day in 1782. The ministry of Louis Philippe received a fatal blow from the crisis that supervened on the 8th of May, 1847. Within a year the King was in exile. The 8th of May has been otherwise remarkable in French history. On that day, in 1816, the old liberty of divorce was abolished, and only the right of separation from bed and board retained. It has its revolutionary prestige, running back to the Reign of Terror. Fouquier de Tinville, the public accuser, alleged in the Red tribunal of 1794 that the public farmers general cheated the people, and on the 8th of May they were beheaded; but on that very day, one year later, he too felt the edge of the guillotine. Great accidents also have marked the date; for on May 8, 1842, occurred the terrible accident on the Versailles Railway, near Paris, that cost the Admiral D'Urville his life, after he had made two or three voyages around the world in safety. The opposition party in France will think the 8th of May, 1870, the worst episode of all, for it brought to them a fearful overthrow. Although in the department of the Seine alone there were about 100,000 votes not cast, the Emperor's policy received 140,000, while in the Presidential election of December 10, 1848, he, as Prince Louis Napoleon, got of 433,632 votes registered a total of only 198,500, while Cavaignac had 95,571 and 47,758 were scattering, with 91,803 not cast. Yet this was in the very flush of the first popularity of his nomination.

In the district of M. Thiers, strange to say, the government had a sweeping majority in the late election, while, quite as curiously, in that of M. Ollivier, the commercial heart of Paris, things went the other way, with 6,316 votes withheld. This result arose from reasons depending rather upon the Ollivier Ministry than upon the Emperor, and had to do with mercantile dissatisfaction at certain special measures. Marseilles seems, with its excitable and turbulent population, to have been well worked by the Reds, for it gave thirty thousand nays against fourteen thousand voting yea. But, on the other hand, there were thirty thousand other votes not cast. There was an evident fear of revolutionary outbreak and vengeance. In Paris the aspect of things was peculiar. Several noted opposition leaders were denied admission to the inner rooms at the polls, and at the military barracks were warned off at the point of the bayonet. Hence their clamors about the "stuffing" of ballot boxes. During the day there was a tremendous scare started by the story that a cask of gunpowder had been found under the barracks at the Chateau d'Eau; but upon investigation it was discovered to be only a harmless barrel of tar left there by some workmen who had been repairing the gas pipes. All sorts of disquieting reports were put in motion, but without effect. The Emperor's sudden death, the flight of Eugénie, the defection of the Paris garrison, the general arrest of all the opposition deputies and editors, the placing of Paris under martial law, and an organized, premeditated massacre of citizens by the troops, were among the canards started during the voting hours; but the day rolled by, and with it what was left of insurgent hopes. Hereafter the 8th of May will be marked with a white stone in the Imperial Napoleonic annals; for it rendered quite possible within a reasonable period what before seemed but distant visions, glorious indeed, but shadowy in their remoteness, to wit: Bonaparte sceptres in Rome, in Florence and in Madrid; the consolidation of the Napoleon dynasty; the leadership and direct control of the Latin race; the Mediterranean made, indeed, a French lake, and one of these days the oriflamme or the tri-color fluttering from Mount Zion.

SUNDAY—BEECHER'S IDEA.—Whatever may be said of Brother Beecher's jolly mode of storming heaven, there can be no doubt that his idea of Sunday, as set forth in his sermon last Sabbath, is the genuine Christian idea. He says that it is a day for rest and recreation, for walking out with the children, for excursions to the country, for bright merriment and social intercourse, for all that is pleasant and not ungodly. He, himself, was raised as a child with the gloomy old Puritanic idea of Sunday—reminded of his sins if he laughed and threatened with the pangs of eternal punishment if he giggled aloud—he, that now sets Plymouth Church in one wreathed smile every Sunday. He has learned enough since arriving at man's estate to feel that his Sunday teaching in youth was wrong, and he has the nerve and independence to preach against such principles, even of the late Lyman Beecher, as he thinks wrong. And his idea of Sunday is far preferable to his father's idea of Sunday. When we consider what mistaken Sunday training the Plymouth pastor received in his youth, it almost bewilders us to think what a teacher he might have become had he been trained in the principles he now advocates.

LONDON AS A JOURNALISTIC CENTRE.—In another place in this day's HERALD will be found an able and suggestive article on London journalism. We commend the article to all who take any interest in journalistic enterprise, in modern progress, and in the revolutions which such progress works. We commend the article not the less heartily that it recognizes the merits of the NEW YORK HERALD. It is something to find so respectable an organ of public opinion as the Economist admitting that as compared with the HERALD the best London dailies are slow.

THE SCANNEL FAMILY.—One of the brothers of a late Alderman was arrested the other day for threatening to take the life of a citizen, and before the magistrate made such declarations of a revengeful spirit and a murdering nature as to leave no doubt that he will some day commit murder when rather more rum than usual shall give him the necessary frenzy. He "could not rest for five months with the thought of his brother in the hospital." No doubt when he kills his man the jury will find that the idea of his brother in the hospital worked his insanity.

Hoffman for Next Governor.

If ever there was a politician who sat in the executive chair of the State who has earned for himself the good will of the people, without regard to mere party fealty or prejudice, it is John T. Hoffman. Although devoted to the interests of the democratic party, and never, perhaps, for a moment losing sight of what he owes to that party for its recognition of his talents and the rewards it has conferred upon him, the interests of the people of the State at large have never been overlooked by the Governor. The steadfastness with which he has opposed his authority to all the jobs and coalitions which have been crowded upon him during the last two sessions of the Legislature, including the Arcade scheme for the destruction of Broadway, entitles him to the highest consideration as a wise and honest public official. No chief executive of the State has done so much to break up the paltry system of special legislation upon which the lobby has been growing fat for years past and to demoralize the Albany lobby itself as Governor Hoffman; and what greater boon could be conferred upon the State?

The Governor's vetoes of the jobs and swindles which, by various influences, crept through the Legislature will be long remembered as models of good judgment, legal acumen and sound logic. He has never consigned a bill to oblivion, however small its object, without giving good reasons for his action—reasons so clearly put that the friends of the rejected bills could not demur to the decision of the Executive Chamber. Then, Governor Hoffman is a gentleman of fine parts and presence; one who adorns physically and mentally the highest office in the State. For these reasons we think that Hoffman is the man for Governor in 1871. No more popular candidate can be nominated by the party of the majority, and few men, if any, we presume, would be more acceptable to the people at large. It is an excellent rule that when we get hold of a good and faithful public officer we should not part with him if we can help it.

Southern Objections to Chinese Immigration—A Case in Point.

The following are the conclusions arrived at by a Mr. John McCrady, of South Carolina, in a discussion upon the question "whether Chinese immigration should be encouraged at this time in the South." They are contained in an address to ex-Mayor Macbeth, president of an association to encourage foreign immigration:—

To sum up the results of this discussion we conclude that the introduction of Chinese labor at the present time is unwise.

1. Because we have no certainty of our being able to control it.
2. Because it will put new power into the hands of those whose purpose it is to control us.
3. Because, if the Chinese laborer comes first, the white laborer will not come at all.
4. Because, if the white laborer comes first, the Chinese laborer can be brought afterwards with the utmost confidence of great results.
5. Because, if the Chinese laborer comes first, we will reap the benefits of neither kind of labor.
6. Because, if all these conclusions be true the introduction of Chinese labor before that of white labor will be a practical repudiation of our own principles, and a wilful disregard of the manifest teachings of our own experience.
7. Because to get white immigration first is to gain everything, and to get Chinese immigration first is to spoil everything.
8. Because, though Christian religion teaches us to seek rather than to shun contact with heathenism, it certainly does not permit us voluntarily to give heathen the power to legislate for us.

This is all fiddle-faddle—miserable claptrap. The idea that the whites on this Continent are in danger of being swallowed up incontinentally or excontinentally by the Mongolian and African races is positively absurd. The Anglo-Saxon, Celtic-American and Anglo-American races were never born to be absorbed by blackamoors or pagans. Wherever their blood mingles the white man's will predominate, until eventually, like the case lately before a Cincinnati judge, one cannot discover to which race a person really belongs—whether to the colored or to the "plain." So far as fearing political or religious predominance from this immigration of oriental people is concerned, that is mere balderdash. We have a case in point. It may be remembered that during the high old Know Nothing times it was predicted that the terrible Irish would overrun our country and play the very mischief with our political institutions. What is the result? Although indulging in an occasional shindy in remembrance of Donnybrook and increasing the demand for "whuskey"—some of the "raal ould stock"—our Irish immigrants have become some of our best citizens, sober, industrious, wealthy, honored and influential, owners of blocks of brown stone front houses and any amount of first class lots on our newly laid out avenues and boulevards. And as for political power, look at our newly elected Board of Assistant Aldermen, where the natives of the Emerald Isle are almost unanimously in the ascendant. And yet Manhattan Island don't rock to its foundations; the City Hall is no dirtier than it was in Mike Walsh's time; the new Court House is no nearer completion than it was many years ago; the omnibuses clog as usual; business thrives; the city prospers; a new and liberal Charter has been wrung from rural rulers without the use of the bayonet; religion and the negro's rights are respected; the arcade abomination has been squelched; gin and milk swillers are tabooed; virtue is its own reward, and morality and Tammany Hall are triumphant everywhere. If any harm, therefore, has come of encouraging Irish immigration to this city it is difficult to be discerned. Hence we advise our Southern friends not to be dismayed because a few thousand almond-eyed, pig-tailed sons of Joss are coming among them to do their hard work. Bid them come—"come in their beauty, those marvels of duty"—welcome them to your Southern cotton fields, to your rice marshes, to your household labor; and then you may eventually scare lazy Sambo into something like an idea that he has either to "root, hog, or die."

WALL STREET AND DECORATION DAY.—The brokers who struck gold from the list during the war lest their patriotism should be in the least impugned came near forgetting what was due to yesterday, but made amends by adjourning at the close of the morning boards, so that Decoration Day was made a half holiday in Wall street.

THE IRISH LAND BILL is passed in the English House of Commons and read a first time in the House of Lords. Did the Fenian campaign in Canada hasten its progress? If so, perhaps the Fenians had method in their madness.

The Real Relief of the City.

A rapid and convenient mode of transit from the lower end of Manhattan Island to Harlem river—taking in, of course, the Park in its track—has become a matter of absolute necessity. There is not a resident upon the island, nor is there one among those involuntary exiles who is compelled to migrate every evening to Long Island or Jersey towards his homestead, that is not equally convinced of this fact. But how to accomplish it is the difficulty. The Arcade Railway is defunct, thanks to Governor Hoffman's sense of the duty which he owed to the city. The other underground plans are buried deeper than those who designed them ever expected to see their pet projects. As for the one-legged elevated concern in Greenwich street, ten tons of pig iron settled all the scientific questions involved in that scheme. It has to come down, greatly to the relief of the foot passengers, wagoners, expressmen and others who had to cross the transverse streets and must have looked up tremblingly to this sword of Damocles suspended above their heads. If any portion of this aerial monstrosity is allowed to stand it will serve to remind our classic readers and Oriental travellers of the famous ruins of Balbec, with its line of gaunt pillars, telling the story of what once was but is not any more.

But, considering the facts that the arcade plan and the pneumatic bore and the rickety concern in Greenwich street are all vanished, is there no plan by which the two ends of the island can be reached with speed, with safety and with comfort? We think that there is skill enough and engineering power enough in this community to devise such a plan without destroying our principal highway and endangering millions of property. It seems pretty evident that neither a sub-surface nor a surface railroad, run by steam, is acceptable, even if practicable. An elevated railway, substantially built, is manifestly what is required. Whether it is constructed on double pillars of corrugated iron, spanning the centre of such streets as Chatham, the Bowery and Third avenue, as has been proposed, well braced, built on solid foundations, with such appliances on the track as would render it impossible for the cars to overturn, or whether the road should be built on arches of solid masonry running over the houses, and through the blocks, when necessary, as they do in London and other cities, is a question which does not perhaps affect the main fact that the only way to obtain true relief for the city in the matter of intermural travel is by means of an elevated railroad. By such a mode there would be no interference with sewers, or old underlying water courses, or water mains, or gas pipes. A road of this kind would affect injuriously no interest in the city, nor would it inconvenience anybody. The property taken for the purposes of the road would, of course, be paid for. Of the two modes of travel we think there can be no doubt about the advantages of a road run through the blocks built on arches of substantial masonry. It might be costly at the outset, it is true, because the project would necessitate the purchase of a large amount of property, and considerable outlay in building stone arches, but in the end it would prove economical, because it would be permanent and free from danger. They had the same difficulties to contend with in London, yet they have made their elevated masonry railroads a great success and an enduring comfort to the population.

We need such a means of speedy transit here quite as much as they do in any city in the world, to relieve our overcrowded streets and give the increasing traffic of the city a fair chance on the limited upper crust of Manhattan Island. The real relief to be obtained for the city, then, ahead of all other schemes and projects, is the construction of an elevated railroad, running over the houses, securely built on solid masonry, susceptible of bearing any weight, and capable of carrying passengers with both speed and safety from the Battery to Harlem river.

A "Raie Ould" Fighting Stock—Napier and O'Neill.

General George Napier, of the British army, telegraphs from Canada "exultingly" to the English government "of the promptitude and prowess" displayed by the Canadian volunteers in their "late engagements" with the Fenians. This looks as if there had been a series of battles on the Dominion soil. It also accounts for the fact of how one of the contending armies had to give way quickly. The men followed the banners of great soldier names in each instance. General O'Neill comes, of course, straight down from the Irish warrior Hugh O'Neill, or "Hugh of the Red Hand," and the great Con O'Neill (Baccah, or "Lame Con"), the mortal enemies of Queen Elizabeth and her successors. General Napier displays the banner of the Napiers; men of mighty war deeds on land and on the ocean, from the fields of Hindostan to the sea before Cronstadt, where Admiral Sir Charles Napier hovered for a time between the outside of that vast fortress and the inside of a very hot place—which is much more easily reached—during the Crimean war. General Napier, in Canada, if he is of the "ould stock," is exactly matched by General O'Neill in that respect at least.

THE LATEST MURDER.—If inquiry substantiates the story of the man Wilson, who killed Gilligan, his offence must be set down as a homicide fairly justified by the necessities of self-defence. When a drunkard pursues to his own home one who will not join his carouse, and knocks him about and assumes an attitude generally that his superior strength makes dangerous, society cannot punish the man who defends himself, and cannot inquire over closely as to how much force he may apply to his defence.

OUR DISTINGUISHED INDIAN VISITORS, having tired of the Washington sights, are to be taken to Mount Vernon to-day, in order to have their sated curiosity once more aroused. Doubtless the emotions that will arise in their bosoms at the contemplation of Washington's last resting place will have the desired effect. For making a truly wild Indian of the forest appreciate the power and glory of civilized institutions and the insignificance of barbarous redskins there is probably nothing better than Washington's tomb. Red Cloud has not yet arrived in Washington, but is on his way, and the two chiefs will be presented to the President at the same time.

The Great "Event" at Epsom.

LONDON, May 30, 1870.

The race for the Derby at Epsom Downs next Wednesday will be the ninetieth contest in the series of the great European turf event since its establishment. The first race, in the year 1780, was won by Diomed, owned by Sir C. Bunbury. Diomed was sired by Floriel. He was ridden on the "great occasion" by S. Arnull.

Macgregor, Sunshine, Camel, Prince of Wales, Bridgwater and Sunlight are the favorites in London just now for the Derby. Some few days since there was very little doing in the English "houses," except wagering with regard to Sunshine for the Derby. After 10 to 1 had been freely taken about her it was still offered, but her supporters held out for 12 to 1, which odds were not obtainable. The closing prices then were:—120 to 100 against Macgregor (taken), 10 to 1 against Sunshine (taken to £400 and then offered, 12 to 1 wanted), 100 to 8 against Camel (offered, 100 to 9 taken), 20 to 1 against Palmerston (offered), 20 to 8 against Bridgwater (offered), 25 to 1 against Kingcraft (offered), 500 even on Bridgwater against Palmerston.

Bowles	754

Burning of Hubbard's Packing House in Chicago—Loss $50,000.

CHICAGO, May 30, 1870.

At half past one o'clock this afternoon a fire broke out in G. H. Hubbard & Co.'s packing house on Claybourn avenue, North Division, and in less than an hour it was entirely destroyed. The loss is $50,000. The amount of stock in the building was small. The fire extended to the North Chicago Rolling Mills, immediately adjoining, and at one time it looked as if those extensive works would be consumed; but the one thousand men at work, by great energy and perseverance, succeeded in extinguishing the flames. The loss on the rolling mills was small. The loss on the pork packing house is covered by insurance.

The fire which occurred yesterday morning on South Canal street was more destructive than first reported. The loss will reach $25,000, divided as follows:—Burkhart, Hubbard & Co., machinists, $9,000, fully insured; Clark & Sammons, picture frame manufacturers, $16,000, insured for $7,000. AMERICAN JOCKEY CLUB.

The exciting sports of the turf open at Jerome Park on Saturday next, and will be continued on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday of next week. To say that the meeting will be one of the grandest ever held in America is no exaggeration. Near 150 horses are already on the ground, representing every section of the country. Virginia, South Carolina, North Carolina, Maryland, Kentucky, Alabama, Missouri, Ohio, New Jersey, Massachusetts, New York and other States are represented by their most spirited turfmen and fleetest coursers. Hence there is some sectional rivalry, which will give additional interest to the contests. The number of starters in each race will be larger than usual, and the prominent events will bring together the best horses in America. It is a fact worthy of notice that the owners' and backers of some of the distinguished horses that were, early in the season, "booked to win" with certainty, are exhibiting considerable nervousness, and "hot favorites" are beginning to be very scarce. Among so many good ones it is very difficult to select the best. Narragansett, Abdel Kader, Glenelg, Vespucius, General York, Helmbold, Cottrill, Corsican and other distinguished racers are exceedingly respectful to each other; and that quite a number now in the "dark" will emerge as favorites, is not at all improbable.

The Belmont Stakes, for which there are forty-six entries, will bring to the post a splendid lot of three year olds. Mr. Belmont's stable will probably be represented by Nellie, James and Telegram; Captain Moore's, by Foster and Maggie B. B.; Mr. Sanford's, by Stumps and Grecian Bend; Mr. F. Morris', by Remorseless and Temptation; Governor Bowie's, by My Maryland; Mr. Swigert's, by King Fisher and Annette; Mr. Dowell's, by Ecliptic and Midday; and at least half a dozen others might be named as probable starters. A finer lot of three year olds have never started in any race in this country.

The course was never in better condition than at present, and from early dawn until nine or ten o'clock each morning the swarms of horses are galloping in platoons, preparing for war. The "early birds" who have the spirit to desert their beds for a morning ride to the Park are amply rewarded by the capital sport furnished by the numerous trials which they witness, and their improved appetites are properly responded to by the excellent steward of the club restaurant.

The programme for the meeting is varied and very attractive, embracing dashes, races of heats, hurdle races and the grand steeplechase. The first steeplechase over the grounds at Jerome Park (run last fall) created an excitement which will long be remembered. So thoroughly were the people enthused by the magnificent contest that beaus and belles joined in the most boisterous applause, and even the losers seemed happy in the thought that their unfortunate favorites were almost winners. Many lingered upon the grounds until a late hour, prolonging their pleasures by recounting the stirring events of the day. A quaint Broad street operator, who had with much difficulty prevailed upon his lady to accompany him to the course, declared the next morning that he could not get her away from the club house "until after the lights were put out."

Should the weather prove favorable the attendance at the approaching meeting will be immensely numerous. To avoid unpleasant delay at the entrances we would advise the purchase of tickets and badges in the city. They can be obtained at the office of the club, No. 920 Broadway.

THE BILLIARD CHAMPIONSHIP.

The match between Rudolph and Cyrille Dion for $1,000 and the Diamond Cue will take place this evening at the Hippotheatron. There is very little betting, but Rudolph is evidently the favorite, as his friends do not hesitate to lay 100 to 60 on his winning. Yesterday morning Cyrille Dion practised by himself for two or three hours, and then Rudolph played 600 points with an amateur, with the following score:—

Rudolph—0, 6, 177, 0, 45, 0, 117, 0, 9, 111, 174—600. Average, 54.55.

Amateur—15, 6, 0, 9, 21, 6, 15, 36, 21, 12, 141. Average, 14.1.

In the evening several of the privileged patrons of Chris. O'Connor had the pleasure of witnessing a very fine game between Rudolph and Joe Dion. These experts played 1,000 points, at the four ball carrom game, on a pocket table, push and crotch barred. Both men played remarkably well, but the Frenchman was in wonderful force. The following is a score of the game:—

Rudolph—68, 45, 0, 0, 6, 166, 15, 144, 7, 0, 6, 237, 27, 279, 30—1,000. Average, 66⅔.

Joe Dion—103, 12, 0, 27, 6, 39, 0, 9, 6, 9, 232, 27, 24, 51, 135—675. Average, 45.

The Brooklyn Tournament.

Mr. Rogers defeated Mr. Craft last evening by seven points. This was the closest game yet played. The first prize now rests between Mr. Rogers and Mr. Kirkly, and these gentlemen will play the deciding game on Thursday evening. Mr. Rogers is slightly the favorite, notwithstanding Mr. Kirkly has made the highest average.

WASHINGTON.

Sumner on Cuban Belligerency—The President's Foreign Policy Sustained by the Senate—The Indian Delegation at the Capital.

WASHINGTON, May 30, 1870.

The President's Cuban Policy Sustained by the Senate.

If the house should pass resolutions favoring the granting of belligerent rights to the Cubans, as the result of General Banks' report—and it would seem from the present temper of that body that this is not among the impossibilities—what action the Senate is likely to take becomes a matter of interest. Senator Sumner, the chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations, would of course be the chief defender of the foreign policy of the administration in that body. His views with regard to Cuba have undergone no change. Secretary Fish and he are known to differ about the Alabama claims, but on the Cuban question they are a unit. Mr. Sumner will oppose any movement likely to culminate in the acquisition of Cuba, just as he opposes St. Domingo, on the general principle in the acquisition of territory in the tropics. Senator Sumner, like Secretary Fish, is never at a loss for some plausible argument against interfering on behalf of the Cubans, and no matter how many Americans are murdered by the Spanish volunteers, the Senator and the Secretary somehow or other always discover that the Americans were to blame. In a conversation with the Senator to-day your correspondent called his attention to the cases of Speakman and Wyeth, who were shot at Santiago de Cuba, notwithstanding the protest of the American Consul. He immediately replied, "It is a question whether they were American citizens." I suggested that they were certainly not Englishmen, otherwise the Spaniards would have suffered for it.

"I think," said the senator, "we are as quick to punish an outrage upon our citizens as any other government, but you see we must have a clear case to go on before we resort to extreme measures."

"But," said I, "Mr. Fish admits, in his official correspondence on the subject, that these men were American citizens, and all the reparation he demands is a pecuniary contribution from the Spanish government for their families."

"Well, that may be," said the Senator; "but the circumstances surrounding their case were peculiar. They were found in suspicious company, and we could not make the same kind of a demand upon the Spanish government as if they had been residing in Cuba in the pursuit of a peaceable business."

I asked the Senator what he thought of the treatment of Consul Phillips by the Spaniards.

"What I hear of Phillips," said he, "leads me to think that he acted imprudently. It is charged that he handled General Jordan's mail and sent it off to the United States. Now, we must, in order to reach the proper view of all these matters, apply them to ourselves. Suppose, during our rebellion, some Englishman acting as consul of Great Britain had undertaken to carry the mail to Jeff Davis or General Lee, what do you suppose Mr. Stanton would have done had he discovered the fact? I think he would have cleared him out of the country, or very likely he would have arrested him and placed him in the old Capitol."

I suggested that Great Britain, in that case, might have made a demand for his release, as she did in the case of Slidell and Mason. Recurring to the expected report of General Banks, and the probable action of the House thereon, I asked the Senator what he supposed the Senate would do.

"The House," he replied, "might pass such a resolution as you indicate—belligerent rights—with the expectation that the Senate would stop it. Very frequently the House does such things. I cannot say what the Senate would do, but I don't believe it would do anything hastily. In the Senate there is a feeling that we are not now in a condition to go into a war. We don't feel like putting another hundred millions of debt upon the already heavy burdens of the country. For my own part, I don't think any candid person can find fault with the course the administration has pursued on this subject. It is the wisest and the best that could have been pursued."

From this it is evident that Mr. Sumner will oppose any resolution that is proposed having for its object the recognition of the Cubans, or any measure that might tend to involve us in trouble with Spain.

The Indian Delegations—Spotted Tail Wearies of White Man's Civilization.

Red Cloud and his party are expected to reach Washington by Wednesday, and will be assigned quarters at the same hotel with Spotted Tail and his companions. The last named are beginning to be rather weary of their stay in civilized regions, and express a desire to get through with their business as soon as possible, so as to leave for their homes, though they would be glad to visit New York and St. Louis on the way. They are still doubtful about Red Cloud coming, and Spotted Tail does not express any anxiety to meet him, as the former has disregarded many talks from him in which Red Cloud was advised to preserve peaceable relations with the white men's government. The Indians have not yet had an interview with the President. That will take place when Red Cloud arrives, so that a talk will be had with all of them together. To-morrow it is proposed to take Spotted Tail and his associates on a trip to Mount Vernon.

Shrewd Dodge of a Darky Policeman.

One night last March ex-Mayor Berrett, of this city, was aroused between midnight and morning by one of Mayor Bowen's colored police and informed that burglars were in his house. The ex-Mayor soon struck a light and admitted the sable guardian of the interests of the slumbering population, and the two made a thorough search of the dwelling without discovering any thief. A large plated goblet, however, was missing, which to-day was found in the trunk of the watchful darky, upon whom suspicions recently existed of certain pilferings at the police station. Mr. Berrett was sent for this afternoon and identified the goblet, which the policeman had stolen before he troubled himself to warn the owner of the depredation on his premises.

Proposed Impeachment of Judges Field and Hoffman.

Judge Bingham, chairman of the committee, says there is no prospect whatever that time will be found this session for even the most cursory examination of the petitions asking the impeachment of Judges Field and Hoffman. Universal opinion on the subject here is that the matter will die a natural death in the committee.

Presbyterian General Assembly—Reports of Committees—Politics Excluded from the Church—Inadequate Pay of Ministers.

PHILADELPHIA, May 30, 1870.

In the Presbyterian General Assembly this morning the report of the Committee on the Report of the Board of Publication was received from Dr. McCosh.

The report of the Standing Committee on Foreign Missions was taken from the docket and considered item by item. The resolutions in the report were adopted as recommended, but the discussion occupied the entire morning. An amendment was offered to the item concerning Indian work, which was hotly discussed. The amendment was to formally approve of the action of President Grant and the officers of the government in pursuing a peaceful policy towards the Indians. This was not agreed to, on the ground that politics should have no place in the Church. Speeches were made by commissioners from the Indian country and others. The item was finally adopted as reported and the amendment laid on the table.

The report of the Joint Committee on Foreign Missions was taken from the docket and considered. The resolutions were all adopted without argument. A motion to transfer the case of the Chinese, Indians and others in this country from the Board of Foreign Missions to the Board of Home Missions was carried.

The special order of the day, the reception of the report of the Joint Committee on Home Missions, was postponed until the afternoon on account of the absence of the chairman of the committee.

The afternoon session commenced with a debate by Elders William Rankin and James Pollock, and the motion of the latter to proceed to the election of the Board of Foreign Missions was not agreed to.

Dr. Paxton, of New York, presented the report of the Committee on Domestic Missions, showing a balance on hand of $65,037 59, and leaving to the General Assembly the question of location of the new board. Also recommending the liberal sustentation of the missionaries employed. A long and somewhat acrimonious debate followed between Dr. Paxton, of New York, and Rev. Dr. Musgrove, of Philadelphia, and the report was finally adopted, with sundry amendments.

Dr. McCosh, President of Princeton College, made an earnest appeal for an increased compensation for ministry, and presented a resolution that statistical information be given to the next General Assembly as to the inadequacy of the present payments. This was referred to the Committee on the Institution Fund, to which Dr. McCosh was added, and the Assembly adjourned.

A large meeting of the members of the General Assembly was held this evening in behalf of the foreign missions cause. Rev. Dr. Irving, one of the secretaries of the Board, presided, and addresses were made by the following gentlemen, missionaries of the countries named:—Albert Bushnell, Africa; A. G. Wilder, Kalapoor, India; Dr. Newton, Northern India, Dr. Williamson, Dacotah; Dr. McDonald, Siam, and Rev. Mr. Preston, of Canton, China.

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

The Expiring Throes of the Old Common Council—The Board of Aldermen in a Fog.

Pursuant to call the Board of Aldermen assembled yesterday afternoon with the President, Alderman Coman, in the chair. The members were all present except the one who cannot attend—Alderman Florence Scannell. After the routine part of the business had been disposed of, several resolutions were adopted relative to the appointment of Commissioners of Deeds. A remonstrance was received from the property owners on Forty-fourth street against paving that street with wooden pavement, and was referred to the Commissioners on Street Pavement. The President then took a bundle of papers up from his desk and looked over the titles and said there were several resolutions among them which could not be passed by the Common Council. These were for donations as follow:—$10,000 for the New York Hospital for Nervous Diseases, $2,184 to the Church of the Annunciation and $765 to the Church of the Epiphany. Then there was $350 for Mr McGinnis' horse, and $350 more for Mr. Murphy's horse. There were also resolutions providing for the paving of Thirty-fourth street from the Ninth to the Eleventh avenue, Twenty-first street, from the Eighth to the Eleventh avenue and Warren street from Broadway to West street with wooden pavement. The resolutions were all referred to the appropriate committees, and will, in all likelihood, lay over until the new Board comes into power. General orders were then taken up. Alderman Moore called up resolutions providing for the paving of Twelfth street, from Fifth avenue to Seventh avenue; Thirteenth street, from Fifth avenue to Jackson square, and Forty-sixth street, from Fourth avenue to Fifth avenue, with the Hamar wood pavement. The question was started whether the Board was not prohibited from touching any street already paved. This seemed to worry the City Fathers. Several of them did not know what to do. Alderman Miller asked to have the question divided. That was considered out of order, as the roll was being called. Several of the Peres asked what the question was, in the hope, evidently, that somebody might give them a hint as to how they should vote. They did not get it, and so eight of them voted against the resolutions, and they were lost. On motion of Alderman Miller the vote was reconsidered.

Alderman MILLER moved to have a vote taken on the resolution in relation to Forty-sixth street. Alderman Moore did not understand this. Two or three others asked "Why?"

Alderman MOORE then moved to have the matter recommitted to the Committee on Street Pavements.

Alderman MILLER hoped not. He hoped in vain, however, and the matter was recommitted.

By this time all hands seemed to be a little out of the net and so a motion was made to adjourn until Thursday at two P. M. One or two of the gentlemen from up town said, "Oh, no. We've got several general orders we want passed. You fellows got your orders through and you don't give us no show." Their appeal was in vain as the vote decided that the Board should adjourn.

THE ASSISTANT ALDERMEN

did nothing as there was not a quorum present.

NEW JERSEY STATE PRISON.

The New Workshop Completed—Description of the Building—The Advantages to the State—A New Wing To Be Added to the Prison.

The objections raised from time to time against the practice of throwing into the markets the products of convict labor do not seem to have much weight, so far, at least, as the New Jersey State Prison is concerned. In this institution over 400 men are daily employed by the contractors, and the amount of work done must be very large. This number will soon be increased to 600, as a new and magnificent shop has lately been erected, and is to be in full operation in a few days.

THE NEW SHOP

has been erected at an expense to the State of $65,000, the work having been performed by contract under the direction of the Board of Supervisors and under the immediate supervision of Colonel W. R. Murphy, the acting supervisor, and of David D. Hennion, the keeper of the prison. To any one who goes through the building and examines the quality and quantity of the work the terms of the contract must appear very reasonable. The building is a solid brick structure, 240 feet by 50, and consisting of three floors, the lower one being a half basement, but sufficiently lighted and ventilated for the purpose for which it is intended. Each floor is divided into four compartments, making twelve in all, and each measuring fifty eight feet by forty. A corridor or passageway ten feet in width extends the entire length along one side of the building, off which corridor two doors lead into each of the shops. The workshops are neatly fitted up, well lighted by a double tier of windows and furnished with a system of ventilation of the latest and most approved design. A well has been sunk for the special use of the shop, and an abundant supply of excellent water runs through every portion of the building. Closets are also provided in a convenient corner of each apartment, and the sewerage is excellent.

THE HEATING APPARATUS

extends along the walls on both sides, and the entire building is to be comfortably heated by steam during the winter season. For the sake of convenience instant communication can be held with the central office within by means of speaking trumpets, which enter every workshop. Although the new shop is located outside the prison walls, and unprotected at present by any other barricades than the strong iron bars which secure the windows, yet the entire concern is so well arranged that an escape on the part of any convict is rendered almost impossible. There are only two entrances, one adjoining the prison proper, through which alone the convicts pass and repass, and the other on the outside end for the special accommodation of the contractors. The two doors are firmly secured and continually guarded by watchmen, and nothing but the magic skill and science of some veritable scoundrel of the Jack Sheppard type can enable any convict to effect an exit from the place.

THE MACHINERY

now in the old shops will be removed into the new building next week. Both the contractors and the convicts, as well as the deputy keepers and instructors, are all glad of the proposed change of quarters, as the old concern became long ago too narrow and incommodious for the number of hands engaged. As soon as the machinery is properly adjusted work will be commenced. The State, as well as the contractors, will be benefited, as the increased shop room will serve to make the institution

SELF-SUPPORTING.

As soon as the fixtures and stock in the old shop are removed the concern is to be torn down and the work of building the new wing of the prison will be at once commenced. The necessity of further cell room is becoming every day more and more apparent, as the prison is now crowded to its utmost capacity. It is to be hoped, therefore, that the new wing will be pushed on as vigorously as the exigencies of the case require.

LITERATURE.

Criticisms of New Books.

AN ESSAY IN AID OF THE GRAMMAR OF ASSENT. By John Henry Newman, D. D. New York: The Catholic Publication Society.

This is something more than an essay. It is a philosophical treatise, and one in many respects exhaustive of the subject. Dr. Newman holds that there are three modes of entertaining propositions—doubting them, inferring them and assenting to them. In the case of revealed religion a man is either a sceptic; or a philosopher, thinking it more or less probable considered as a conclusion of reason; or he unhesitatingly believes. Should he disbelieve or dissent he is merely assenting to the contradictory of the thesis—viz., that there is no Revelation. Thus we have all belief resolved into assent, which the author divides into notional and real. That assent which is notional is a belief in propositions which express abstractions, and which Dr. Newman considers under five heads, which he calls Profession, Credence, Opinion, Presumption and Speculation. The argument here is very able and logical—much abler, in fact, and more satisfactory, paradoxical as it may seem, than his theories of and arguments on real assent, which follow in order. In notional assent, writes the author, the mind contemplates its own creations instead of things; in real it is directed towards things represented by impressions which they have left on the imagination. In other words, notional assent is but the acquiescence to imaginary propositions, while real assent is belief founded on substantial, existing matter. Where there is no real assent the mind is a prey to "impulses, fancies and wandering lights, whether as regards personal conduct, social and political action, or religion." Religious belief is consequently unconditional assent—real, of course. Not all religious belief, for Dr. Newman's argument is one for Christianity as represented by the Catholic Church. Undoubtedly this bias in favor of a single religious system, and of one form of such system, rather detracts from the force of his work; but the foundation of his argument—or, we may say, exposition of the "grammar of assent"—is one which all can stand upon. Wherever he is purely philosophical his doctrines will be accepted by all who entertain settled belief, not only in religion, but in numerous other things. But, whether regarded for its philosophy or theology, the work will doubtless be warmly welcomed in this country, as it has been in England. It is really a valuable production, something worthy of Dr. Newman and of his reputation.

BEFORE THE FOOTLIGHTS AND BEHIND THE SCENES—A Book About the "Show Business," &c. By Olive Logan.

This is a wonderful book. It is all the title page says it is. It tells all we wish to know about the show world, "from puppet shows to grand operas, from mountebanks to menageries, from learned pigs to lecturers, from burlesque blondes to actors and actresses." Olive Logan knows well the world she describes. In it she has truly lived, and moved, and had her being. The book, in consequence, is full of life pictures. It is a veritable cyclopedia, and may be consulted with some profit on all subjects that relate to plays and playgoers. Open it where you may, you find something readable, interesting, instructive. It is a book which thousands of thousands will buy, and which ought to put into the pocket of its author many thousands of dollars. In this work Miss Logan has made a bigger hit than she ever made upon the stage.

Among the works recently published, "Askaros Kassis, the Copt" (Philadelphia: J. B. Lippincott & Co.), is one of the most interesting we have read. It is written by Edwin De Leon, late United States Consul for Egypt, and a gentleman well known in literary circles. The scene of the story is of course laid in Egypt, and the plot is skilful and exciting. Mr. De Leon's knowledge of Eastern manners and customs naturally enable him to draw his characters with fidelity. We commend the book to the public. It is just such a one as will while away the time pleasantly these present sultry and coming hot days.

Hardly so good as we might have expected from the author of "John Halifax, Gentleman," but still pleasant and readable, is "A Brave Lady." (New York: Harper & Brothers.) It is a story of woman's sufferings and woman's fortitude through many weary years, of misfortunes such as seldom occur in real life, bravely borne, and finally of death at an old age. The story is well written, but it is unnatural and the characters are all so sombre that one is oppressed by a perusal of the book.

THE YOUNG WIFE'S COOK BOOK is just such a work as we can praise and advise our lady readers to purchase. It contains nearly eight hundred receipts for making everything that can possibly be named in connection with the household. One is almost bewildered by the array of dishes laid before him in these pages. It is really impossible to tire of food when it can be cooked in so many ways and forms. The book is published by Peterson & Brothers, of Philadelphia, and seems to be in every respect trustworthy.

THE MEN WHO ADVERTISE is the title of a large book published by George P. Rowell & Co., of this city. It contains numerous biographical sketches of prominent men of wealth known to the public as extensive advertisers, together with hints on the method of advertising. The book also contains a directory of all the newspapers published in the United States, which will be found of value to advertisers.

A very pleasant little tale is that of "The Two Sisters," written by Lady Herbert (Boston, Patrick Donahoe). The story is not an original conception, being borrowed from several others, and which fact is mentioned; but it serves its object in explaining the origin and purpose of the "Good Shepherd," a Catholic religious institution.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

WALL STREET, MONDAY, May 30—6 P. M.

Decoration Day was made a half holiday in Wall street. The Stock Exchange adjourned after the morning call, and the Long Room and Gold Room adjourned at one o'clock, while there was no afternoon session of the government board.

STOCKS DULL AND LOWER.

The week opened on a very dull feeling in all the markets. At the Stock Exchange the only features were Pacific Mail and Harlem. The former ran up to 44⅜ and sustained prices for other shares; but on its subsequent reaction to 43⅞ the whole market fell off a quarter to a half per cent, Harlem declining to 143½. The leading speculators were absent from the market, and although a small group of brokers continued to make prices on the street until as late as four o'clock, very little was done. There is a disposition to discount the effect of the introduction on Wednesday next of the "ninety-five million" contraction bill, and the temper of the few operators present to-day was bearish. Canton Company shares advanced to 69½ on the announcement that the Union Railroad ordinance had passed one branch of the Baltimore Common Council. Western Union was weak under the defeat of the postal telegraph measure. The Vanderbilt Securities were heavy in consequence of the anticipated enforcement of the collection of the five per cent internal revenue tax on the scrip dividends, and Reading was firm on renewed impetus given it by the Philadelphia clique, headed by the ex-Secretary of the Navy, who were greatly disconcerted when the "Princess of Wales" sold out her stock, as we announced a few days ago. St. Paul was weak and the common stock declined to 64⅞. Ohio and Mississippi was strong and steady. Boston, Hartford and Erie again declined to 4. The following prices were made on the street at half-past four o'clock this evening:—Canton, 69 a 70; Western Union, 31⅛ a 31⅜; Pacific Mail, 44 a 44⅛; New York Central consolidated, 100½ a 100⅝; Hudson River, scrip, 95⅜ a 95½; Harlem, 143½ a 144½; Erie, 23⅜ a 23½; Reading, 106⅛ a 105⅜; Lake Shore, 97⅛ a 97¼; Chicago and Northwestern, 81⅛ a 81⅜; do. preferred, 88⅜ a 88⅝; Rock Island, 118⅜ a 118⅝; Milwaukee and St. Paul, 64⅞ a 65; do. preferred, 79⅞ a 80; Toledo and Wabash, 55⅛ a 55⅝; Ohio and Mississippi, 39⅛ a 39⅜; New Jersey Central, 108⅞ a 109⅛; Boston, Hartford and Erie, 3⅞ a 4.

GOLD DULL AND LOWER.

The gold market was dull and heavy. All the sales of the day occurred at 114⅜ and 114¼, and the quotation closed 114⅜ a 114⅜. The Treasury programme is regarded as unfavorable to an upward movement, and hence the lower prices as compared with Saturday, the bearish feeling being assisted by the inactivity in foreign exchange, which was firm, however, at 109⅞ for prime bankers' sixty day bills and 110⅜ for sight. In the gold loan market the rate ranged from three per cent for carrying to flat for borrowing. The operations of the Gold Exchange Bank resulted as follows:—Gross clearances, $33,226,000; gold balances, $1,164,246; currency balances, $1,342,430.

MONEY EASY.

The money market was easy and steady, the dulness of the day preventing any important transactions. On governments and stocks the rate was three to four per cent, with exceptions at five per cent on stocks. A "seller thirty" transaction in stocks occurred at four per cent as the special rate of interest. Commercial paper was without new feature.

GOVERNMENTS STRONG AND STEADY.

The government list was strong, despite the lower price of gold, the contemplated purchase of eight millions by the Treasury during the month of June offsetting the influence of a decline in the gold premium. The market was dull. Buyers are disposed to await the result of the financial measures likely to come on the Congressional tapis this week. The latest street prices were as follows:—United States currency sixes, 112⅞ a 113; do. sixes, 1881, registered, 117⅛ a 117⅜; do. do., coupon, 117⅛ a 117⅜; do. five-twenties, registered, May and November, 111⅛ a 111⅜; do. do., 1862, coupon, do., 112⅛ a 112½; do. do., 1864, do. do., 111⅛ a 111⅜; do. do., 1865, do. do., 111⅛ a 111⅜; do. do., 1865, coupon, January and July, 113⅜ a 113⅞; do. do., 1867, do. do., 114⅛ a 114⅜; do. do., 1868, do. do., 114⅛ a 114⅜; do. ten-forties, registered, 108 a 108⅛; do. do., coupon, 108⅛ a 108⅜.

SOUTHERN SECURITIES MORE ACTIVE.

The Southern list was more active and the first call embraced dealings in the Tennessees, North and South Carolinas, Missouris and Alabamas. The Tennessees were strong and about three-quarters per cent higher. The general list was steady and closed as follows:—Tennessee, ex coupon, 61 a 61½; do. new, 56⅜ a 57; do. 5 per cent, 45 a 48; Virginia, ex coupon, 69 a 69½; do., new, 68 a 69; do. registered stock, 55½ a 56; do. registered, 1866, 65 a 66; do. registered, 1867, 61 a 62; Georgia sixes, 87 a 90; do. sevens, 95½ a 96; do. sevens, interest payable in Georgia, 92 a 94; North Carolina, ex coupon, 48⅛ a 49⅜; do. new, 25⅛ a 25⅜; Missouri sixes, 94⅛ a 94⅜; do. REMARKABLE SCENE AT A MURDER TRIAL.

Conviction for Murder in the First Degree—Touching Prayer by the Prisoner.

[From the Janeville (Wisconsin) Gazette, May 27.]

After listening to the charge of the Judge this morning the jury upon the Barrett murder trial retired. Their verdict, after an absence of two hours and a half, was, "Guilty of murder in the first degree, in manner and form as charged in the indictment." The defendant was charged with killing his brother Oliver in the town of Magnolia, in this county, on Sunday, the 29th day of March, 1868, by plunging a butcher knife into his heart. The grief of the prisoner and his friends upon the rendering of this verdict was uncontrollable, bursting forth in a wail of agony, and the eyes of many spectators in the court room were filled with tears. When the emotion had somewhat subsided the prisoner knelt and offered the following really touching and impressive prayer.

PRAYER BY THE PRISONER.

Our Heavenly Father! we bow here before Thee at this present time, feeling to rejoice and feeling thankful for the blessings we have received from Thy bountiful hand. Oh, God! Thou hast said we had better fear Thee that can destroy both soul and body, and we rejoice that Thou hast pardoned this poor soul; and we feel to rejoice that if we have to lie there within those prison walls during life, that Thou hast pardoned this poor heart. And now Thou art able to go with this poor body and meet me within the dark dungeon walls and able to rejoice this poor heart, and when he is done with this world he may come to Thee at Thy right hand. We plead, because we feel needy. We come, our Heavenly Father, praying that Thou wouldst have mercy upon our family and upon our relations, and pardon their hearts. Thou knowest what danger they are exposed to, and we ask at this time that thou wouldst drive all enmity from their hearts and let them go from here rejoicing, that this poor heart may meet them some day before Thy throne. O God! we have to leave a dear, poor family, and we pray that Thou wouldst stretch out Thy arm and be a husband to her. Let Thy loving spirit go to that partner's heart. Let her rejoice that there is a word that can be sweeter than a husband's word to her heart. We pray for those dear little ones. O God! be a father, and a father indeed and in need, to them. And now, thanking Thee for the two years of comfort we have had, and thanking Thee for every moment we have had upon earth, we go from here believing Thou wouldst be with us and guide us through the remainder of life, and when we die give us the blessings Thou hast promised us through Christ, our Redeemer. Amen.

Commenting upon this case, the Gazette editorially remarks:—The whole family seems to be afflicted with a religious fanaticism which finds freer expression upon their lips than is crystalized into proper acts by their every day lives. The earnest and seemingly devout prayer of the guilty man in the court room immediately after the rendition of the verdict was highly dramatic, and touched with deepest pity and commisseration, the feelings of all who witnessed the affecting scene.

The conviction of Stowe a few days ago for the murder of Humphrey Roberts, and now the conviction of Barrett for a more aggravated offence, will have a tendency, we hope, to deter others from imbruing their hands in the blood of their fellow men.

Barrett will be sentenced to the State prison for life.

POLICE RECREATIONS.

A Heavy Batch of "Slouching" Shields—The Way Tommy Costello Might Promote a Man—"Mouse" Eagan to the Rescue—How Prisoners are "Let Slip."

A heavy calendar, embracing thirty-nine delinquent policemen, greeted Commissioner Brennan when he mounted the judgment seat in room No. 41 Police Headquarters yesterday morning. The great majority of these cases presented only the usual phases of police offences, such as being off post, talking when on post and being late at roll call, which were condoned by the usual fines, ranging from one to three days' pay. But there were some cases that got out of the beaten track, and notably that of John Little, patrolman of the Eighteenth precinct. The well known Thomas Costello appeared as his accuser, and averred that Little, desiring to use the Costello corpus as a stepping stone to a captaincy, had fired three shots at him and indulged in various sanguinary threats and propositions, even going so far as to propose, and Costello and Little being armed cap-a-pie, each should put a pistol down the throat of the other and mutually "blow their damned heads off," which was peremptorily declined by the challenged party. Little greeted these averments of his accuser with a glare of incredulity, and proceeding to give his version of the pending troubles, denied everything but the shooting, which he explained in this wise:—He was called while on duty to quell a disturbance, and so doing arrested one "Mouse" Eagan, whereupon Costello attempted to rescue the prisoner, even going so far as to draw a pistol upon him, and thereupon he had fired three shots at him. The case having thus become thoroughly mixed, it was adjourned until Friday.

John D. La Rue, also of the Eighteenth precinct, was charged with neglect of duty in failing to make prompt report of three cases of smallpox to Sanitary Inspector Roberts. It was shown that the cases were reported at the station house at twenty minutes past three P. M., and that the Sergeant gave the notice to La Rue, who did not deliver it to Dr. Roberts until eighteen minutes past nine o'clock the next morning. The officer could make no better excuse than that he had forgotten the matter, and his case was referred to the Board, who will probably take measures to improve his memory.

Another case of interest was that of car detectives Hamilton and Levins, of the Nineteenth precinct, who were jointly charged with clubbing William B. Daly, of No. 29 Ridge street, at Jones Wood on the 16th inst. There appears to have been a general shindy there upon that day, and it was claimed that a party of fifteen, among whom Daly was prominent, started for Hamilton with the intention of subjecting him to the decapitating process ironically called "putting a head on him." This view of the case, however, was not so strongly supported by evidence as to cause the case to be dismissed, instead of which it was referred to the Board.

On the 18th inst. a prisoner, named Thomas Costello, was taken into the Second District Police Court as a suspected pickpocket, by officers Mulligan and Evans, of the Twenty-ninth precinct, and somebody blundering egregiously he walked out without let or hindrance from anybody. Officers Andre, Crowe, Kelly and Ferguson were arraigned yesterday for neglect of duty in the matter, but the Commissioners, holding that it was the duty of the precinct officers to keep watch and ward over their prisoner, dismissed the complaint. It is presumed, therefore, that Mulligan and Evans, who appeared as complainants yesterday, are themselves to be placed upon trial.

THE FENIANS.

All the Warriors Returning to Their Homes.

Reminiscences of the Great Struggle Against England.

Canada Still Excited About Nothing.

Fenianism Disappearing From St. Albans—Arrest of Boyle O'Reilly—General McDowell at St. Albans.

ST. ALBANS, May 30, 1870.

Nearly every vestige of the Fenian war has disappeared, and the pleasant little village of St. Albans is again tranquil and inviting. Already, in fact, the influx has commenced and a rare season for summer visitors is anticipated. The United States troops still linger, but the danger of further violation of the neutrality laws having passed they will return to the Boston forts to-morrow or next day.

General J. Boyle O'Reilly, who succeeded O'Neill in the command of the defeated warriors at Cook's Corner, was taken into custody by United States Marshal Foster this afternoon, and he is now confined in the jail in this town. He has been lounging around the line since the fight and was evidently seeking arrest for the sake of notoriety, but he will find that the government is in earnest in his case as well as in O'Neill's, and a long season of imprisonment is undoubtedly before him.

General McDowell arrived here from Malone this evening and established his headquarters at the Welden House. General Ingalls also returned with him.

A Few Fenians Still at St. Albans—Leaders Still in Jail—Opinions Regarding General O'Neill.

ST. ALBANS, May 30, 1870.

A few Fenians are still loitering about the streets, but will leave for their homes as soon as they can obtain money to pay for their transportation. Colonels Brown and [illegible] and Burgey are still confined in jail, being, as yet, unable to obtain bail.

Many of the Fenians believe that O'Neill intended to be arrested by the United States Marshal, and threaten his life if any opportunity presents itself when he is released. They still claim that he has a large amount of money, collected from the hard earnings of Irish laborers.

A Tale of War—Statement of Two Fenian Officers—Another Account of the Pigeon Hill Skirmish—O'Neill to be Shot at Sight.

WHITE RIVER JUNCTION, Vt., May 30, 1870.

Colonel Sullivan and Captain Burke, of Boston, arrived here this afternoon bound homeward with a party of Fenians. From them I get this statement of the Fenian invasion. Captain Burke commanded the advance company at Pigeon Hill, consisting of thirty-nine men. Both of his lieutenants skirked duty and fled the field. On Wednesday at a quarter to ten a guard was placed over the lines to prevent citizens and carriages from passing to Canada. Marshal Foster appeared and endeavored to cross, but he was refused permission. He then met General O'Neill and gave the Fenian general six hours to cross the border and get into Canada. Then O'Neill took the line of march with knapsacks, not letting the men know where they were going. They soon found it necessary to throw away their knapsacks. Within forty rods of the line and five rods from the bridge the firing of the Canadians began. No order was given at this point, nor was any given by O'Neill, save the speech he made to the troops. When the bullets were flying thickest Colonel Sullivan was ordered to the rear for the reserves. In about ten minutes he was followed by General O'Neill, who was then arrested by Marshal Foster. Boyle O'Reilly then assumed command, having been left in charge by General O'Neill. O'Reilly left to find O'Neill, and then Major Murphy took command. Upon hearing of the arrest he ordered a retreat. Then the Boston company of Burke advanced in the midst of a scathing fire to recover the killed and wounded. He returned with two men, leaving one behind. The entire body of troops now marched to the rear. An accidental discharge of a musket created a panic, the men believing they were pursued by Canadians. They all fled indiscriminately and halted only at the camp. Then a war council was held by the officers, which adjourned to meet at six in the evening. It never met again. General Donnelly was brought to the Franklin House by two Canadian officials, who, in performing this act of magnanimity, requested that their names should not be published. General O'Neill is charged by these officers with either gross ignorance or cunning treachery. They assert that he gets $3,000 a year, and that he works for money, not principle; that his movement at Franklin was an organized blunder, and that his subsequent career was ignominious and cowardly. They say they will shoot him on sight.

Fenian Leaders in Council at Buffalo—Disgusted, but Not Disheartened.

BUFFALO, May 30, 1870.

Fenian leaders from the Middle States and the West were in council here to-day investigating the late disaster and adopting measures for a reorganization. Although disgusted at the miserable failure at St. Albans they profess not to be dispirited, and claim that the organization will steadily pursue its object to success.

All Quiet Along the Lines—Canadians Arresting Supposed Fenians—Sending the Invaders Home—An Alderman Under Arrest.

OGDENSBURG, May 30, 1870.

All is quiet along the lines to-day, with the exception that the Canadian military authorities at Prescott have made a number of arrests of persons crossing from this side, supposed to be Fenians returning to Canada, who had left home for the purpose of joining the raiders. Marshal Quimby is furnishing transportation to the Fenians remaining at Malone. About 200 Fenians passed over the road to-night direct for home. Alderman Larkin, of the Third ward of this city, is among the Fenian officers held as prisoners by the United States authorities at Malone. He was connected with the commissary department and had not crossed the line.

FENIAN NEWS FROM CANADA.

Continued Excitement in Montreal—Rumors Afloat—Feeling of the Canadians—Sentiments Towards Great Britain and the United States.

MONTREAL, May 30, 1870.

The excitement here over the warlike ebullition on the part of the Fenians still continues, although matters are comparatively quiet on the border. A large force is kept in readiness for any emergency. The Canadians are much rejoiced over their recent victories, and men who participated in the engagements are regarded as heroes. It may as well be mentioned that the people here did not look upon the affair as a joke by any means, but were deeply concerned as to the result of the invasion. I have learned from the most authentic sources that there is a very large body of Fenians among the inhabitants of this city; that during the preliminary arrangements they were undecided as to what course they should pursue, and that they earnestly sympathized with the movement I have every reason to believe, and were only deterred from taking action in anticipation of defeat, and that in case they had taken part in the movement they would, of course, have been driven from their homes and deprived of their property. Moreover, statements are going the rounds that the authorities hesitated to despatch the regular soldiers of the British Army to the front, fearing lest many of them, being Fenians, would have been dilatory in falling upon their brotherhood, and might, perhaps, have joined their ranks upon the field. What truth there may be in such an assertion it is difficult to say. At all events the volunteers were sent to the border and did their work satisfactorily up to the present. It is their boast that not one of their number was killed or wounded. Fenians, however, who fought at both Cook's Corner and Trout River solemnly aver that at each place several of the Canadians fell, but whether they were shot dead or merely disabled they don't affirm.

It cannot be denied that the Canadian volunteers presented a fine appearance, and were unquestionably well drilled prior to their advance to the border. Had there been what could be termed a regular battle the Fenians must have been terribly hacked, owing to the paucity of their numbers as well as the ignorance, stupidity and inexcusable thoughtlessness of their leaders, not one of whom was fit to lead a donkey. It is admitted even here that the invasion might have been considerably prolonged had there been a competent military man at the head of the Fenians, who now denounce with extreme bitterness the delusion, hunger and ignominy to which they were cruelly subjected.

The Canadian volunteers still maintain a sharp lookout, for the wildest rumors are still afloat. Among the many is one to the effect that a raid is intended on Barnitz Island, which is distant about a mile from Cornwall. The Forty-first battalion from Brockville and others have been quartered there since last week, when the garrison numbered over 800 men. Several companies of volunteers have been stationed at Ottawa and all along the border. The greatest vigilance is being kept up.

Pond Island, it was generally asserted, would be taken, but so far as can be learned there appears but little likelihood of such an event arising.

The Fenians are completely disgusted, and numbers of them are quitting the lines, bound homeward. Never were men so completely betrayed into the commission of such a daring, idiotic proceeding, and though perfectly willing to have risked their necks they were entirely unacquainted with the surrounding circumstances of the affair. While at Franklin yesterday I was assured that General Donnelly, the man supposed to have been wounded at Cook's Corner, never received a bullet, but that while scaling a wall near the barn from which he issued was accidentally scratched in the back, and that although he has since been confined at the Franklin House he was up and walking yesterday. He had been faithfully attended by a Fenian captain and lieutenant, and it is alleged that when it was discovered that there was nothing at all the matter with their commander they left in disgust.

The journals are considerably exercised over the invasion and present various views of the entire affair. An opinion is entertained that Fenian aggression is solely the result of Irish contempt for Gladstone and his policy, and a strong complaint is made against British rule and interference, and it is contended that England left Canada entirely unprotected after suggesting if not provoking attack. This looks strongly like annexation, and not a few are found to express themselves favorably on that point. On the other hand a feeling seems to prevail in some quarters that the United States authorities have passively, if not actively, approved and encouraged the invasion, inasmuch as they were aware of practical means to give the crusade an effective character and course, and the proclamation only came at the last hour, when an overt act was inevitable. The majority of people, however, feel satisfied that the United States government acted fairly and with promptness, and used every possible means to prevent and put an end to the trouble. There is no doubt whatever that had it not been for the appearance of United States troops upon the border the Fenians would not have desisted for months to come. I learn that a very large quantity of ammunition, upon which the Fenians depended for another attack, has been seized and guarded by the United States authorities at Malone. All the newspapers here and elsewhere throughout the Dominion contain an account of the engagements copied from the HERALD, which contained the earliest and most various despatches of the encounters on the border. The excitement which prevails here will probably last until the volunteers return from the front.

Fifteen Hundred Fenians from Buffalo—They are Determined to Make a Raid—No Fears Entertained—The Welland Canal Threatened—Progress of the Red River Expedition.

TORONTO, May 30, 1870.

Despatches from Buffalo say that there are in that city about 1,500 Fenians, who express their determination to make a raid in some locality; but being without organization or any person capable of leading them no attack need be feared. This opinion is from a source usually considered good.

The Port Colborne people expect that an attempt will be made to break the Welland canal, but as there are plenty of troops in the vicinity there is really not much danger of the success of any such undertaking. Three hundred Red River troops and one company of regulars are under arms here, ready to move to Port Colborne or elsewhere if occasion requires.

The Red River troops were to start for Fort William to-morrow, but will now probably be detained as a precaution. The general wish here is that the Fenians will come across and be so thoroughly beaten that the "sunburst" would be thoroughly eclipsed and an end put to the present suspense.

THE FENIANS IN THE METROPOLIS.

Efforts of the Deluded to Produce Artificial Nerve—Reading Bogus Despatches—The Orangemen After the Fenians—Mass Meeting of "Invaders" in Brooklyn—The Government Overhauled.

As a body the Fenians were about the "meekest" class of individuals to be found in this city yesterday. Whistling, whiskey-guzzling, buncombe and all the other forlorn hopes were indulged in to keep up a fair display of nerve and fortitude, and they closed their programme of stupidity by actually endeavoring to throw discredit on the newspaper reports received and published daily by the press at great outlay and no small amount of labor from "the front." If they had anything to blame the press for at all it is for publishing anything about them, perhaps, as without the press their insane idea of invading the territory and subjugating three millions of people would never have been disseminated with sufficient promptness to call five hundred Fenians to "arums." The facts is, if the reports had been burdened with a different result the press would have been the Fenian gospel, and they would have "sworn by it."

At the "headquarters," in West Fourth street, and Hibernia Hall, in Prince street, a large number of "misguided waifs" were congregated yesterday, and whiled away time by begging for subscriptions, reading some of their "own" telegrams from the Canadian frontier, and enlisting for the fun of the thing. No bounties were offered, not because they were not needed, but mainly because they hadn't got the "stuff" to make "bounties." According to one of their official despatches Colonel O'Leary had gobbled up sixty prisoners by a raid on the "Kanucks," and the deuce generally is to be played at Detroit, Buffalo and other points. Of course the Fenians were disposed to believe these reports, and got off the appropriate amount of enthusiasm. A number of the "great defeated" came into town by the Hudson River Railroad direct from the scene of the Quixotic frays of last week. Some of them brought their "bruised and battered 'arums'" with them, to be used hereafter as mantel-piece ornaments, but all of the veterans were sullen and indisposed to "say much." Those who have any brains own up that "the dog is dead."

A report was in circulation last night to the effect that the Orangemen in this city, who have been holding nightly meetings for some time past, have perfected a thorough organization with a view of repairing immediately to the front in opposition to the Fenians. This rumor is based upon a private circular which was issued yesterday, and distributed to members last evening, enjoining them to be ready at a moment's notice. It is believed the whole body will be in readiness to leave to-day, if necessary.

Mass Meeting in Brooklyn City Hall Park.

Shortly after eight o'clock last evening a small party of men assembled on the steps of the City Hall, Brooklyn, and formed the nucleus of a mass meeting of friends and sympathizers of the Fenian cause. Mr. Edward Gallagher, a prominent trades-union agitator, came forward and in stentorian tones called the meeting to order, stating that the object of the assemblage was to raise funds wherewith to defray the expense of the transportation of the brave Fenians who had been left on the Canadian border, friendless and penniless, and who were unable therefore to return to their homes. Their destitution, he said, was great and hence the necessity of immediate action. By this time the assemblage had increased to the number of several hundred.

Mr. GALLAGHER introduced, with a few eulogistic remarks,

Ex-Congressman WILLIAM E. ROBINSON as the champion of the Irish cause. Mr. Robinson on coming forward was received with loud cheers, and after the applause had subsided he proceeded to state the exigency of the occasion and the necessity for prompt action in the movement which they had met to promote. Here he paused, as Mr. R. M. Hooley, the proprietor of Hooley's Opera House, came forward and handed in a fifty dollar bill, with the sentiment that "the mite was to enable the brave Irishmen at the front to return to their homes, in order that they might get ready to strike again for freedom." The sentiment was applauded. Mr. Robinson, continuing his remarks, said it was a lamentable fact that not one member of Congress had made a motion to mitigate the outrage committed by the United States authorities in the seizure of arms belonging to Fenians. The government allowed arms to be purchased in New York and forwarded to St. Domingo, to be used there against the people, while, on the other hand, the government made seizure of Fenian arms and ammunition. He said that while millions of dollars were being expended in jobs by men in Congress under various pretexts, such as the annexation of St. Domingo, which territory was not at all desirable of acquisition to the United States, injustice was done to the Irish people here. It was not at all desirable that St. Domingo should be annexed; but Ireland should be free. He favored the annexation of Ireland to the United States, and hoped to see Senators and Representatives in Congress from the provinces of the "Green Isle," and the day would come, even old as he was, when he would see this accomplished. Mr. Robinson denounced in the bitterest language possible the sycophancy of those men who made genuflexions in the gutter before the booby-faced Prince, the scion of an adulterous, drunken and imbecile family. He was sorry that ladies were present at the reception of the Prince in Brooklyn, as the Prince was not fit to keep company with ladies.

A VOICE—Yes, he is, with Lady Mordaunt! (Loud laughter.)

Leaving the Prince Mr. ROBINSON animadverted on the charges repeatedly made that the servant girls were defrauded by this Fenian movement, to which they had contributed. It might be that part of the money collected from them had been misappropriated; but there never was a great undertaking attempted that some dishonest men did not take advantage of it. Be this as it might, there was not one of these servant girls who did not contribute her money with a blessing and a smile of gratification far greater than was ever experienced by those who had basked in the smiles of the booby Prince. He alluded to the inefficiency of the government in not according protection to American citizens in Cuba, and said that there was not a single United States gunboat to be found there to render that protection due to those citizens. The government, in fact, had done everything possible to crush out the spirit of freedom in Cuba.

Speeches were afterwards made by Messrs. Joseph I. Clark, John O'Rourke and others, who appealed to the charity of the meeting and all Irishmen in this matter. A number of contributions were made and a very handsome sum of money was realized.

OLD WORLD ITEMS.

The Emperor of Brazil, say the Portuguese papers, has refused a statue which his people are about to erect to him, and recommends that the money should be spent on primary schools. The statue, however is to go on.

On the 29th of April the fifty-second birthday of the Emperor of Russia was celebrated by the Prussian court in the royal palace at Berlin, and King William made a very significant speech. Diplomatic straws!

Raton, or rat, is the term applied in Paris to the juvenile street thieves. One of these, hunchbacked and lame, was captured the other day. His hunch was found to consist of two pots of pâté de foie gras, three pairs of slippers, two pieces of sparerib and a fine cheese, while to his stump-leg was suspended a superb sausage. The raton lived by his own as well as by other people's infirmities.

When Mlle. Morio was singing in the grand Conversations Hall at Baden an Englishman besought her to sing for him for one minute. She complied, while he counted the notes, watch in hand. "Sixty-three exactly" at the expiration of the time. "You're a blonde and I'll play sixty-three dollars on the rouge." He did so and swept the board.

A considerable portion of the Jewish population of Lithuania and Poland are about to emigrate to the countries of the Don and the Caucasus; the remainder will proceed to North America. The Russian government has given its consent, and has delivered passports to every man possessed of seventy-five roubles (300 francs). Important sums have also been contributed for that object by the Jewish societies of London and Paris.

The "Leabhar na Huidri," an ancient Irish collection of writings, will shortly appear in fac simile. The proof sheets are being revised at the Royal Irish Academy. The book, which takes its name from having been originally written upon the skin of a red calf, is of very early date, and was preserved at the Abbey of Clonmacnoise. The numerous glosses which it contains render it of considerable philological value.

On the fête of Bairam the European Consuls paid the customary visit to the Bey of Tunis. The Prime Minister made a speech, but addressed himself solely to the representatives of France, Austria, England and Italy, and turned his back [illegible] the others, among whom were those of the [illegible] United States, Spain and Belgium. These latter, [illegible], when the Minister had concluded, protested against this violation of all diplomatic courtesy, and would not accept the apologies offered until the allocution had been repeated to them.

"For some days past," says the Nord, "the postman at Remersdael (Belgium) had found small particles of wool and straw among his letters, for the presence of which he could not account, as the box was out of the reach of children. As on one occasion he observed a bird flying away from the aperture in the lid he closely examined the interior and found that a swallow had built her nest inside and had laid four eggs there. A remarkable circumstance is that letters are being constantly thrown in, but she does not seem to pay any attention to their fall."

Robbery à la petite vérole or by the help of smallpox is the latest touch in Paris. A suffering patient is alone in bed when the rogue presents himself. "Now," says the latter, "tell me where to find your money and jewels. Don't get excited or you'll have a relapse; don't try to get out of bed or you'll catch cold," and so saying fastens the bell-pull. Of course, the victim yields.

A MISPLACED SWITCH.

Accident on the Newark and New York Railroad.

In consequence of a misplaced switch at the West Bergen depot of the Newark and New York Railroad at half-past seven o'clock yesterday morning an accident occurred, which, fortunately, was attended with no serious results to any person. The locomotive ran off the track, tumbled over and was embedded in the bank; but the passenger cars were not thrown off. Three passengers were slightly bruised by the shock. The conductor was thrown over the back of a seat and slightly injured. The engineer and fireman saved themselves by jumping off. The passengers were taken to New York by an outward bound train, which turned back from the scene of the wreck. This case, it is charged, is one of sheer negligence on the part of the switchman, who was forthwith suspended from further duty.

THE FIGHT FOR THE BONDS.

Judge Fullerton Appears as Counsel for Mrs. Burke.

The examination in the case of Mrs. Virginia C. Burke against Ira C. Gardner and wife and Mr. and Mrs. Graff, their son-in-law and daughter, for the recovery of the bonds alleged to have been stolen from the body of the late Captain John Alexander, of New Orleans, was to have been resumed yesterday before Surrogate Hutchings. Mr. Redfield, counsel for Mrs. Burke, daughter of Captain Alexander, introduced ex-Judge William Fullerton to the court as senior counsel, and the proceedings promise ere long to assume a phase of severe contest and a disclosure of all the actual facts. Counsel for the defence failing to appear, the hearing was adjourned, by consent of Judge Fullerton, until to-morrow.

A MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE.

At half-past nine o'clock last evening an unknown man was observed sitting quietly on the sidewalk at the corner of Twenty-seventh street and Eighth avenue. Suddenly the man sprung to his feet and commenced disrobing himself. He divested himself of his hat, coat, vest and pantaloons, which he placed carefully on the sidewalk. The man then mysteriously and unaccountably disappeared and no trace of him could be obtained. The police were informed of the affair and made diligent search for him throughout the neighborhood, but the man could not be found. His clothes were taken to the Sixteenth precinct police station, where they are held for identification. It is supposed that the man is insane and is wandering about in a semi-nude state.

THE CONNECTICUT PRIZE FIGHTERS.

William Edge, one of the parties arrested in April at Charles Island for engaging in a prize fight, has had his trial upon that charge before the Superior Court at New Haven, Conn., and been found guilty. Sentence has been suspended, in order to give counsel time to file a motion for new trial. Edge had just arrived in New York from England, when he was induced to go to the Charles Island set-to, and after he got there to have a scrub fight. Four of the parties arrested on the island, who were committed to jail for want of bail, have within a few days been released by the payment of costs.

IMPORTANT ARRESTS.

Several days ago John Kandle and George Marshall were arrested by one of Colonel Whitely's detectives, charged with travelling about the country personating government detectives and disposing of United States bonds under that guise. On their persons were found $16,000 in five-twenty United States bonds and $12,150 in miscellaneous bonds and stocks, which are all supposed to have been stolen. The prisoners are confined at the Ludlow street jail to await examination.

ATTEMPTED OUTRAGE.

Last evening Dennis Collins, residing at No. 72 Oliver street, induced Florence Smith, a servant girl living at No. 20 Anson place, Brooklyn, to accompany him to a house of ill repute at the corner of Catharine and Cherry streets, and there attempted to violate her person. The girl screamed for help, which attracted the attention of the police, who entered the house and arrested Dennis, who was locked up at the Oak street police station.

A CHAPTER OF DISTRESSING ACCIDENTS.—On last Saturday the wife and children of Jerry Selby went to visit the family of Patrick McNabb, living some seven miles east of this place. The children of the two families, while playing some distance from the house, began making quite a noise and chasing each other, whereupon a dog belonging to Mr. McNabb, thinking the children were in a fight, began to bite the children of Mrs. Selby. The cries of the children attracted their mothers' attention, who ran to their rescue, whereupon the dog attacked Mrs. Selby, biting and tearing her very severely, Mrs. McNabb in the meantime doing all in her power to get the dog off. A young man by the name of Edwards, working for Mr. McNabb, ran to a neighbor's house to get a gun to shoot the dog after he had rescued the women and children, and while returning with the gun, to ascertain fully that it was loaded, put his foot on the hammer and blew into the barrel, when his foot slipped off the hammer, causing a discharge of the gun, the ball passing out through the top of his head, killing him instantly. Dr. Byers was called to attend the sufferers. He reports the woman and two children torn by the dog as in a very critical condition.—Petersburg (Pike county, Ind.) Press, May 25.

A WHOLE FAMILY POISONED.—The family of Mrs. Buchanan, near Christiansburg, Brown county, Ind., consisting of six persons, were poisoned last Monday morning at breakfast. As soon as it was known the eldest son David, eighteen years old, started for a physician, but died before reaching him. The others were alive when last heard from. Three packages of poison were found in the well. It is supposed that a relative from Ohio, who had been in the neighborhood for some time, is the guilty person. They inherit jointly with him a large estate. He has been trying to buy their interest, but could not, and it is supposed he took this way to get their portion of the property.—Indianapolis Journal, May 22.

ST. DOMINGO.

A United States Agent in Trouble—The Hartmont Loan—Another Difficulty—Fears of a New Haytien Revolution.

ST. DOMINGO, May 17, 1870.

The Dominican government has instructed its Minister at Washington to request the early recall of Mr. Perry, the United States Commercial Agent at St. Domingo, on account of his rude conduct to various high officials, "offensive letters written to members of the Cabinet" and also for "acts unbecoming his position in his intercourse with the natives." There are about a dozen white citizens of the United States doing business in St. Domingo city, and they are divided into three or four warmly antagonistic parties. Those for and those not for annexation, and those for and those against the United States Commercial Agent, and nearly each member of this unfraternal fraternity, it is said, is to-day writing to the States, per Tybee, his own account of this curious fiasco. Besides the quarrel with the government, Mr. Perry had a little affair in court this week, which is causing no little excitement among all classes, and on which the divided American parties have redivided, though the Dominicans are all of one mind in condemning him.

The Hartmont loan question is also up again. The contract lapsed and fell dead last December by the failure of the proposed lenders to produce the promised sum within the specified time. But there is a scheme on foot to get in some claim for damages as a lien on the annexation money. Baez, however, is hard to beat in the keen encounter of wits, and it is safe to predict that Hartmont will not win this time.

There is a kind of triangular difficulty starting up between Hayti, St. Domingo and the United States about the settlement of the Dominican frontier. There was a plan for colonizing that section of the Dominican territory with a thousand picked settlers from the United States, but Mr. Perry was in trouble about that too, and received some sharp rebuffs from the Dominican Secretary of State before he would give up his claim to know what the government was doing. There is something in the wind. Hayti is on the eve of another revolution, and she will be more than ever unable to check the lawless bands that live by plundering the few and poor inhabitants of that region. The Dominican government is [illegible], and it is not certain that Uncle Sam will be ready to undertake the task of reducing it to order. We shall have news before long that will surprise most people.

LABORERS' RIOT IN NEWARK.

Some thirty laborers in the employ of Mr. Edward Keloe, a Newark contractor, now engaged in building a sewer through Mulberry and Greene streets, struck work yesterday for an increase of wages, and became so violent as to threaten to kill any other men who would undertake to work at the old rate of pay. A few of the men disregarded the threats of the malcontents and continued work. A desperate encounter took place, in the course of which one young man, a recent arrival from the Old Country, escaped being beaten to death only through the determined action of some friendly fellow workmen. No person was reported seriously injured. Information was left last evening at Police Headquarters of the émeute, and asking for constabulary help this morning, as it was feared that a more serious rencontre would take place.

NATIONAL GUARD CHIT CHAT.

The Seventh and Twenty-second regiments will participate in the parade and review at Prospect Park on Thursday next.

The veterans of the Seventh regiment go to Long Branch on Thursday, also, and will participate in a clam bake and other seaside felicities.

The former captain of G company, Seventh regiment, G. W. Ely, was re-elected as captain of that command last evening by a unanimous vote. The position was rendered vacant by the promotion of Captain G. M. Smith to be major.

Theodorus McLeod was last evening elected captain, and Edwin Straight second lieutenant of F company, Eighty-fourth regiment.

GENERAL NOTES.

A white black snake has been found in Pike county, Ohio.

A mine of emery has been discovered near White Cloud, Kansas.

A little girl in Maine makes 209 words from the work "Washington." She had a bad spell of it.

A Vermont marble company has just shipped a block of statuary marble to Italy, the land of Carrara.

It is said that the new detachment of Canadian Zouaves for the Papal army will leave Canada late in June.

The hay crop in Maine is estimated to be worth $14,000,000, and $4,000,000 more than all the grain crops, including the potato crop also, in the State.

Four thousand miners were in procession to Pottsville the other day. Although all miners, very few were under age—or under the influence of liquor.

George F. Belden, of the town of Havana, La., son of Judge Belden, of New Orleans, has been assassinated by T. A. Woods, former editor of the Havana Eagle.

A cat, owned by H. M. Coffin, of Rochester, N. H., lately caught a large perch which ventured too near the shore of the river, brought it into the house, unmangled and still alive, and laid it at the feet of her mistress.

Summer resorts are being opened in North Carolina. The Raleigh Standard mentions in that State Waccamaw, the Sound (near Wilmington), Morehead City, Nag's Head, Pilot Mountain, Asheville and Chimney Rock.

Aquilla Lawrence, the murderer of Anton Bourbacu, at Burlington, Iowa, surrendered himself and is in jail. It is said that Lawrence was angry with the deceased by reason of information he had given the wife of Lawrence as to some improprieties in his conduct as a faithful husband.

Centre Harbor (N. H.) boasts of a great curiosity, in the shape of a colt which was recently foaled by a mare belonging to J. B. Dow of that town. The most remarkable feature of the colt is that it has but one eye, which is very large and is placed in the centre of its forehead. It has no nostrils, neither has it any upper jaw, the under jaw being quite perfect. The head, neck and fore legs have been stuffed by G. W. Lane, and it can be seen at the stable of the Centre House.

QUEER ACCIDENT IN DUDLEY, MASS.—As Deacon Daniel Dwight, of Dudley, was doing his chores last Friday evening, two lengths of his stable gave way, precipitating him into the cellar and hanging six cows up in the stanchions. Although seriously injured he managed to get up into the barn. His hired man went to work cutting down the cows and had them nearly all released when assistance came from the neighbors, who heard the crash and came to see what was the matter. Two of the cows died, but the rest will probably entirely recover from their semi-hanging. Mr. Dwight is still in a critical condition; but it is hoped he will soon again be able to attend to his business.

THE NATION'S DEAD.

Floral Tributes to Our Fallen Heroes.

Decorating Soldiers' Graves at Cypress Hills Cemetery and Other Cemeteries Around the Metropolis.

Grand Turnout of the Grand Army of the Republic.

The Decorations in the East, West and South.

A sad day, and yet mingled with the sadness a glorious beneficence of sacred memories of departed loved ones was yesterday. It was the day set apart throughout the length and breadth of our country to pay tribute to heroic fathers and sons and brothers and husbands and those sweetly akin by the tender ties of plighted troth who fell in the late war. It was a day when myriad hearts pulsated with painful emotions, when old time recollections were vividly revived, when old faces were brought to mind and kind deeds and loving words recalled—a day when the old and peaceful life of a decade of years ago was lived over again—a day summoning up from the misty shadows of the past the cheerful hours and loving hearts of that ante bellum period when the North and the South were at peace with one another.

War! war! war!
A thundercloud from the South in the early spring,
The launch of a thunderbolt and then
With one red flare the lightning stretch'd its wing
And a rolling echo roused a million men.
Then the ploughman left his field;
The smith at his clashing forge
Forged him a sword to wield.
From meadow and mountain gorge,
From the Western plains they come,
Fronting the storm and flame.
War! war! war!

Fierce and terrible and deadly was that war, lasting through four long and fearfully anxious years. It ended, and peace was restored; but its heroic victims—and there was splendid unparalleled heroism on both sides—filled myriad graves. The war was forgotten, however, yesterday, and the causes inciting to it, and the deadly bitterness of its prosecution on both sides, and every thought and feeling merged in the one idea of decorating with sweet flowers the hallowed resting places of its patriotic victims—a fitting and holy tribute to brave lives and heroic deaths. It is a simple and beautiful testimonial; but there is nothing so likely to eradicate by sentiment of animosity engendered in the late terrible struggle, nothing so calculated to invite the purer and better and gentler emotions of the human heart, nothing so sure in its continuous revival and observance to cement into a strong and indissoluble union the love of national brotherhood.

It proved to be a beautiful day for the observance of the ceremonial yesterday in this city and vicinity. There were threatening storm clouds: but they gave forth no rain, and on the height of the ceremonies, while the flowers were being scattered over the graves of the honored dead, the sun's golden rays shone bright and beautiful through the rifted clouds, giving a joyous splendor to the scene—a smile of benediction upon those sacred mounds, and the sad and silent throngs scattering over them their floral offerings. The decoration ceremonies here yesterday were, as is well known, under the direction of the Grand Army of the Republic, and the programme prepared was certainly a most fitting one and most fittingly carried out. A much larger portion of the community seemed to be interested in the sacred ceremonies this year than last. Nearly all the public offices were closed, and flags were displayed at half-mast. Some few stores were shut up, but business was by no means suspended. The great central point of interest was Cypress Hills Cemetery, where nearly all the deceased soldiers buried near this city are interred. Most of the subjoined accounts embraces, therefore, a description of the procession to this cemetery and this final resting place of so many of our fallen heroes and the ceremony of decorating their graves.

ARRANGING FOR THE PROCESSION.

At an early hour in the morning floral offerings began to be sent in liberal profusion to the headquarters, No. 31 Union square, these gifts embracing a great variety of flowers, and some of the richest and rarest descriptions were mainly the gifts of ladies. They were brought in bouquets, in wreaths, in flower pots and in flower baskets, and many of them wrought into crosses and army badges and other peculiarly pleasing and acceptable forms. Wagons were in readiness to receive them and soon half a dozen or more were filled with them. While these floral tributes were being arranged, the various bodies to take part in the procession began arriving on the east side of Union square.

By ten o'clock all had arrived, and the details having at length been completed, and the various posts of the Grand Army of the Republic having taken the places assigned them in the line, the procession filed into Broadway.

ORDER OF PROCESSION.

The following was the order of procession:—

Squad of Police.
Grand Marshal Colonel John W. Marshall and Aids.
Governor's Island Band.
Posts Nos. 22, 11, 91, 24, 113, 79, 8, 31, 38, 39, 28, 76, 96 of the Grand Army of the Republic.
Memorial car, bearing a catafalque and drawn by eight horses.
Canopied wagon, drawn by ten horses, and conveying the boys, in uniform, of the Union Home and School.
Five United States mail wagons, filled with flowers.
Mammoth stage, drawn by eight plumed white horses, containing the orphan girls of the Union Home and School.
Stages containing wounded soldiers in uniform.
Open carriages containing ladies with bouquets and baskets of flowers.

The Grand Marshal and his aids were dressed in the full uniform of officers of the United States Army. Members of the Posts were dressed in citizens' clothes, with a military fatigue cap, on the front of which were the letters "G. A. R." All wore white gloves and each carried a bouquet. On the left lappel of the coat of each was a white silk badge, bearing the motto, "For our country then—For our comrades now." They numbered about 3,000, matched four abreast, and their fine, soldierly bearing elicited general encomiums along the entire route of procession. East Post carried flags and banners festooned with crape. Among the posts was one composed of colored citizens, calling itself the Abraham Lincoln Post. Several of the other posts have also other than numerical designations, as, for instance, the Sumner Post, the Sedgewick Post, the Phil Kearny Post and various others. A feature of the procession attracting general attention was the memorial car. It was one of Dodd's large express wagons, draped with velvet, studded with silver stars and containing, beside the catafalque, several large urns, beautifully festooned with flowers. The horses, black and gray teams alternating, and very large and sleek, the finest specimens, in fact, of draught horses, were covered with black broadcloth palls, edged with silver fringe. Mr. Dodd also furnished the mail wagons.

ROUTE OF MARCH.

The procession, which was fully a mile and a half in length, proceeded down Broadway to Wall street, and thence crossing the Wall street ferry was joined at the foot of Montague street by the Western District division, adding some 2,000 men to the procession. Among the addition beside was a company of the Marine corps of the Brooklyn Navy Yard, with their band, under the command of Lieutenant Colonel Broome, and the Fourteenth Brooklyn Zouaves, which also was accompanied by its band. The procession marched as far as the City Hall, and along Broadway and on Wall street, on this side, so on the Brooklyn side, an immense number of spectators crowded doorways and steps and windows and balconies to get a view of it passing, while from the roofs of many of the houses floated half-mast flags and all along was frequent and tumultuous cheering. At the City Hall the processionists on foot took the East New York cars for Cypress Hills Cemetery, while the mounted part of the procession and the vehicles proceeded on to the Cemetery as they had started.

AT CYPRESS HILLS CEMETERY.

Private carriages and all sorts of vehicles were thronging all the roadways leading to Cypress Hills Cemetery. The cars were packed to their extremest capacity. Ten thousand people had assembled at the cemetery long before any portion of the procession showed itself. Most brought floral offerings. At half-past two o'clock all starting in the procession had arrived, and, having been rearranged outside the gate, passed inside as rearranged. At slow and measured pace the processionists on foot passed in, and slowly keeping them company were those mounted and those in vehicles. The three bands played slow funeral music. Pursuing a deviously winding road, through labyrinths of tombs on either side, in a few moments the plot of ground, enclosing some three acres, and where lie about three thousand five hundred of the nation's honored dead, was reached.

THE GRAVES OF OUR HERO MARTYRS.

These are on a gentle slope, almost wholly free of trees and shrubbery, for some unaccountable reason, but pleasantly environed with abundant and luxuriant shade trees. Rising from a mound overlooking the plot is a lofty flag-staff with a cordon of cannon at its base, and yesterday, floating at half-mast, was the national emblem—that flag in whose defence these sleeping heroes had so nobly and patriotically fallen. On each grave was a diminutive American flag, as if to bring nearer to their hearts this proud insignia of our national liberty. But few of the graves have headstones. The most belong to that great class of of our dead war heroes the "unknown." It is a sweetly peaceful resting place, and yesterday's gentle spring day, and the chorister of birds in the trees filling the air with their delightful melodies—a full chorus from the grand conservatory of nature—and the fresh grown grass on the modest mounds gave to the scene the freshness and life and beauty and hope and renewed faith of the renewing spring. A calmly benign benediction breathed on the whole.

THE OPENING CEREMONIALS.

Fully twenty thousand people were in attendance. In the centre of the plot was erected a tent covered platform. American flags in graceful festoons hung pendant from this roof of tent cloth. After the different posts had passed by the front of the platform and filed in lines farther back the children from Union Home and school, comprising the orphan children of deceased soldiers and sailors falling in the late war, were ranged in line immediately in front, the Governor's Island band playing a dirge. Next was sung by a large choir of male and female singers "Glory to God," and succeeding this Rev. W. H. Boole, chaplain of the Grand Army of the Republic, offered a prayer. While the prayer was being offered Union No. 1 Fire Company, of New York, marched on to the ground in their red shirts, giving additional picturesqueness to the surrounding scene. The prayer ended—and a most earnest and feeling prayer it was—the orphan children sung "In my Home Above," which was most sweetly and feelingly sung.

SPEECH MAKING.

Colonel A. J. H. Duganne now made a brief speech, but, brief though it was, every sentence gleamed with patriotic eloquence. The dead that lay about them comprised a roll of Christian heroes, and he urged that the cross of a private's knapsack was as honorable as the cross of his officers' and that in the great muster of eternal life there is no difference in the shining uniforms of corps or regiments. In reverential acknowledgment that there was no distinction in the grand army of martyrs they lay their floral decorations upon the dust of all alike. He was interrupted with frequent applause.

General JOHN E. MCKEAN made the next and only remaining speech that was delivered. His speech was likewise a model of brevity as well as a model of eloquent utterances. He spoke to men with empty sleeves, to men poised on crutches, to men with maimed and scarred visages. All these were badges of their Legion of Honor. He did not come to speak of such men as Generals Baker, Wadsworth and McPherson, but of the common soldier, and urged that the best way to show their affection for these defenders of the republic was by taking care of their orphan children. He was likewise interrupted with repeated cheers.

A song, "Oh Come all ye Faithful," followed, after which came the closing scenes of the ceremonial, SCATTERING FLOWERS UPON THE GRAVES.

There was some formality in doing this, the last, sad, but pleasing part of the day's ceremonial, but it was quickly done. A dirge was played, the flowers were distributed and scattered, and then, as silently as they came, but not sadly, the vast company separated.

Roses white and red,
Whose sweetness with the wind their fragrance shed,
And tremulous lily bells and jasmine blooms
Are there—holy offerings to the dead.
These and other flowers with their perfumes
Fill the air, and the tremulous breeze
That gently kisses them sings old melodies.

Ceremonies Elsewhere.

The graves at Greenwood, where about a hundred soldiers are buried; at the Navy Yard, at Calvary, Holy Cross and other cemeteries about New York and vicinity where soldiers are interred, were decorated yesterday by details from various posts of the Grand Army of the Republic; but no public exercises were held except at Cypress Hills Cemetery. These decorations yesterday were most fitting, and it is so be hoped they will always be kept up.

The fame of fallen heroes should ever shine
Serene and high, and crystalize as the Fair stars that nightly gleam in heaven's vault.
In their country's heart their written names should be
An endless record of immortality.

Memorial Ceremonies at the Academy of Music.

The Academy of Music was crowded last night with a patriotic company of both sexes, met to do honor to the Union dead. The enthusiasm was manifestly sincere and heartfelt. Every touch of nature that was vocalized either by word or song found a ready response in enthusiastic applause and beaming countenances.

The exercises were opened by the Governor's Island band playing a dirge from "Saul" and the offering of a prayer by Comrade Henry S. Stevens. Comrade John Cochrane, the President of the meeting, delivered an appropriate address, setting forth the noble heroism and heroic devotion of those who had fought and died for the Union, and urging a national recognition of this "Decoration Day." Quartets by Miss Hoffert and Messrs. Weeks, Fields and Boulard were succeeded by an address by Dr. Thompson, who apologized for reading a manuscript address, in consequence of his having had six days' notice of the desire of the committee that he should deliver an oration. He claimed that he was the first to suggest that the nation should show its gratitude to its honored dead by this day of requiem. He had done this before the close of war. By thus honoring those who had thus fallen, the nation notified its moral culture, and attested its Christian civilization. We did but respect ourselves when we respected the feeling that respected the dead. He quoted from Carlyle's "Sartor Resartus," an opinion of America, which, he said, now that the war was over, we could afford to laugh at, because America had done something else besides growing cotton and begetting millions of men. It could point to the graves of more than two hundred thousand men who had died for their country's liberties. In eloquent language the Doctor replied to the question "Did these men know what they were dying for?" and urged those present to preserve pure and unsullied that for which they had died. The address was loudly applauded.

The following resolutions, proposed by General J. C. Pinkney and seconded by John Trejaskis, were unanimously adopted:—

That the memory of over two hundred thousand dead blends with the resurrection and life of the nation, and the whole land asks that both should be actually commemorated.

That a committee of five, including the chairman, be appointed by the chair to convey this opinion to the honorable Senators of the United States in Washington.

The interesting proceedings were brought to a close by the singing of "Chapel" by Bryant's celebrated quartet, and Kettle's hymn, "America," the latter being sung by the entire audience.

DECORATION DAY IN THE SUBURBS.

Westchester County.

Throughout Westchester county little interest was manifested at the recurrence of "Decoration Day," except in some of the more important villages on the Hudson river, where the memory of those who died to perpetuate the union of all the States was impressively honored. At Yonkers the occasion was generally observed by a suspension of business, most of the principal stores being closed during the afternoon, while an occasional flag floating over some of the more prominent buildings assisted in carrying out the appearance of a holiday. A procession was formed under the auspices of Post Kitching, No. 60, Grand Army of the Republic, in the public square, at one o'clock P. M., composed of members of that organization, temperance societies and a portion of the Fire Department, while citizens on foot and in carriages brought up the rear. In the procession was also a large floral car, bearing a profusion of horticultural productions and containing a number of young girls attired in white, being mostly children of deceased soldiers. Preceded by a band of music, the cortége defiled slowly through the village to St. John's Cemetery, where nearly five thousand people had congregated. After a prayer by one of the resident clergymen, followed by memorial services and appropriate music, which increased the solemnity of the occasion, addresses were delivered by Cassius M. Clay, H. M. Ellis and E. R. Keyes, at the conclusion of which the pathetic ceremony of decorating the graves was performed by the comrades of the Post, assisted by the occupants of the floral car already alluded to.

Jersey City.

The procession in Jersey City was one of the most respectable ever witnessed there. At half-past two o'clock the signal gun was fired at Washington square by the Hudson county artillery, and the procession moved from Grand street to Hudson and Montgomery streets, Newark and Jersey avenues, and again through Grand street and Washington avenue to the New York Bay Cemetery. The Fourth regiment New Jersey State National Guard, under command of Colonel Van Buskirk; the Emmett Guard, a splendid body of men, bearing a handsome green flag; the Hudson County Artillery; the Veteran Association, the Taylor Zouaves, the Lincoln Guard, the Mayor and Common Council, in carriages; the young ladies bearing the flowers in a large wagon and several prominent citizens composed the procession. The hearse contained the remains of Stuart Turner, a member of the Fifth New Jersey, who died of his wounds after the second Bull Run. The day was observed as a general holiday throughout the city, and the sidewalks, awnings, windows and housetops were lined with spectators. The Grand Marshal, Benjamin Van Riper, and his aids, Alonzo Silvers and John McLaughlin, performed their duty so well that not a single unpleasant incident occurred during the long march. When the procession arrived at the Bay Cemetery, a site commanding such a view of New York harbor and the Narrows, with the Atlantic breeze sweeping across, as is hardly equalled in the vicinity of the metropolis, Mayor O'Neill ascended the platform and introduced the orator of the day, Rev. H. A. Cordo. Prayer was offered by the Rev. Mr. Larew. The German singing clubs next lent their aid, after which a volley of three guns was fired by the Hooker Rifles, under command of Captain Benjamin Murphy, and a section of the artillery. Then came the floral decorations, and the exercises were closed by the usual benediction.

The closing ceremonies were held in the Jersey City Tabernacle in the evening. An immense audience assembled, leaving scarcely standing room. The chairman made a brief introductory speech and presented the orator of the evening, Mr. B. W. Throckmorton, who was received with hearty applause. The oration was a brilliant intellectual effort, highly appropriate to the occasion. The orator called attention to the beauty and impressiveness of the ceremonies of the day, when loving hands had spread upon the turf beneath which heroes slept, the mantle of spring flowers. The peace and increasing harmony of to-day were contrasted with the discord and strife of war times, and while, said the speaker, the duty of patriotism while rebellion lasted was uncompromising war, to-day it was conciliation and forgiveness. He next spoke of the sorrow the nation experienced in the death of her bravest and best, but showed that their sacrifices had resulted in the triumph of a restored country and that we had a right also to rejoice; that our rejoicing should not be unthinking; we should learn the lesson taught by sad experience, that every citizen must do his whole duty to his country if he would prove worthy the memory of the heroic dead.

In Newark.

The ceremony of decorating the graves of the New Jersey soldiers, who fell during the late war, at Newark was carried out in accordance with the programme previously announced, with some slight variations. The procession and, indeed, the entire celebration was meagre compared with the preceding similar occasions. The services at the cemetery were, however, equally fine and consisted of devotional exercises, music and a very elaborately prepared oration by Rev. Simson Siegfried, of Newark, such as the occasion suggested. At the cemetery it is estimated that between 5,000 and 6,000 persons were in attendance. Two-thirds of these were ladies and children. Ex-Governor Ward and many other prominent citizens occupied positions on the platform. An immense quantity of exquisite flowers, loose and in bouquets, were strewn over the graves. That of Lieutenant Colonel Wienecke was especially noticeable. It was formed into a miniature floral mountain.

While en route to the cemetery Major Thomas O'Connor narrowly escaped being killed by a balkey horse. In order to save himself he threw the animal on its side and dexterously disentangled himself from the saddle. He left the horse to take care of itself and continued on foot with the veterans. It is said that a company of Newark cadets got angry because a company of Germans insisted in keeping in line ahead of them. The hot headed youths "charged bayonets" and cleared out the Teutons. No arrests were made. Although the spirit of the day would seem to be sorrow rather than joy, nearly all the flags, public and private, were ran up to the mast head. Who is the city flagman?

At Orange, too, there was a very creditable celebration, including a very fine address by Major George J. Ferry.

Trenton, N. J.

At Trenton a procession was formed at two P.M., and a large number of citizens fell into line, headed by the military, and accompanied by a splendid band of music, that discoursed some choice and appropriate airs along the route. About one hundred and fifty orphan children from the Soldiers' Home occupied a prominent position in the procession, the little girls in carriages, and the boys neatly attired in military uniform, carrying wooden muskets and commanded by their little officers, bearing swords and other weapons manufactured out of some simple material. Suitable orations were delivered at the different cemeteries, and about 100 graves were visited and suitably decorated with the choicest flowers.

OBSERVANCE OF THE DAY IN WASHINGTON.

A Holiday at the Capital—Large Crowd at Arlington—Address by General Logan—Decoration of the Graves—The Arrangements all Admirable.

WASHINGTON, May 30, 1870.

The city to-day wore the appearance of a general holiday, Congress was not in session, all the government departments were closed, and comparatively little secular business was transacted.

All the available vehicles were in motion during the forenoon, with passengers, male and female, of all ages, on the way to Arlington, the street cars and omnibuses particularly carrying the largest number. Some of the carriages were trimmed with miniature flags. Besides, wagon loads of flowers and evergreens in the form of wreaths and bouquets left the several places of collection for that attractive point.

Long before noon thousands of persons had collected on the grounds of the Soldiers' Cemetery, and the number was increased from time to time by fresh arrivals. The arrangements were more perfect and elaborate than heretofore, under the authority of the Transportation Committee and the Executive Committee of the Grand Army of the Republic, the latter having charge of the decoration ceremonies at the graves.

The ceremonies at Arlington commenced at one o'clock, when a national salute of twenty-one guns was fired by Dupont's Light Battery F, stationed near the cemetery. The Marine Band, which was stationed on a large stand erected for the music, near the main stand, then performed the solemn dirge "Arlington," written for the occasion by Mr. Henry Fries. The assemblage was then called to order at the main stand, which was filled with distinguished visitors, who were admitted thereto by tickets, and the space in front was filled with persons for whom seats had been erected.

Major Timothy Lubey, Department Commander, called the assemblage to order. After prayer by Rev. Dr. Newman the grand chorus, consisting of 500 singers, sung "A Strong Castle is Our Lord," the full Marine Band accompanying them. Dr. O. C. Cox read a poem written by himself for the occasion. One of Mozart's compositions was then rendered by the choir and the Marine Band, after which General Logan, Commander-in-Chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, was introduced, and made a brief address, in which he referred to the fact that honor to fallen heroes is not an invention of our day, but dates back to the most ancient times. He then referred to the obsequies of Athenians who had fallen in battle for their country, describing the ceremonies which attended them. Americans, he declared, should never neglect the graves of those who sacrificed their lives to defend the palladium of our liberty, to perpetuate our national unity and shield our rights forever. This Memorial Day, on which we decorate their graves, was no idle ceremony with which to pass away an hour; it was a holy ovation when the floral offerings are strewn thereon and when the graves were freshened with the dew of tears. The aged fathers, the mothers and the sisters of the dead united in paying a tribute to the remains of those so dear to them. Throughout the broad compass of our land to-day vast concourses of true men and women were voluntarily assembled to pay deserved homage to the nation's heroic dead, and to garland their quiet tombs with nature's jewels as an appropriate tribute of respect and gratitude. General Logan then sketched the career of the fallen from the opening of the war, through reverses to victory, until the final triumph of the Union arms. He offered up thanks to God, and said they were offered up by every loyal heart, for the great results which had followed the sacrifice of the dead. He called upon the people to renew their pledges of faith to the Union and to the protection of liberty and equal rights. Let us complete the grand design and make our country truly the world's "Temple of Liberty." Let us be reminded that in honoring our beloved dead we wish to honor also the cause for which they fell. And when we have finished strewing our flowers and chanting our requiems we will return to our firesides with fresh inspiration inhaled from the fragrance of their virtues and deeds, keeping the sacred flame of patriotism bright upon the altar of our American hearts.

The choral, "Sleepers, Wake," by Mendelssohn, was then sung by the grand chorus, accompanied by the Marine Band.

The assemblage next proceeded to the tomb of the unknown soldiers, where Rev. Benjamin Swallow, chaplain of the Department of the Potomac, offered prayer.

"The Children of the Fallen Brave," by J. William Pape, was then sung by the chorus, and the ceremony at the tomb of the unknown was performed by the orphans from the National Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphan Home, under charge of the officers and lady managers of the Home. The chorus and Marine Band then rendered the "American Hymn," by Keller.

The programme of ceremonies was carried out successfully in every particular. The rendition of Luther's Choral was very fine and the music throughout was considered unusually creditable.

The floral decorations were both profuse and beautifully arranged, the tomb of the unknown soldiers being particularly noticeable in this respect. It was covered with a beautiful canopy made of a national flag intertwined with evergreens, and on the summit was a neat staff, from which floated a silk flag emblazoned with the badge of the Grand Army of the Republic. The Grand Tomb itself was liberally covered with floral ornaments of all patterns, consisting of wreaths, bouquets, crosses and garlands, while in a bed of roses on the south face was a painted board with the following lines:—

Unknown—as veiled within the sheltering sod—
Yet dear to liberty and known to God.

On all the four fronts of the tomb were hung wooden crosses, with wire loops for the reception of bouquets which might be placed there by visitors. An impressive incident at the monument of the "Unknown" was the placing of bouquets in a cross at the monument by the children of the Industrial Home School of Georgetown. In the vicinity of the stands, and tomb of the "Unknown" flags of all nations were suspended from ropes extended from tree to tree, the various designs and bright colors of which produced a fine effect. In the poem of Dr. Cox a complimentary allusion to President Grant was received with hearty applause, and the oration of General Logan was listened to with close attention.

Occupying prominent seats upon the platform were the President and Vice President and all the members of the Cabinet, accompanied by their families. The larger portion of the members of both Houses of Congress were also present, together with most of the military officers of the government now stationed in Washington, and very many of the best known citizens of the metropolis, while surrounding the stand were several thousand of the general public, all of whom followed the exercises with great apparent interest. The weather was warm, but the sky was slightly overcast, and the numerous trees afforded comfortable shade. The arrangements for transportation to and from the city were ample, and the day may be said to have passed off with satisfaction to all concerned. It is estimated that at least 20,000 persons were present.

After the exercises closed at the National Cemetery, at Arlington, the decoration of the graves of the colored soldiers, just north of it, took place. The order of exercises was as follows:—Prayer; music by the Mozart Band; oration by Colonel B. F. M. Fachtz; music by the choir of the Nineteenth street Baptist church; oration by General Shanks; music by the Mozart Band; singing by the colored orphans; music by the choir; decoration of the graves and dirges by the band; benediction.

The orphans of colored soldiers were engaged in the decoration of the graves under the direction of Post No. 14, Grand Army of the Republic, the officers of which acted as a committee of arrangements.

The graves where repose the remains of Generals Reno, Griffin, Meigs and other Union generals, at Oak Hill Cemetery, were visited this morning by a committee of the members of Post No. 11, of Georgetown, and profusely decorated with garlands of flowers. The graves at the Soldiers' Homes and at the Congressional Cemetery, in the neighborhood of Washington, will be decorated to-morrow.

The ceremonies at Arlington were again disgraced by the occurrence of a bit of narrow prejudice similar to that which I described a year ago. Some lady, evidently with a kindly feeling for some of the Confederate dead interred at Arlington, brought flowers with her and strewed them over the graves of the rebels. She performed the act very unostentatiously, and yet some poor weak-minded fellow tracked her footsteps and trampled upon the flowers, afterwards picking them up and throwing them contemptuously away. Fortunately the act attracted little notice and there was no disturbance, though there were not wanting murmurs of disapprobation at the fellow's ignorant fashion of displaying his patriotic feelings.

Miss Tennie C. Claflin, the female broker of Wall street, arrived here to-day, in the company of a daughter of the late Countess of Landsfelt, and attended the decoration of the graves at Arlington.

THE DAY IN NEW YORK AND THE MIDDLE STATES.

Decoration of the Graves at Albany, Buffalo and Other Points Throughout New York State.

ALBANY, May 30, 1870.

The ceremonies of decorating the graves of the soldiers who fell in the late rebellion was performed to-day at the Rural Cemetery under the auspices of the officers of the Grand Army of the Republic. Company B of the Tenth regiment, National Guard, New York State, acted as escort to the procession. Rev. Dr. Rufus W. Clark delivered the oration. A large number of citizens participated in the ceremonies.

BUFFALO, May 30, 1870.

The ceremony of decorating soldiers' graves was performed to-day in an imposing manner. A slight shower of rain in the morning laid the dust, rendering the atmosphere delightfully cool. At eight o'clock A. M. detachments of the Grand Army of the Republic proceeded to Black Rock, Limestone Hill, Pine Hill and others of the more distant cemeteries and paid the usual floral tributes to the graves of the soldiers. At ten o'clock the clergy, municipal authorities, citizens and a large procession of Sunday school children, with banners and music, headed by a detachment of police, marched through the public streets to the Rink, where interesting exercises were held. On the line of march the Sunday school children, in passing a designated point, delivered their floral tributes to committees of the Grand Army.

The military and civic procession and exercises this afternoon were superior even to the morning display. At two o'clock the line of march was taken up at Niagara square by the Sixty-fifth and Seventy-fourth regiments, with different posts of the Grand Army of the Republic, and they proceeded to Forest Lawn Cemetery, accompanied by soldiers of the War of 1812, civic associations and an immense line of private carriages and vehicles. Two large wagons of the American Express Company, appropriately decorated and drawn by four horses each, were in the procession, loaded with wreaths and floral tributes of the Sabbath school children. Arriving at the cemetery the graves were visited and decorated, dirges played by the bands, and feeling addresses delivered.

At Binghamton, Port Jervis and Middletown, in this State, the day was observed with due solemnity. General Van Wyck delivered an address at the last named place. At Auburn the decorations were fine, and an oration by Rev. Mr. Bartholomew was listened to with attention. At all the other principal towns and cities of the State the day was similarly observed.

Decoration of the Graves at the Gettysburg National Cemetery.

GETTYSBURG, May 30, 1870.

The Soldiers' National Cemetery was to-day crowded with visitors and comrades who had come to decorate the graves of our honored dead. After prayer by Professor Ferrier and a few preliminary and appropriate remarks by Rev. Dr. Hay, the children of the Soldiers and Sailors' National Orphan Home strewed the graves of Gettysburg's thirty-seven hundred dead with flowers. The ceremony was quite impressive. The remembrance of the thrilling incidents enacted on these fields six years ago was vividly recalled to mind. The exercises were concluded by an address by Lieutenant McKenzie, who recalled the terrible incidents of the battle and reminded us of the debt we owe to those who perilled their lives for those great principles whose fruits we enjoy.

Observance of the Day in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, May 30, 1870.

The decoration of soldiers' graves, which was commenced yesterday by a portion of the volunteers, so as not to interfere with the inspection parades, also fixed for to-day, was continued this morning. The various posts of the Grand Army of the Republic assembled at Independence Hall, and, marching out Chesnut street to Broad, separated into detachments, proceeding to the different cemeteries where their soldiers' graves are located. At Glenwood Cemetery the ceremonies were particularly impressive, from the presence of over a hundred soldiers' orphan girls, and a company of cadets from the Soldiers' Orphans' Home, parading with muskets. The Girard College band also took part in the ceremonies. The weather is cloudy, with occasional showers, but not sufficiently stormy to interfere with the programme.

THE DAY IN NEW ENGLAND.

Observance of the Day in Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New Hampshire, Vermont and Maine.

BOSTON, May 30, 1870.

An immense number of people thronged the sidewalks to-day to witness the floral march of the Grand Army of the Republic to the cemeteries. Each member carried a bouquet, and the several posts were followed by wagons laden with flowers. Altogether the scene was strikingly beautiful and imposing. The public schools were dismissed, and business very generally suspended.

Reports from all parts of New England describe the universal observance of the day by decorating the soldiers graves. In Lowell 800 members of the Grand Army of the Republic paraded with 2,000 school children. George H. Gordon delivered the oration.

In Lowell extensive preparation had been made for celebrating the day. Monument square, where Ladd and Whitney, killed at Baltimore, are buried, was beautifully decorated. The school children sang a choral hymn, and the Grand Army of the Republic marched in the afternoon through the principal streets to the scene. Business was generally suspended.

Decoration Day was observed in Springfield more generally than ever before. The procession was very long and imposing, and included the military, Knights Templar, firemen and 2,500 school children. The oration was delivered by Rev. Richard G. Green, of this city.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 30, 1870.

Memorial Day was observed here by a considerable suspension of business; the closing of the schools, banks and public offices; the half-masting of flags and tolling of bells; while a long procession of the Grand Army, headed by General Burnside, proceeded to the several cemeteries to strew the graves with flowers.

MANCHESTER, N. H., May 30, 1870.

The ceremony of decorating the graves of the soldiers was observed to-day by the Grand Army of the Republic, the City Council, children of the public schools, military and citizens generally. The exercises consisted of singing by the children and prayer and address by Rev. Mr. Lovering, of Concord. Business was generally suspended.

CONCORD, May 20, 1870.

As a part of the exercises of "Decoration Day" in this city, a monument, bearing the names of the deceased soldiers of Concord, was dedicated in an impressive manner. Addresses were made by the Mayor and others, and an oration delivered by the Rev. Samuel Gould.

ST. ALBANS, Vt., May 30, 1870.

Decoration Day was appropriately observed by the Baldy Smith post of the Grand Army of the Republic. The literary exercises were of an interesting character, and consisted of an oration and poem. This has been the warmest day in the season, the thermometer indicating ninety degrees in the shade.

LEWISTON, Me., May 30, 1870.

The city government of Lewiston and Auburn united with the Grand Army of the Republic and a procession of citizens in strewing flowers over the graves of the soldiers in the cemeteries. Chaplain E. M. Haynes delivered the address.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 30, 1870.

To-day, Andrew Foote Post, Grand Army of the Republic, numbering about one hundred strong, proceeded in the afternoon to the three city cemeteries and decorated the soldiers' graves with flowers. At the Evergreen Cemetery short services were held at the soldiers' lot, and an address was delivered by Post Commander M. A. Butricks. The New Haven Grays, about four o'clock, paraded in uniform, and decorated the graves of the members of the company who fell during the war, and who are buried in the Evergreen and Grove street cemeteries.

THE DAY IN THE WEST.

CINCINNATI, May 30, 1870.

The decoration of soldiers' graves at Spring Grove Cemetery took place this morning. The procession through the city was not large. Derbin Ward delivered the oration at the Cemetery.

CLEVELAND, May 30, 1870.

To-day was observed as a holiday and business was generally suspended. A large number of citizens visited the different cemeteries and engaged in the ceremonies of decorating the soldiers' graves.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., May 30, 1870.

Decoration Day was observed here in the most interesting and imposing manner. Business houses were closed, and several thousand people went to the cemetery. Music, prayers and an address by Colonel Richard W. Thompson preceded the ceremony of strewing the floral wreaths upon the soldiers' graves.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 30, 1870.

Decoration Day was observed in this city. Business houses closed at noon, and a large crowd of citizens gathered at Crow Hill to witness the ceremonies of decorating the soldiers' graves. At Knightstown, Richmond and other points in the State the day was observed in the same way.

THE DAY IN THE SOUTH.

Decoration of the Graves at Richmond, Fortress Monroe and Other Points in the South.

RICHMOND, May 30, 1870.

Decoration Day was observed with due solemnity in this city and at other points throughout the State where national cemeteries are located. The attendance was fair and everything passed off pleasantly.

The graves of the soldiers in the National Cemetery at Hampton Grove, near Fortress Monroe, were decorated to-day under the auspices of the Grand Army of the Republic. A band of music was in attendance, and appropriate addresses were made by Major Remington, Rev. Charles A. Raymond, Rev. Mr. Hicks and others.

WILMINGTON, May 30, 1870.

The memorial celebration was largely attended. The Fourth United States artillery participated. An address was delivered by Major J. C. Mann. Salutes were fired by the revenue cutter, and at the cemetery by the Fourth artillery. The soldiers' graves were profusely decorated with flowers.

AMUSEMENTS.

BOOTH'S THEATRE—"TAKING THE CHANCES."—This theatre was well filled last night. The audience was such as one is accustomed to meet at Booth's. The piece produced was the original American comedy of "Taking the Chances," written by Charles Gayler, an American author. In order to secure the successful representation of the piece, Mr. J. H. McVicker was engaged to play the part of Peter Pomeroy. The plot of the piece is slim, and consists of a number of situations in which Peter Pomeroy is the central figure. Miss Blanche Pomeroy (Miss Blanche De Bar) is in love with a scapegrace named Percy Bartlett (Mr. W. E. Sheridan). He endeavors to win her heart, not exactly for her affections, but for the large fortune which she is known to be the possessor of. Bartlett has a wife whom he has forsaken and left in Graniteville, Pomeroy's native town in New Hampshire, and as our country cousin surmised, from certain reasons, that the dashing Bartlett is a wolf in sheep's clothing, and as he himself has a "kind o' regard" for his fair cousin he is determined to foil the villain in his plans. In this he succeeds equal to his most sanguine expectations. In the last act Percy's wife is brought in, old sores are healed, and everybody is made as happy as we can imagine people generally, who are placed in the situations that the principal actors in a plot of this kind, can be made. As will be seen the plot is slender. The dialogue is remarkable more for its broad humor than for its incisive or delicate wit. Peter Pomeroy is homespun; his language corresponds, and his make up ditto. When, therefore, Mr. McVicker provoked a good ringing laughter from the audience we take it that he reached not only the highest expectations of the higher portion of his auditors but he felt satisfied that he made a hit in the part he selected for his first appearance at this house. Mr. Sheridan gave an excellent rendering of Percy Bartlett. He played, dressed, and, what is more than all, acted well. Mr. A. W. Fenno, who played the part of Diogenes Duff, an exuberant politician of the conservative order, and who, by the by, was also in love with Blanche Pomeroy, or rather with her fortune, was as happy as we could desire him. Miss De Bar and Miss Fanny Morant gave their characters with much spirit and feeling. The comedy was well received—so well, in fact, that at the conclusion the author of the piece, Mr. Gayler, appeared before the curtain and returned thanks.

FRENCH THEATRE—FECHTER AND LECLERQ.—Tom Taylor's translation of "La Brebis dans la Peau du Loup" ("A Sheep in Wolf's Clothing"), a piece well known to all theatre goers, and a powerful picture of human passions, preceded Fechter's inimitable personation of "The Corsican Brothers" at this theatre last night. The character of Anne Carew has never had on the American stage such a clever representative as Miss Carlotta Leclerq. All her acknowledged talent, artistic finish and rare delineation of even the most opposite passions were thrown into it with startling effect, and even those who had seen her inimitable Pauline found their most sanguine expectations fully realized. There is no actress on the American stage whose loss will be more keenly felt than when this great artiste returns to England. The last week of the season at the French theatre promises to be the most successful ever undertaken within its walls, and manager Rullman deserves every praise for the care he has taken in the mounting of both pieces—"A Sheep in Wolf's Clothing" and "The Corsican Brothers."

WALLACK'S—"THE HONEYMOON."—Tobin's fine old comedy was produced at this house last night for the first time this season. Miss Henriques played the tamed wife, Juliana, with that spirit and artistic finish which have signalized all her representations this season, and Miss Louisa Moore never appeared to such advantage as in the coquettish rôle of Volante. Mr. J. W. Wallack was rather too antiquated and sententious for such a part as the Duke Aranza, and the same may be said of Mr. Fisher as Rolando. But Stoddart was entirely in his element in the laughable character of the mock duke, and the other members of the cast were entirely satisfactory. "Married Life" will be given for the last time to-night with a superb cast, and to-morrow "Love's Sacrifice" will be the attraction. Mr. Wallack seems resolved to wind up the season in the most brilliant manner.

MRS. CONWAY'S PARK THEATRE—BROOKLYN.—The attraction at this place of amusement during the present week is Mr. J. S. Clarke, who winds up the season with the most popular selections from his repertory of pieces. Last evening he enacted the part of Major Wellington de Boots to an overflowing house, and was frequently greeted during the performance with enthusiastic applause. The delighted audience twice called him before the curtain and sought very hard to get a speech from him. In the afterpiece, as Toodles, he repeated the delineation of a character which has won him his greatest fame, and those who saw him for the first time were in no way surprised at the reputation which he has achieved. His Toodles is eminently an American tipsy man, and for that reason better appreciated than the renderings which have been given the part by other actors. Although the bill necessitated an entire change in the performance there was no "first night" hitches, and both plays went off with a smoothness creditable to the rehearsal, while the company gave the star earnest and effective seconding. While Mr. Clarke will follow out during the week his programme of popular impersonations at the Park theatre, Mrs. Conway will on Friday evening receive a complimentary benefit at the Academy of Music, where the "Hunchback" will be given, with Mrs. D. P. Bowers in the leading part.

TAMMANY.—From time to time we have called attention to those dangerous exhibitions known as trapeze performances. More than once have we been compelled to chronicle these accidents at this establishment. The last victim is that of a man named Pedanto, who last night, while going through his so-styled "wonderful aerial performance," fell from his dizzy height, while attempting to throw a somersault, to the stage and lay there apparently lifeless. A scene of intense excitement followed. Women screamed, some fainted, men rushed wildly around and confusion prevailed all over the house. Amid all this excitement and turmoil the unfortunate performer was raised from the stage, his shoulder bone, it is said, broken, and no doubt he has received other if not more fatal injuries. And yet this man was no tyro in his profession. For fifteen years he has been in the habit of performing this dangerous act, startling his auditors with exhibitions of his skill, and here in one moment he was dashed to the ground, and perhaps his life will pay the penalty of his daring.

DRAMATIC READINGS AND RECITATIONS.—The spacious apartments of the Elocutionary Institute and European Conservatory of Music were crowded to excess last night by a fashionable audience to participate in an entertainment given by Professor and Mrs. Walter C. Lyman, assisted by their pupils. The programme was agreeably varied and was evidently appreciated, care having been taken to avoid all that had a tendency to cast a shade of dulness over the audience. The laughable and comic recitations were very ably rendered by the Professor, who drew rounds of applause by the recital of some humoristic sketches, especially recollections of his school days and Mrs. Caudle's lecture. Miss Griffin also displayed great aptitude for comedy in her sketches of Irish character. Horatius at the Bridge, a period in Roman history, was magnificently delivered by Miss A. G. Hancock, who also recited a scene between Mary Stuart and the Queen of England. Masters Brown and Dunning, in their scene between Brutus and Cassius, were also deservedly applauded. Very successful recitations were delivered in the course of the evening by Miss Estelle Thomson, Miss Powers, Miss Bigelow and Mr. Zemansky. The entertainment closed by a magnificent selection from "Hamlet," by Professor and Mrs. Lyman, and the warm congratulations presented by their numerous friends must have proved the entire success of their efforts to afford a pleasant and instructive entertainment.

Bishop Potter administered the sacred rite of confirmation last evening in the Free Church of Our Lord, corner of Eighth avenue and Thirty-seventh street.

On Sunday evening the Roman Catholic church at the corner of Broadway and Ninety-seventh street was broken open and property stolen to the amount of forty-two dollars. The thieves made good their escape.

John A. Kennedy, formerly Superintendent of the Metropolitan Police of New York, is urged for the position of Collector of Customs at this port. Petitions and letters are being prepared in his behalf, to be at an early day forwarded to the President.

In the report published in yesterday's HERALD in relation to torpedo boats, and the New Jersey torpedo boat "Whale" in particular, it was erroneously stated that Rev. Dr. Tyng was connected with the enterprise in a speculative capacity. It should have been Mitchell Tyng.

Coroner Keenan was yesterday called to hold an inquest at No. 341 West Thirty-second street over the remains of Mr. Abraham B. Cohen, a man seventy-eight years of age, whose death was the result of paralysis induced by injuries caused by falling down a flight of stairs at No. 167 Water street on the 1st inst.

A large crowd assembled at Zion (colored) church, Bleecker street, last evening, in anticipation that services would be held, and that some of the stirring scenes of Sunday evening would be re-enacted. The church doors were kept closed, however, and will probably not be reopened until Sunday next. It was erroneously stated that the pastor, Rev. Mr. Butler, had called in the aid of the police on Sunday. This was not the case, as that service was performed by the trustees.

The ladies of the Junta de Cubanas desire to add their appeal to that made by General Jordan in behalf of the destitute women and children of Cuba. Contributions of clothing, old and new, only begging that it be of a light fabric, suitable for the climate of Cuba, will be gratefully received at any of the following places:—Mrs. Carmen, M. De Colas', No. 107 East Thirteenth street; Mrs. General Jordan, No. 131 West Forty-third street; Mrs. M. Mayorga, No. 169 Lexington avenue; Mrs. G. C. Barrett, No. 24 West Thirty-eighth street.

A meeting of the Geological Section, Lyceum of Natural History, was held last evening at Mott Memorial, Professor J. H. Newberry in the chair. Some valuable specimens of sandstone were received and also a fossilized specimen of the ichthyosaurus, from Wurtemburg, Germany, was presented by Dr. Lewis Feuchtwanger. The discussion principally turned on the red rock, which is remarkable for the absence of fossils. It was announced by the chairman, who is about to proceed to Ohio to engage in the State survey, that he would only hold one more meeting until after the warm weather.

Adolph Meyer, residing at No. 52 Forsyth street, yesterday morning appeared before Justice Shandley, at Jefferson Market, and preferred a complaint of highway robbery against a well known rough of the Eighth ward named James Johnson. A description of the prisoner, Johnson, being given to Officer Smith, of the Eighth precinct, he subsequently visited his lodging house, No. 174 Wooster street, and, finding him in bed, took him in custody. In Johnson's trunk was found a pair of pants, minus the "seat," which corresponded with a piece Meyer had torn from him and had in his possession. He denied the charge, but was held for examination.

Among the prisoners arraigned before Justice Shandley at Jefferson Market yesterday morning were an old gray-headed man, sixty years of age, named Wakeman Clark, and his wife, "fat, fair and forty," charged with keeping a disorderly house at No. 205 Wooster street, by Sergeant Haggerty, of the Fifteenth precinct. A few years ago Clark was a Methodist minister assigned to an up town church, but becoming dissatisfied with this slow method of accumulating a fortune, concluded to abandon his flock and open one of the characteristic resorts so common in Greene street. Clark was committed in default of $500 bail to answer a charge of keeping a disorderly house, and the inmates of the place for examination.

The remains of a woman about twenty-six years of age, whose name is supposed to have been Sarah Judge, were found floating in the dock foot of Eleventh street, East river. On the night of the 20th instant Sarah Judge was with a gang of outlaws at the foot of Twelfth street, and, it is stated that, to escape violence at their hands, leaped into the dock and was drowned. The remains answer the description of those of the missing woman. She is about five feet in height, dark complexion and wore a pink dress. The body was removed to the Morgue to await an investigation before Coroner Rollins. Two men were arrested, charged with being accessory to the woman's death, and committed by a magistrate to await further developments.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY.

A Boozy Washingtonian is Relieved of His Watch—He Declines to Prosecute the Youthful Robbers.

Shortly after twelve o'clock on Sunday morning Roundsman Weston, while patrolling in the village of Yonkers, Westchester county, heard a cry of "watch" in North Broadway, and hastening to the spot found a Washingtonian, who gave his name as Chapman Lee, holding fast to a news boy named Bernard Featherstone, whom he accused of having robbed him of a gold watch valued at $150. Both parties were taken to the station house, where Featherstone confessed to Sergeant Mangin that a young man named Henry P. Rodemond had carried off the watch. The latter was subsequently arrested and accompanied the Sergeant to a stable where he had concealed the stolen property. A third party, named Thomas Lilly, was also arrested, he having been in company with the other two when the robbery was perpetrated. It appears that Lee was on a visit to some friends and had been drinking in a lager beer saloon, on North Broadway, where Lilly was employed as a barkeeper. After twelve o'clock the three named offered to see Lee home, and he charged that on the way one of them cut the guard of his watch, robbing him of it in the street. All four were locked up, and on being taken before Police Justice Baird on Sunday morning Lee refused to reiterate his charge against the parties. He was promptly denied the possession of his watch by Sergeant Mangin, who yesterday forwarded it to the property clerk of the New York Police Department.

THE BRITISH BOHEMIAN BUMMER.

Detective Reilly, of the Fifteenth precinct, yesterday arraigned a young man named Charles Percival, a Bohemian beat, representing himself as connected with several daily papers of this city, before Justice Shandley, at Jefferson Market, upon complaint of William S. Pontin, of No. 2 Benson street, charged with robbing him of a gold watch, valued at $100, and $100 in money, on Thursday last. The complainant states he visited the establishment No. 842 Broadway on the above date for the purpose of taking a Russian bath, and left his apparel hanging in the reception room, which was occupied by the prisoner, who, in company with the above property, was missing upon his return from the bathroom. A description being given Detective Reilley, he visited the St. Charles Hotel yesterday morning, the headquarters of the prisoner, and arrested him, finding in his possession the watch, which was identified by Mr. Pontin as his property. The prisoner, who was formerly a lieutenant in the British army, respectably connected, on account of his genteel appearance and pleasant address, has subsisted for some time past by representing himself as a newspaper reporter. He denied stealing the property, and claimed to have come in possession of it through a gambler, to whom he advanced fifty dollars. Justice Shandley committed him for examination.

THE NEW REGIME.

WORKINGS OF THE SEVERAL DEPARTMENTS.

The Free Swimming Baths—Full Description of the Structures—The Music in the Parks—Judiciary Matters—Health Board Appointments.

As was mentioned in the HERALD on Sunday last, the reformation of the city and county government has been almost entirely accomplished. The work is going on in the several departments with a steadiness that augurs well of success and satisfaction. The work generally under is rather slack, but the tireless Commissioner is by no means idle. He has work enough to see the throngs of applicants for office, hear their stories and give them answers in his own peculiar and somewhat Napoleonic style. It may be remembered that in the tax levy an appropriation was made for the purpose of constructing and maintaining and the Commissioner of Public Works was directed to have the work done. The manner in which the project was carried out will show quite plainly the style of doing business in this department. Mr. Tweed sent for ex-Alderman Bernard Kelly, who has built many of the private docks and buildings on the Hudson river front, and commissioned him to build the bath houses. In giving the Commission a conversation, mainly as follows, took place:—

Mr. TWEED—Kelly, we want some good public bathing houses built. Two will do to commence with. We want them

STRONG, SERVICEABLE AND ORNAMENTAL.

Can you build them for us? Yes, or no!

Mr. KELLY—Yes; I guess I can.

Mr. TWEED—We want one for the East river side about the Eleventh ward, and one for the North river side, up town. Now, how soon can you get up plans and specifications?

Mr. KELLY—How soon do you want them?

Mr. TWEED—Right away; just as soon as ever we can get them.

Mr. KELLY—Well, I'll let you have them in a week.

Mr. TWEED—That will do. Go right at it. We don't want to have room for more than in either bath, so you must make the most of space. Dressing rooms and a place for the bathkeeper and all that must be provided you know.

Mr. KELLY—All right, sir. I guess I know what you want.

Mr. TWEED—Well, let me see your idea of the thing, and then I'll talk with you.

But little more was said, and Mr. Kelly immediately went to work, got up the plans and specifications and presented them within the time agreed upon. They were pronounced satisfactory. after being examined and explained. whereupon another brief conversation occurred, somewhat as follows:—

Mr. TWEED—Those plans of yours seem to suit. Now how long before you can have the two baths ready?

Mr. KELLY—How soon do you want them?

Mr. TWEED—The weather is pretty warm now, and we want them before the summer fairly sets in. So the sooner we can have them the better.

Mr. KELLY—Well, I'll have them for you about the 15th of June. How will that do?

Mr. TWEED—That will do if we can't get them any sooner.

Mr. KELLY—I'll put all the men at them that can conveniently work on them, and push right ahead.

Mr. TWEED—Well now go on; let us see what you can do.

The plans were duly filed and on the 23d instant the work of building was commenced at Greenpoint, and so rapidly has it been pushed that to-day one is

and the other will be ready in ten or fifteen days. It may readily be judged, therefore, that the work has been prosecuted with all possible despatch, and yet in the construction and appearance of the buildings there is nothing slovenly, crude or unsubstantial. On the contrary, they are quite ornamental, yet not too much so, are built of the best material and as intended to sail in the roughest seas. The main beams of the foundation framework are fourteen inches square, and the frame is ninety feet long by sixty wide. The main crossbeams under the floor are seven in number, twelve inches thick, and between each pair of these, and parallel with them, are set smaller beams, twelve inches by six inches. On this framework a flooring of ten-inch plank is laid, with a space of one inch and a half between the planks. The main cross beams are secured to the outside frame by strong knees. Stanchions, of the same dimensions as the beams, are erected at each end of the beams, and these also are secured by knees to the lower frame and to a similar one eight feet above the floor, on which a platform, ten feet wide, is built, extending inward. The structure is floated by

set in the space formed by the stanchions, floor and platform, four on each side, measuring sixteen feet long by six feet deep and six feet wide, made of three inch plank, caulked and pitched, and each one provided with the Jones patent valve, so that the

can be regulated to suit. In its ordinary condition the draught will be only four feet and a half, so that the water will not be deep enough to cause any apprehension to those who are not expert swimmers. The swimming space (taking off ten feet on each side for platforms from the measurement of the outside frame), it will be seen, is seventy feet long by forty feet wide, and will accommodate 200 bathers. On are seventy-four dressing rooms, each five feet deep by three wide. The outside of the rooms is ten and and a half feet high, topped by a castellated ornament, and the inside partition nine and a half feet high. The roof is carried in over the platform, so that the rain water will be shed into the bathing space. At the centre of the front the house is carried forward two feet, and over the rooms at this place is the keeper's house, twenty-four feet front by twelve feet deep. This is finished in the Swiss style, with an ornamented balcony in the front, three windows in front and rear. The entrance to the bath is six feet wide, and in front a platform twenty-four feet long and four feet wide. On either side of the doorway the front will be relieved by four blind windows, and over the middle window of the keeper's house will be a tablet bearing the city coat of arms. On the outside the frame is tightly closed some six inches below the draught, so that no refuse or dirt which may be floating on the surface of the water adjacent can get into the bathing place, while around the enclosure, on the inside, are seats, six inches wide and three inches thick, fastened at a distance of one and a quarter inch apart.

THE LOCATION

selected for the bath now ready is at the foot of Fifth street, East river, and the other one, now under way, is to be moored at the foot of Thirtieth street, North river. Should these be found to supply the pressing need in those localities, it is probable that others of the same kind, or perhaps larger, will be constructed and placed at convenient points on either side of the city.

From the description given above it may be seen that the projectors of the new régime are working earnestly to make a reform which has long been needed.

CLEANLINESS,

it is well known, is akin to godliness, and it is pretty generally believed, and justly so, that sound minds are to be found in sound bodies. The opportunities being afforded the denizens of crowded localities to obtain a refreshing bath without cost, and to enjoy pure air in well regulated

PARKS.

The improvement they may thus gain in their bodily health must have an invigorating influence on their minds, and the moral tone of the community will, therefore, under the workings of the new régime undoubtedly be improved. The music provided by the Department of Parks, will also tend to refine the minds and sentiments of the people generally, affording, as it does, amusement, entertainment and inducements for healthy recreation and relaxation from labor, which might otherwise not be sought or obtained by many who stand much in need of them. To-day, for instance, the residents in the neighborhood of Tompkins square will be entertained by the Central Park band in the square from five to seven o'clock P. M.; to-morrow, at the same hour, music will be given in Washington square, and on Thursday in Madison square. For to-day's entertainment the following programme has been arranged:—

2. Overture—Zampa....Herold
3. Air—The Exile of Erin....Moore

provided for under the new order of things is also being cared for. The official declaration of the result of the late election having been made the extra judges elect for the Marine Court met yesterday and drew lots, as provided by law, for the terms of occupancy. The result of the drawing gave Mr. George Shea the long term, Mr. P. J. Joachimsen the middle term and Mr. William H. Tracy the short term.

Under the provisions of the Tax Levy the Mayor and Comptroller were empowered to increase the salaries of the District Judges or any of them, according as the business coming before their courts might justify, to an amount equal to the salaries now paid the police justices. Yesterday it was finally determined that the business in the Fifth and Sixth District Courts was such as to justify the Mayor and Comptroller in exercising the power conferred on them by law, and they accordingly officially sanctioned the increase of the salaries of Judges Koch and Lane, and these two industrious and fortunate young jurists are, consequently, made quite happy.

Reorganization of the Board of Health—Dismissals and Appointments.

The long expected reconstruction of the Health Department, under the auspices of the régime, occurred somewhat suddenly yesterday afternoon in a secret session of the Board of Health. There had been an infinite amount of canvassing preparatory to the final action, but when once begun it proceeded smoothly to the end, showing that all had been thoroughly prepared beforehand. The first part of the programme was to accomplish the dismissal of present incumbents, which was done by a resolution declaring the following to be dismissed from the employment of the Health Department:—

Drs. Charles H. Roberts, Lucien Domainville, John T. Nagle, Henry O. Ely, William H. Denning, William H. B. Post, E. H. James, Augustus Viele and A. B. Judson, former Sanitary Inspectors.

Hornhead, Newell Chamberlain, John Bowne, Thomas J. Cox, Adolph Plaetnear, Norman H. Beach, William H. Marston, Jacob A. Weil, George S. Weil, Charles W. Sandford, James Hernon and H. Enderman.

The following appointments were then announced:—

The republicans have secured a fair share of these spoils, as three of the appointments of heads of bureaus have fallen to their share and almost half of the clerkships.

THE NATIONAL GAME.

Mutual vs. Forest City—Exciting Game.

There is but one way to account for the Mutual victory yesterday over the pride of Rockford, Ill., the Forest City Club, and that is the superior fielding of the New Yorkers. From the outset it was apparent that the Mutuals, if they could keep the Forest City lads down to in-field hitting and do but half as well as the visitors at the bat themselves, the game must be recorded in their favor. This they did in the first respect from the first, but only awoke to the necessity of doing the second also when half the game had been played, and then they were not down to steady hitting until the seventh inning. The pitcher of the visiting club has a troublesome delivery, made all the more so by a peculiar attitude or pose assumed just previous to the final swing. It is possible that the Mutual strikers lost at first by their admiration of his attitude interfering with judgment of striking at the ball. This having been overcome, however, and their attention no longer divided, they paid Mr. Spaulding off by knocking all the grace out of him, and attitudes and poses were left for the next occasion. The reputation preceding the Forest City boys was, to say the truth, greater than they can maintain. Let it not be understood, however, that they are poor ball players—that they are not, but their superiors can be found in and around New York very readily. The Mutuals donned their new dress yesterday, consisting of a white shirt, with the "slickest looking" letter M on the breast ever witnessed; sky blue pants that resembled

The youthful hose well saved,
By far too wide for their shrunk shanks;

and black caps, piratical caps, making their tout ensemble almost ridiculous. The Forest City lads were accoutred in a costume similar to that worn by the Mutuals last year—green stockings and white shirts and pants. The visitors expressed their admiration of the Union grounds, stating that nothing at all comparable with them has been met since or before leaving Rockford. To-day the visitors have a bout with the Atlantics on the same field, and, notwithstanding their defeat by the Mutuals yesterday, a gathering equal to that witnessing their first game will assuredly be on hand. Below is the score:—

Atlantics vs. Athletics—The Athletics Victorious.

PHILADELPHIA, May 30, 1870.

Notwithstaneing the wet weather a large crowd was attracted to the base ball ground to witness the game between the Atlantics of Brooklyn, and the Athletics of this city. Not less than 6,000 persons were present, who witnessed the most spirited game that has been played here this season. The fielding on both sides was excellent and the only muffing that occurred arose from the wet condition of the ball. The rain fell pretty steadily while playing the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh innings. The batting was good while the ball was in good condition, which had finally to be replaced by a new one, the old ball falling to pieces. The following is the score:—

THE PRESBYTERIAN SYNOD.

Ireland Hoping for the Disestablishment of the English Church.

The Synod of the Reformed Presbyterian Church, sitting in the Twenty-eighth street church, resumed its sessions yesterday morning. A letter of greeting was read from the Reformed Presbyterian Church of Ireland, which expressed the opinion that the only hope for the Episcopal Church in England was in its disestablishment. If placed upon the plane of the dissenting churches the dross among its clergy would be weeded out, and men of talent and religious fervor would be selected as preachers. This feature, the letter said, would become the rule in Ireland as soon as the recent law of disestablishment became fairly in force. The letter enlarged also upon the increasing influence of the foreign missions in the Irish Presbyterian Church.

The Synod occupied its time after the reading of this letter in debating amendments to its new Covenant or Confession of Sin. The discussion was continued during the afternoon. Last night the Rev. Dr. McAllister preached before the Synod, in the Twenty-third street church, on the love of money as the root of all evil.

MELANCHOLY RESULTS OF A FROLIC.

Two Young Men Injured and One Instantly Killed.

[From the Syracuse Journal, May 28.]

A sad accident occurred at Jordan on Wednesday afternoon, by which one young man lost his life and two others were injured. It appears that Charles Meach, son of Mr. George Meach, of Cayuga county, met Garry Fowler and Stephen Manwaring, of Peru, some four miles east of Jordan, when a proposition for a "jolly time" met with unanimous approval. The party visited several drinking places and became somewhat intoxicated and boisterous. Passing through one of the streets they took possession of a team and lumber wagon belonging to a Mr. Fowler, and commenced a circuit of the streets of the village at a furious pace. They had not proceeded far, however, when the team took fright and became unmanageable, running through the street at a fearful pace. In rounding a corner of the street the wagon was overturned and the three young men thrown violently upon the ground. People who were witnesses of the scene went to their relief and found Meach dead. His neck was broken. Manwaring suffered the fracture of one arm and Fowler sustained severe though not dangerous contusions. The injured men were kindly cared for and the deceased removed to a proper place.

YACHTING.

The New York and Atlantic Yacht Club Regattas—The Atlantic Club Regatta for Thursday Next—The New York Club Regatta Fixed for June 14—Entries, Rules, Allowances and Sailing Regulations.

The regatta of the Atlantic Yacht Club, to take place next Thursday, is the one subject of conversation in yachting circles; and the enthusiasm evinced at the bare mention of the approaching contest is convincing proof that no effort will be spared by those interested to make it one of the finest trials of seamanship and sailing qualities ever witnessed in New York bay. The committee having charge of the arrangements have devoted much of their time for the past six weeks to perfecting their plans for the comfort of those who are to participate as guests and spectators; and from the well known energy and liberality of those composing it complete success is assured. No doubt greater interest is manifested from the fact that the system of allowances adopted last year will now receive a final trial, and considerable anxiety is felt in regard to the fate of yachts which have, under the old regulations, been considered peerless.

THE ENTRIES.

The entries for schooners are the

Calypso,	Lois,	Madeline,
Tidal Wave,	Mystic,	Juniata.

Of the above the Madeline and Tidal Wave seem to be the favorites at present, though hopes are entertained by the owners and friends of the Mystic and Lois that, notwithstanding their disabilities under the rules, they will prove victors on the trial.

The following is a list of the sloops entered:—

First Class—Addie V., Gracie.

Second Class—Daphne, Qui Vive, Allaine, Fannie, Niagara, Orion, Richard Kelly.

Third Class—Annie, Athene, Nymbus, Salus, White Cap, Storm King.

Fourth Class—Apollo, Coquette, Flyaway, Jennie, Winnie, Vivid, Viking.

Of the sloops the preference is for the Addie V. and Gracie in the first class, and for the Daphne, Orion and Qui Vive in the second class. The Annie, in the third class, though winning the race in the contest last fall, will find a difficult task in repeating her success, while making the allowances prescribed. Her strongest competitors will be the Nymbus, Storm King, Salus and White Cap.

REGULATIONS.

I. The yachts of the fleet sailing in this regatta shall be classified as follows:—

SCHOONERS.

First class sloops—All over forty-eight feet on the water line.

Second class sloops—All over thirty-eight and not over forty-eight feet on water line.

Third class sloops—All over thirty feet and under thirty-eight feet.

Fourth class sloops—Open boats.

II. The yachts will sail from the anchorage, off a point between Delaplaine House and Hunt's Dock (to be selected by the Regatta Committee), and shall be anchored in their respective classes in lines—100 yards apart—schooners in advance and sloops in the rear, in order of classification. All yachts intending to sail in the regatta shall be at anchor, in line, with jibs down, promptly at half-past nine in the morning. The Regatta Committee will be at anchorage at quarter past nine o'clock, and will attend to placing the yachts. The choice of position shall be given to yachts in their respective classes in the order of their arrival; but no yacht must be closer to another than twice its own length.

III. Each yacht must have its own number (which will be assigned it by the Regatta Committee) in the centre of its mainsail, above the reefpoints, and shall fly the club flag at the main peak during the regatta.

IV. The judges will be at anchorage on a steamer provided for their use at fifteen minutes past nine A. M. They will observe the position of the yachts in line; also observe and take the correct time of the start, the signal for which will be given by the Regatta Committee on the guests' steamer, the Sleepy Hollow, and will be as follows:—At forty-five minutes past ten, first whistle, "prepare to get under way;" five minutes later, second whistle, "start;" when ever, yacht will start. There will be no deviation from the foregoing, unless by order of the committee, when due notice will be given to each yacht.

V. All yachts will weigh anchor at starting, except open boats.

THE COURSE.

The course for schooners and first class sloops will be from the anchorage down through the Narrows; to and around the stakeboat at the Southwest Spit; thence to and around the lightship, rounding the same from the southward and westward of beacon on Romer Shoals.

For second and third class sloops the same course to and around the Spit; thence to and around a stakeboat on outer bar, rounding the same from the southward; thence home, passing beacon on Romer Shoal to the southward and westward.

For fourth class sloops (open boats) same course to and around Southwest Spit; thence home.

All yachts to pass between forts Lafayette and Richmond, to the eastward of buoys 11, 13 and 15 on West Bank, both going and returning; around the stakeboat on Southwest Spit, from west to east, and around home stakeboat from east to west.

The following is rule seven of the regulations as amended:—"If any one yacht of the fleet (entered for the regatta) shall sail the course within eight hours it shall be considered a race for every class."

The following gentlemen will act as judges:—Messrs. William McMonnies, John B. Morgan and John A. Etnendorf.

THE GUESTS.

The guests and spectators will leave the foot of Montague street, Brooklyn, on board the steamer Sleepy Hollow at ten A. M., and the steamer will afterwards touch at Governor's Island to receive an additional party who have been invited to witness the contest. The Sleepy Hollow will accommodate 200 persons, and the refreshments, under the charge of Mr. A. B. Powell, will include all the delicacies of the season. The judges and members of the press will leave on the Virginia Seymour at eight o'clock and forty-five minutes.

New York Yacht Club Regatta.

The regatta committee of the New York Yacht Club, composed of Messrs. Philip Schuyler, Sheppard Homans and Henry C. Babcock, announce the following rules and regulations for the approaching regatta:—

The annual regatta of the New York Yacht Club will come off on Tuesday morning, June 14, at ten o'clock A. M. The value of the prizes for the two classes—sloops and schooners—is $200 for each class, and one prize of $100 for the second class of sloops.

The sailing courses and directions for the start are as follows:—A flagboat will be anchored abreast of the club house, Staten Island, about three-quarters of a mile from the shore, west of which the second class sloops will anchor in line about forty yards apart, the first class sloops in line 200 yards north, and the schooners in line 200 yards north of the first class sloops, about fifty yards apart. In taking position in the line each yacht may select its own in the order of its arrival at the anchorage, and the committee would suggest that the yachts arrive at the flagboat as early as possible, so that there may be no delay in the start. Mainsails, foresails and gaff topsails may be set before starting unless otherwise ordered by the committee. The signal for starting will be announced on the morning of the regatta. Yachts will proceed from the anchorage to the buoy of the Southwest Spit, passing it to the west and south, and thence to the lightship, rounding it to the northward and eastward, and return over the same course, passing to the west of the flagboat off the club house going and returning. Going and returning all the buoys on the West Bank, viz., Nos. 13, 11 and 9, are to be passed to the eastward.

Entries will be received until Saturday, June 11, 1870, closing at half-past ten A. M. precisely. They must be directed to the Secretary of the club and delivered at his office, 45 Liberty street, New York. Members will bear in mind that the present rules are materially changed, especially in regard to the forms of entering yachts for a regatta. The entries are kept open to the last minute allowed (forty-eight hours before the race), but it is desirable that they should be made earlier, that errors of form or omission may be corrected, which cannot be done after the hour for closing has been reached. Attention is called to the deposit of twenty-five dollars required at the time of entering a yacht for a regatta.

The steamer Middletown, furnished for the exclusive use of the members of the club and ladies accompanying them, will leave the foot of Desbrosses street at ten o'clock A. M. Before the start the steamer will touch at the lower landing of the Staten Island ferry, near the club house, to receive members on board. After the race is over the steamboat will call again at the lower landing, to leave those wishing to visit the club house, stopping at the same landing again at seven P. M. The steamtug F. C. Schultz, furnished for the use of the Regatta Committee, will leave foot of Desbrosses street at half-past nine o'clock A. M. precisely. For information on any matter connected with the regatta desired of the committee address H. Morton, Secretary, No. 45 Liberty street, New York.

SALE OF OIL PAINTINGS.

The lovers of the fine arts, and especially those who have abundant funds, have an opportunity for adding to their art galleries by a sale of original first class paintings. The entire collection, which is the property of Mr. A. D'Huyvetter, of Antwerp, will be offered for sale by the well known art auctioneers, Messrs. Leeds & Miner, next Thursday and Friday evenings. Many of these paintings have been recently imported and never before exhibited, purchased and ordered by him from the artists direct, and comprising fine examples of many of the best and most favorite European masters. Also a number of fine pictures by our well known American artists. The pictures are now on view, and we commend to the special attention of visitors Kuwasseg Fil's pictures (56 and 57), Geert's pictures (61 and 62) and Backer's "Shepherd's Story" (65), Portielge's "Interior" (75), Herzog's "Coast Scene" (88). A very fine canvas, "Herdsmen and Flock in Belgium," by O. Van Leemputten (171), and a landscape by B. C. Koekkoek (181) will doubtless excite a spirited bidding and are well worthy of competition.

THE NAVY.

Letter from Secretary Robeson in Regard to the Present Requirements of the Service.

WASHINGTON, May 30, 1870.

The following letter from Secretary Robeson to the chairman of the House Committee on Naval Affairs relative to expenses for material, officers and men for the naval service, has just been printed:—

NAVY DEPARTMENT, May 14, 1870.

SIR—I beg leave to offer at this time a few suggestions on the subject of the naval service and its necessary expenses for material and for officers and men, which may, perhaps, throw some light upon a subject seemingly little understood.

In the first place, let me say that there can be no fixed proportion between the amount of expenditures for material and necessary purposes and the number of officers and men employed in the service. The officers and men in the service cost neither more nor less than the aggregate of their pay, wages, provisions and medical attendance, while the estimates and expenditures for material purposes must vary each year, according to the actual state in which we find the navy material and the condition to which it is desirable that it should be brought, and this can be judged by no other standard than that of the public safety and necessity.

The navy requirements for materials, buildings, construction, preservation and repair of vessels, machinery, docks, &c.; are absolute, and appropriations for them are asked for because they are necessary for material purposes, be the number of men in the service larger or smaller, just as the army requirements for fortifications, &c., are considered needful and are estimated for, whether the army be increased or diminished.

The unexpended balances of appropriations, varying from time to time, make, of necessity, a corresponding difference in the estimates and in the appropriations called for. This difference is likely to lead a careless observer into mistake, but the difference in the situation is easily understood. For instance, there being on hand for army ordnance an unexpended balance of eight millions, no further appropriation for that purpose is asked for; the navy ordnance, having no unexpended balance on hand, asks for something more than a million. But it would be a mistake to infer from these facts that the navy is either more expensive or less economical than the army.

It is constantly alleged, as matter of complaint, that there are too many naval officers in the service, especially of the higher grades, and that the number of officers in these grades is larger than it was before the war. This complaint is founded on error of both fact and opinion. As matter of fact, the average number of officers of the three highest grades (captains, commanders and lieutenants) for 1858-59-60 on the active list was 518. On the 1st of January, 1870, the number of officers of the eight highest grades on the active list was 421, or ninety-nine less than before the war. The proportion of officers on the active list to the necessities of the service, with the existing number and classes of vessels, is about right.

Our naval organizations are small, and in service are largely separated from and independent of each other. Each organization, however small, must be complete in itself for every purpose of service, with its complement of officers, sufficient in number and experience for every kind of duty and responsibility. More than one-half of the officers on the active list are now actually at sea; but they cannot—no officer can or should—remain always at sea. The efficiency of the service and common humanity alike require that they should have regular relief from their distant and dangerous duties. But if this were otherwise still they must come home in the ships which carried them out, because the seamen are enlisted for only three years, and must be returned to the United States for discharge, and their officers must come with them. There are, however, other reasons why all the officers cannot be kept always at sea. They are needed for shore duty—duty required by law—duty as essential to the efficiency, good order and safety of the navy as is sea service itself.

Ships are neither built nor manned, nor armed, nor equipped, nor largely repaired at sea. All the business connected with the building, preserving and repairing of war vessels, with recruiting and enlisting men, with providing ordnance, means for navigation, equipment, provisions, clothing, medicines, hospitals, &c., must be attended to on land. Hence the necessity of navy yards and naval stations and an adequate number of officers and men to manage, conduct and protect them.

The education of cadet midshipmen requires its quota of both officers and vessels. Courts martial and courts of inquiry, composed of commissioned officers, as required by law, are as indispensable in administering naval law and justice as are civil courts in civil affairs. Boards of examination and retiring boards are required by law, and boards of survey and inspection are a constant convenience and necessity. Officers are also constantly required and employed on other important duty not connected with the several squadrons, some in acquiring a knowledge of the civil code, some, under requirement of law, on the Lighthouse Board, with the Coast Survey, the Observatory and Hydrographic Office; some, in obedience to resolutions of Congress, in making soundings for telegraphic cables, and some in exploring the routes of the great inter-oceanic canal.

Officers of competent rank, knowledge and experience are required for all these duties, alike by the necessities of the service and the provisions of existing laws. Whether they are engaged in active duty or waiting orders, justice and sound policy concur in requiring—what existing laws also require—that the pay of naval officers shall to some extent continue. If this were not common justice it would be at least common prudence. No maritime and naval Power has ever been, or ever will be, guilty of the folly of turning its naval officers adrift the moment their cruise is ended.

Navy officers fit for important commands require the training and experience of years, and cannot be obtained at a moment's notice nor be called into existence by proclamation any more than can ships, dockyards, arsenals or ordnance, none of which can be legislated into being, even upon the spur of rebellion or invasion.

It must not be forgotten that a ship-of-war, armed, equipped, manned, and officered for efficient service, is the combined result of much labor, skill, science, training, discipline and experience, produced by slow processes and organized with care.

We are claiming to be a great naval Power; and yet, while the necessity for a naval force commensurate with our commerce and rapidly extending territory and trade becomes daily more and more urgent, we are apparently forgetful of, or indifferent to, the fact that ships and naval organizations cannot be extemporized like regiments, but are, as I have said, the growth and product of long-continued industry and skill.

I beg leave to remark, in this connection, that merchant steamers, whether of iron or wood, built as they now are in this country, can be of little value in time of war, except as privateers. As such they would be terrible foes to the enemy's commerce. But they cannot encounter war ships, for they are not built to carry heavy batteries nor to resist the action of heavy shot or shell. While, therefore, they would, for many purposes, form a valuable auxiliary of our force, they cannot be relied on as the main body of the navy.

If we are to have a navy, if our naval vessels are expected to encounter hostile ships, we must, as formerly, have ships of corresponding size and force to meet them, as well as officers and seamen equal in training and skill with those of the enemy.

Meanwhile, it would, undoubtedly, be a wise economy in time of peace to use, as far as possible, small vessels in the service, as these may be employed with small crews and, distributed more widely, would fulfil with the small force allowed, more nearly the requirements of the naval service. But we have very few small ships worth repairing, and thus the force allowed is now concentrated more than should be the case in the larger ships and at remote points. But assuredly this is not the fault of the administration. Let the needful means and authority be given and proper ships of each class will follow as soon as industry and skill can produce them.

There is some suggestion that we have too many navy yards along our coasts. But all naval preparation must have regard to the needs of war as well as of peace. Should we engage in a maritime war, the folly of having but one naval station on a long line of Atlantic coast would, I think, become evident to the most careless observer. We should then find the need of yards in favorable situations, in order to multiply facilities in different latitudes for the shelter and for the building, repairing and fitting out of ships and for the defence of our maritime towns and harbors.

One of the most pressing present needs is for more dry docks. If these be denied and we are to have no permanent improvements in our yards on the Atlantic and Gulf coasts, we should at least have the means and authority to build a floating dock, which could if need be go to sea and be sent to Key West or some other convenient point to save the expense of time and money consumed by sending every ship that needs repair, however slight, to some Northern yard. Such a dock would save its cost in a single year.

Building material should also be stored up, particularly timber, for seasoning (of which not a stick, not a knee, is now on hand), and the building of powerful cruising ships should be commenced as soon as the material can be procured. We require also to be provided with heavy ordnance, with guns equal to any that can be found in European naval batteries.

Naval guns of large calibre—e. g., the eleven or fifteen inch guns, have been proved to be among the best, if not the very best, yet produced. Not one has ever burst in action. The muzzles of two of them were broken off at the bombardment of Fort Fisher, not, however, from any weakness in the guns, but because they fitted too tightly in the portholes and could not stand the consequent vibration. They have always stood the extreme test of constant firing. Guns of this character are produced slowly, and should be cast and in readiness for use as rapidly as circumstances will permit.

The submarine torpedo was found, during the late rebellion, to be of immense importance for both offensive and defensive purposes. Torpedoes and torpedo schools and practice have been already adopted into European naval service, and we must keep pace with them and be prepared to use, as well as to encounter, this new and formidable instrument of warfare. A wise economy requires that adequate means be provided for this purpose.

I have made these brief suggestions, most of them already alluded to in my annual report, and all of them lying on the surface of the subject, for the purpose of representing some of the necessities of the naval service and of answering some of the most common mistakes of those who are in the habit of complaining of its administration and expenses.

I do not expect to satisfy those, if any such there be, who wish to be discontent, but only those who desire that the power of our government shall be recognized abroad, and its dignity maintained, and that the spirit of our institutions shall be felt for good on foreign shores. Such I would respectfully remind that, while our nation, proud and progressive, with a long coast line, an enterprising people and large commercial interests, must constantly accept foreign relations, obligations and duties the most important and difficult and sometimes dangerous, we are yet without adequate means of illustrating our principles or of enforcing a foreign policy. Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEORGE M. ROBESON, Secretary of the Navy.

Hon. G. W. SCOFIELD, Chairman Committee on Naval Affairs, House of Representatives.

Personal Notes.

The death of Jerome Bonaparte was widely reported yesterday. The report, however, was untrue. On inquiry it is learned that his health, though poor, is better than it has been for several days.

General Jeff Thompson has just returned to New Orleans after making an elaborate survey of the obstructions to navigation from Bayou Fusilier to the mouth of the Teche, by order of the government.

At a church fair in Kansas City, a set of bedroom furniture was voted to a young lady, with the understanding that, if she was not married in a year, the furniture should be returned to the church. She is now on the war path armed with a bedstead.

J. W. Huckabee and E. T. Yarborough, both young men of Augusta, Ga., recently fought, shot, but neither bled, on one of the public streets in that city.

Ben Holladay, the well known overland express pioneer, is mixing very thick in Oregon politics. It is alleged that politics are all in his eye, and that he is on the lookout for land grants for railroad purposes.

The Brandon (Miss.) Republican states that General Robert Lowry has received a long and friendly letter from General W. W. Loring, dated Cairo, Egypt. General Loring is in the military service of the Viceroy, with the rank of brigadier general, is well pleased, and speaks in high terms of the Viceroy.

THE POLICE AGITATED.

What "The Little Superintendent" Saw on "Grand Tours," and What Somebody Heard About It.

Superintendent Jourdan went the "grand rounds" among the station houses of the city on Saturday night, and, as he says, "saw some queer things." He has made a report to the Board, and, as a consequence, at a session held yesterday the following doormen, whom he found asleep in their several station houses, were dismissed from the department:—

James M. Bell, Second precinct; Daniel Harlow, Third precinct, and John Harlow Farrell, Twenty-sixth precinct. In each of these houses he also found the sergeant in charge neglecting his duty, and has made formal complaints against them, which will be tried on Friday. The date of all of the offences is between three and four o'clock A. M. of the 29th inst., when he found Sergeant Walter B. Sandford, Second precinct, lying on a table in the sitting room; Sergeant George W. Townsend, Third precinct, lying on two chairs asleep, and Sergeant William J. Robinson, Twenty-sixth precinct, lying down in a back room. In each of these cases the sergeant should have been seated behind the desk in the office, and it is presumed that they will all be dismissed the department, as their offence is greater than that of the doormen, who have already suffered.

A CHILD KILLED BY PAREGORIC.

Dr. Morris, of the Board of Health, yesterday sent a communication to the Coroner's office, in which it was stated that Mrs. Ehegott, of 283 Monroe street, had given to each of her twin children, fourteen days old, ten drops of paregoric to induce sleep and quietude. The medicine, doubtless, was innocently administered, but in the case of one of the infants it had proved fatal, while the other child, although quite ill, is likely to recover. Dr. Nichols, of East Broadway, is in attendance upon the living infant. Coroner Rollins took charge of the case, preparatory to instituting an investigation

A NARROW ESCAPE FROM THE COILS OF A BLACK SNAKE.—Lately a party were rambling in the woods near the town of Newfane, when one of the youngest, a lad about twelve years old, named "Cob" Walsh, accidentally stepped upon the tail of a black snake. Like lightning the serpent raised its length—one of six feet three inches—into view and wound it round the boy's leg, at the same time advancing its head in the snake-like, threatening manner. It is needless to say the boy was scared, and there is no guessing at the result of the fierce attack had not the spunk of a dog accompanying him been aroused to the pitch of taking hold of the serpent, at which the black coils were loosened and his serpentine majesty dropped to the ground, after which he was summarily despatched by a well directed shot from a gun in the hands of a young man accompanying the party.—Lockport (Iowa) Journal.

TROTTING AT THE UNION COURSE, L. I.

Third Day of the Meeting—Seven Starters for the 2:30 Purse, and Dreadnaught the Winner.

A capital trotting contest came off yesterday afternoon over the Union Course between seven very evenly matched horses. The race was for a purse of $1,000, $600 to the first horse, $250 to the second and $150 to the third, mile heats, best three in five, in harness. The entries were Alexander Patterson's chestnut gelding Dreadnaught, M. Roden's chestnut gelding Prince, Dan Mace's bay gelding Dresden, Mr. Lovell's bay mare Topsey, F. J. Nodine's brown mare Eastern Queen, Mr. Fay's bay gelding Captain Gill and John Murphy's chestnut mare Louise. Dreadnaught won the first, third and fourth heats and the first purse. Prince won the second heat, and being second in all the other heats took the second prize. Dresden won the third money, beating the next best horse.

Dreadnaught, the winner, was little cared for by speculators, being sold among the field. In fact, if he had been sold alone he would not have brought five dollars against one hundred, his previous record being so very faulty. He has been on the turf three or four years, has won occasional heats, but we never knew him to win a race, on account of his provoking unsteadiness. He always showed himself a fast horse, but would break up when leading at his ease, without cause or warning, and lots of money has been lost on him at different times. He yesterday, however, trotted very steadily and won a capital race in very excellent time considering the heavy condition of the track.

THE BETTING.

For several days past Prince has been the favorite in some private betting at odds against the field. Apart from the pool sales he was the favorite at even money yesterday against the field. The following are some of the pools sold before the race began:—

Prince	$25	50	70	65	50	75	100	100	70
Topsey	10	23	29	20	26	35	40	45	38
Louise	6	15	12	13	15	14	20	30	20
The Field	8	13	13	15	24	37	50	81	26

After the first heat, which was won in a very handy manner by Dreadnaught, Prince was still the favorite at nearly two to one, and not until Dreadnaught had won the third heat did things take a change, and Dreadnaught was then sold for favorite. A great deal of money changed hands, the backers of Prince falling very heavily on their favorite. He beat all the other horses in the field, but Dreadnaught was too steady and had too much foot for him as the result proved.

THE RACE.

First Heat—Dreadnaught won the pole. Louise the second place, Topsey third, Dresden fourth, Prince fifth, Eastern Queen sixth, and Captain Gill the outside. They scored nine times before the word was given. They were well bunched when they crossed the score, Eastern Queen having rather the best of the send off, but she soon lost the lead; Dreadnaught was second, Dresden third, Topsey fourth, Prince fifth, Captain Gill sixth, and Louise last. Going around the upper turn Dreadnaught went to the front, closely followed by Topsey, Eastern Queen third, Captain Gill fourth, Dresden fifth, Prince sixth, with Louise bringing up the rear. The leader passed the quarter pole in thirty-seven and three-quarter seconds, the others following in the order given above. Going down the backstretch Dreadnaught opened a gap of four lengths, Eastern Queen being second, Prince going up and taking third place, then came on Topsey, Dresden, Captain Gill and Louise. At the half-mile pole, when Dreadnaught was leading five lengths in 1:15¾, he broke up and lost about three lengths, but getting settled soon again he began opening the gap on Eastern Queen. Prince closed rapidly and took second place on the lower turn, and his backers seemed in ecstasies under the belief that he would soon cut down Dreadnaught, by carrying him to a break; but the latter kept up his rapid stroke, and led two lengths on to the homestretch, Prince second, Eastern Queen third, Topsey fourth, Dresden fifth, Captain Gill sixth, and Louise seventh. Coming up the homestretch Dreadnaught kept the lead and Prince could not gain an inch on him, until he was within thirty yards of the goal, when Dreadnaught broke up, but was caught on his trot just as he landed on the score, and he won the heat by a length, Prince second, three lengths ahead of Dresden, who was one length ahead of Eastern Queen, Topsey fifth, Louise sixth, and Captain Gill last. Time 2:32½.

Second Heat.—Prince was the favorite against the field at two to one. Eastern Queen and Dresden were the leaders at the start, Dreadnaught third, Topsey fourth, Prince fifth, Louise sixth and Captain Gill seventh, all well together. At the quarter pole, which was passed in forty seconds, Dresden led two lengths, Prince second, Topsey third, Dreadnaught fourth, Captain Gill fifth, Eastern Queen sixth, Louise bringing up the rear, having broken up on the turn. On the backstretch Prince outfooted Dresden and took the lead about half-way down, and at the half-mile pole, in 1:18, he led one length, Dresden second, Topsey third, Dreadnaught fourth, Louise fifth, Captain Gill sixth and Eastern Queen seventh. Prince continued to lead one length around the lower turn and into the homestretch, when Dresden went up to him and carried him to a break. Dresden, however, soon afterwards broke up himself, and at the drawgate they were side by side. Dresden again lost his feet, and Prince came in a winner of the heat by one length in 2:34¼. Topsey was a good third, having closed up finely at the finish; Dreadnaught fourth, Louise fifth, Captain Gill sixth and Eastern Queen seventh.

Third Heat.—Prince was now a greater favorite than ever, three to one being laid on him in some instances. Topsey had the best of the send-off, Prince second, Dreadnaught third, Captain Gill fourth, Louise fifth, Dresden sixth, Eastern Queen seventh. Going around the upper turn Dreadnaught went to the front, followed closely by Topsey, Prince third, Captain Gill fourth, Louise fifth, Dresden sixth and Eastern Queen seventh. The leader passed the quarter pole one length ahead, in thirty-eight and a half seconds, with the others in the order given above. Dreadnaught kept the lead down the backstretch, Topsey second, with Prince closing rapidly on her, the others following on in open order. At the half-mile pole Dreadnaught led one length, Topsey second, a neck in front of Prince, who was several lengths in advance of Captain Gill, Dresden fifth, Louise sixth and Eastern Queen last. The time to the half-mile pole was 1:16¾. Going around the lower turn Prince broke up and Topsey took second place, Dreadnaught opening a gap of three lengths, which he brought into the homestretch. Patterson, his driver, selected the centre of the stretch for the horse, and nursing him carefully brought him home an easy winner by three lengths, Prince second, half a length ahead of Topsey, who was three lengths in advance of Captain Gill, the latter leading Dresden one length; Eastern Queen sixth and Louisa seventh. Time of the heat, 2:32¾.

Fourth Heat.—Dreadnaught was now the favorite, selling for $55, while Prince brought $30, while $25 was all that was given for all the others. Captain Gill took the lead, Louise second, Dresden third, Dreadnaught fourth, Prince fifth, Topsey sixth and Eastern Queen seventh. Going around the turn Dreadnaught dashed through the other horses, and was on the lead at the quarter pole in forty seconds, Dresden second, Prince third, Captain Gill fourth, Topsey fifth, Eastern Queen sixth and Louise last. Going down the backstretch there was no change of positions, Dreadnaught leading past the half-mile pole in 1:18, about two lengths ahead of Prince, who was two lengths in advance of Dresden, the others lapped so that daylight was not visible between them. Prince made a desperate effort to overtake Dreadnaught on the lower turn, but just as he reached his wheel he broke up and lost a couple of lengths. As soon as he recovered he went to work in earnest again to catch him, and the struggle up the homestretch was highly exciting. Dreadnaught kept up his steady, quick stroke and landed on the score a winner by a length, Prince second, three lengths in front of Dresden, who beat Topsey a length, Louise fifth, Eastern Queen sixth and Captain Gill last. The time of the heat was 2:33¾. The following is a

This is the last day of the spring meeting at the Union Course, and the trotting will close with a contest between American Girl, George Palmer and George Wilkes. American Girl was the favorite yesterday against the field.

The Prospect Park Fair Ground Association began their spring meeting to-day with a fine programme, consisting of a purse for three minute horses, and a team race between three of the fastest teams in America, probably in the world.

"LOVE POWDERS"—A QUEER CASE.—Harriet Washington commenced a suit this morning against one Alexander Hamilton, who, under the pretence that he could restore the fires of affection in the bosom of her recreant lover administered nine "love potions" to Harriet, for which he charged her and received twenty-five dollars. The woman also gave him a gold cross, believing implicitly in his pretensions, and desiring to fittingly recompense him for the magnificent treasure he was going to bestow upon her—a lost love. After waiting a considerable time she found that the potions did not have the desired effect, although she had carefully followed directions in taking them. In fact, her lover appeared to think less and less of her, and "shoo-flyed" her at every approach. Losing faith in the physic she made inquiries about Hamilton, and learned that he was a swindler in active practice. She has, therefore, brought suit against him for the recovery of her money and trinket. Hamilton was arrested this morning.—Charleston Republic, May 27.
